ADMINISTRATION 193

Bellarmino has always been considered a school of tradition. One important aspect of this tradition must certainly be Fr. Joseph Geary. Fr. Geary and his twin brother Fr. John Geary celebrated their Golden Jubilee in 1984, marking 50 years of service to the Jesuits and to God. For Fr. Joseph Geary, 19 of those years have been spent at Bellarmine.

A man of life, as well as an inspiration to all students who come in contact with him, Fr. Geary's devotion to the classics and to teaching young men have given us a perfect example of the Jesuit motto, "Ad Maiorem Dei Gloriam".

19841985. One-thousand-two-hundred and fifty students spending nine months together on one campus, creating what can only be described as a lively atmosphere. Considering that each of these students is in some way different from one another, Bellarmine also gives new meaning to the word diverse. By breaking all laws of physics and re-defining the theories of contemporary sociology, this diversity somehow gets along.

No yearbook can ever hope to equally cover, or even represent this diversity in whole, but it can give the reader a feeling of the excitement that is created throughout the school year. So, with the hope of this one goal being accomplished, we invite you to read on, and explore the year in review.

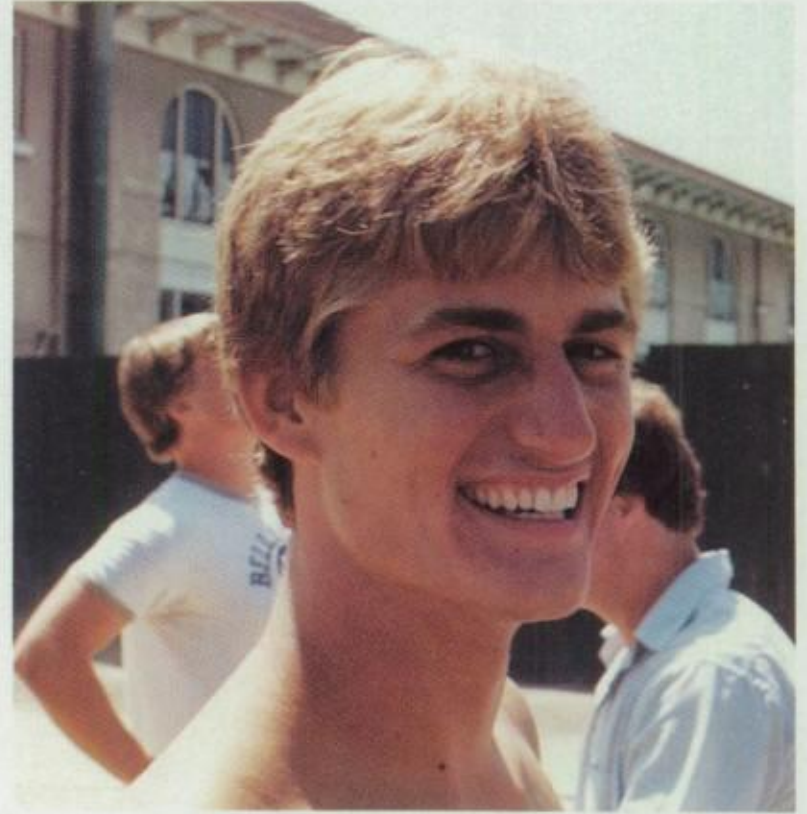

Seniors patrol the halls for frosh.

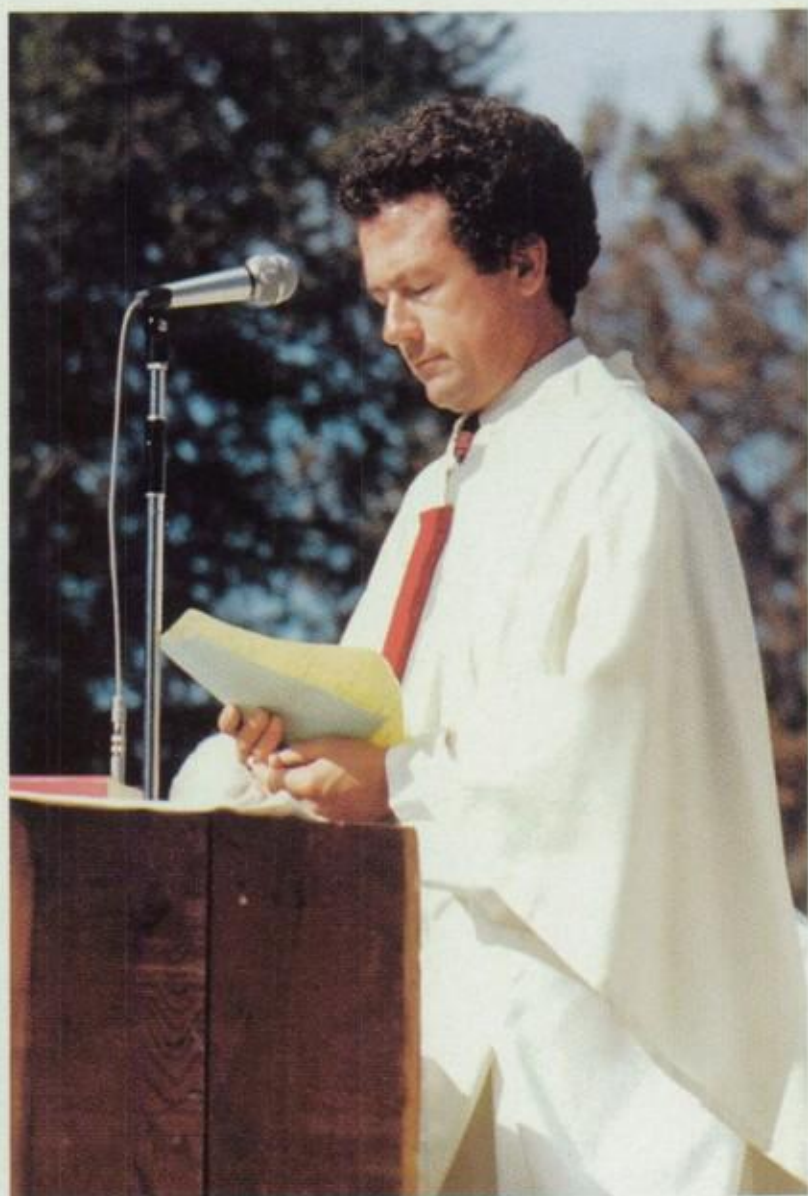

Varsity they ain't.

BEGINNING OF A NEW ERA

Freshman orientation. Amidst all the confusion, balloon tosses, earth balls, and general paranoia, one comes to the realization that one is finally a high school student. The problems, challenges, decisions, and adventures of a high school student will eventually be faced as one begins his journey from 9th to 12th grade. Have fun!

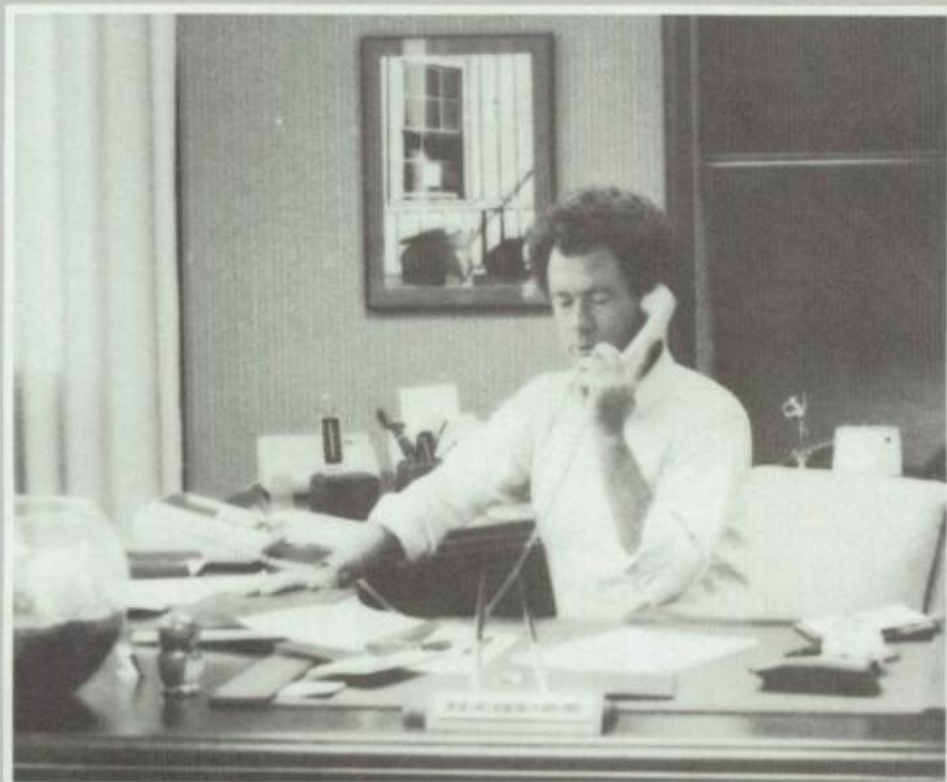

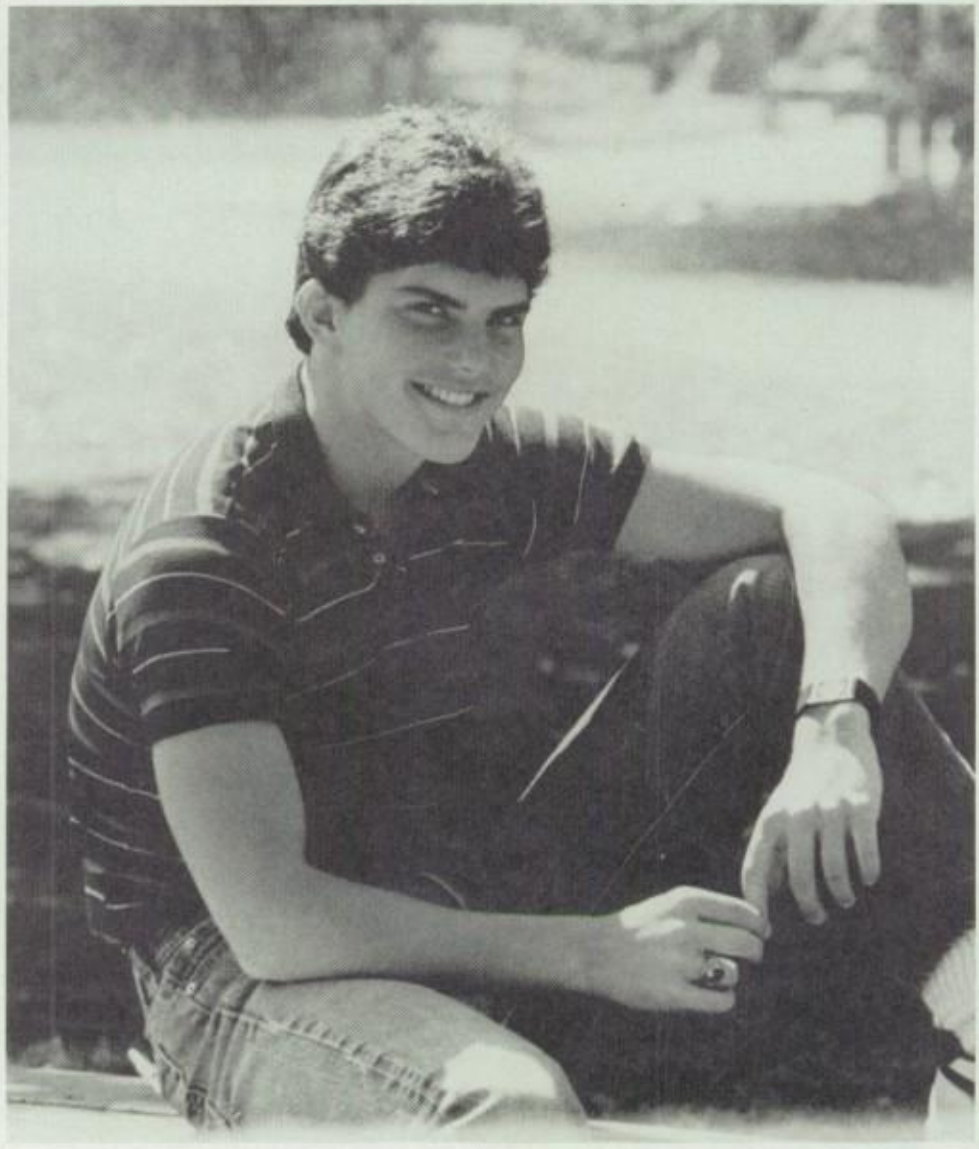

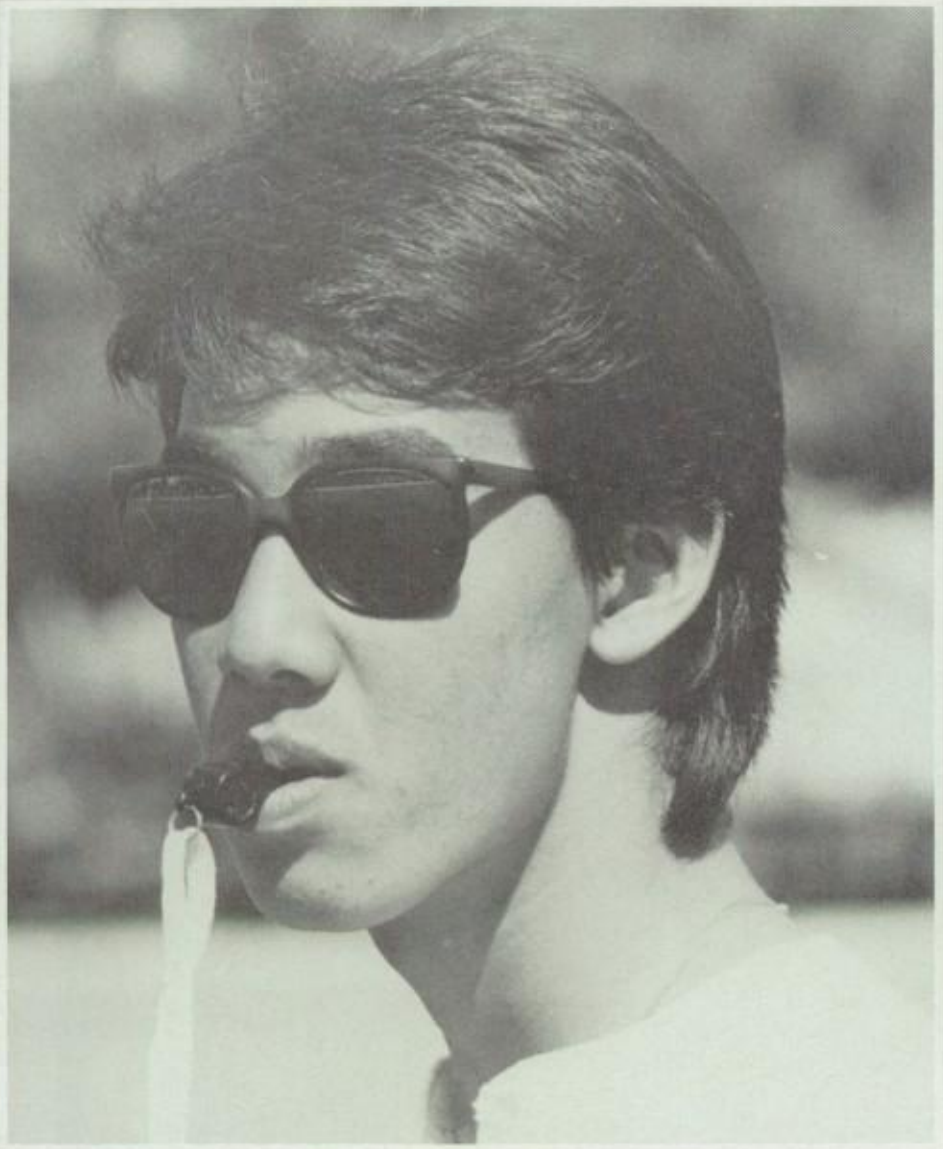

Dare to be revolutionary! As Fr. Bisenius tells us to dare to go forward as men for others, Bellarmine students reflect upon the upcoming year during the opening liturgy.

Two years ago, an era ended when O'Donnell Hall closed its doors to boarders. This year marked the beginning of a new era as a renovated O'Donnell Hall became the location of 21 classrooms, two computer labs and various administrative offices.

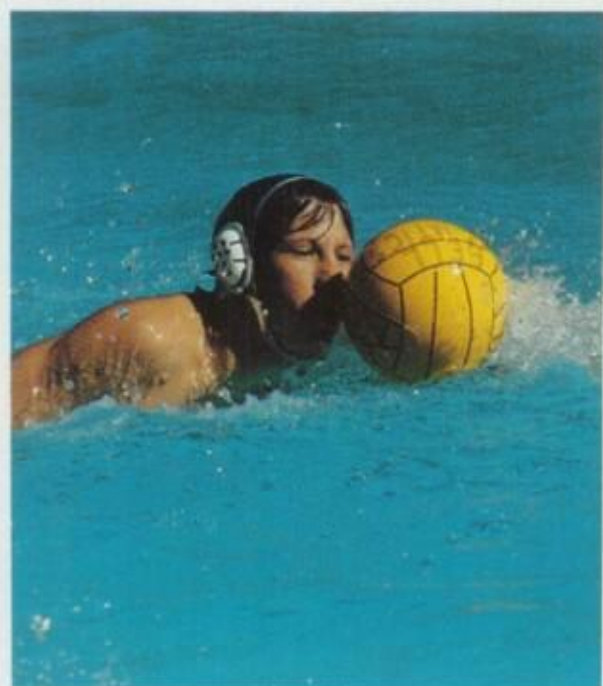

In spite of some minor inconveniences such as overcrowded stairways, the addition of this "new" building has added greatly to the Bellarmine community through its beauty as well as its added space.

Don't worry about the grades, we'll just put you on the five-year plan.

JUNIORS

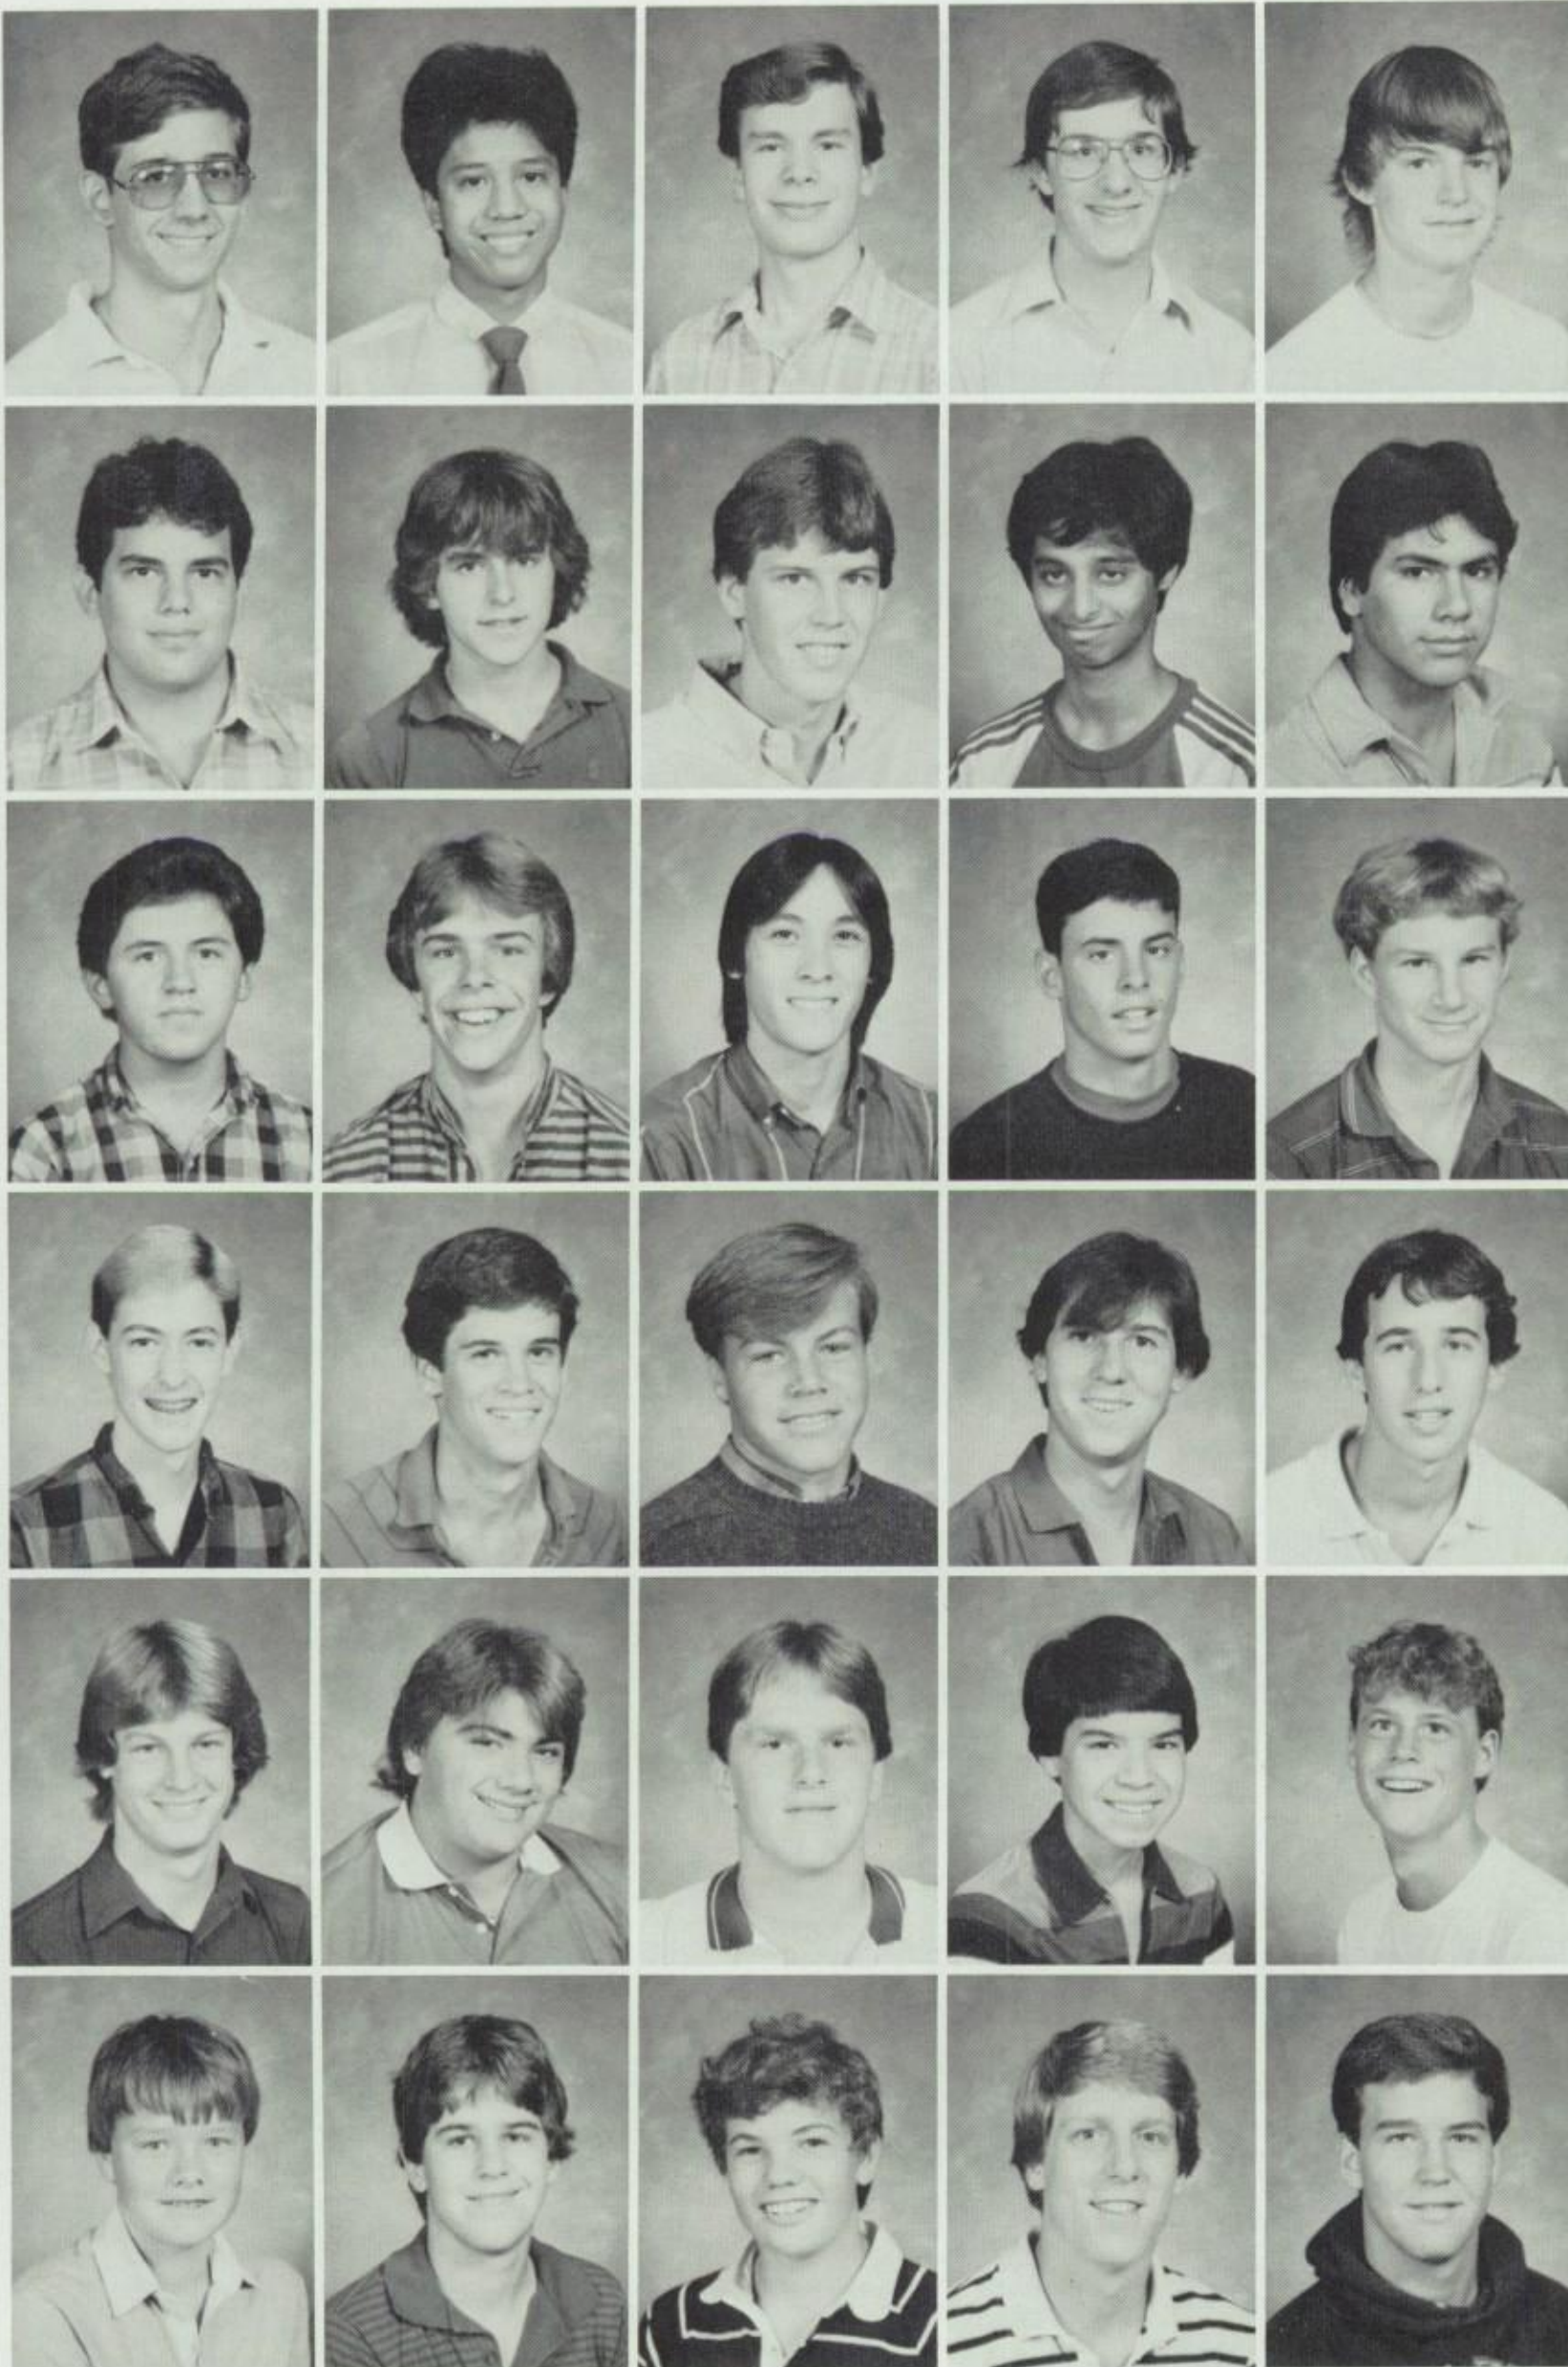

JUST ONE MORE

OKAY, JUNIORS. You have one year left as Bellarmen. With only one year left, providing, of course, that you have just about finished your junior year, some helpful advice may be in order:

1. Freshmen do not SELL lawn passes, they BUY them.
2. Remember when the U.C. application deadline is.
3. Senior year is supposed to be fun.
4. At all costs, avoid senioritis.
5. At all costs, be able to look back after graduation and say, "I am glad I went to Bellarmine".

OKAY, JUNIORS. Or should we say, future seniors, the class of '86 is a special class in innumerable ways. Do your best to live up to that standard. No one will think any less of you if you do not, make sure you don't think less of yourself for not accomplishing what you wanted to do these first three years either. And come on, chemistry wasn't that bad, was it?

For the Junior class poll, we found the answers to be a bit more thoughtful and sincere. However, how anyone can put much thought into these questions is a wonder to us. Due to the enthusiasm of the class of '86 in trying to give us our answers, quite a bit of time was spent sorting through the myriad of replies which did nothing at all to inspire our confidence in next year's seniors.

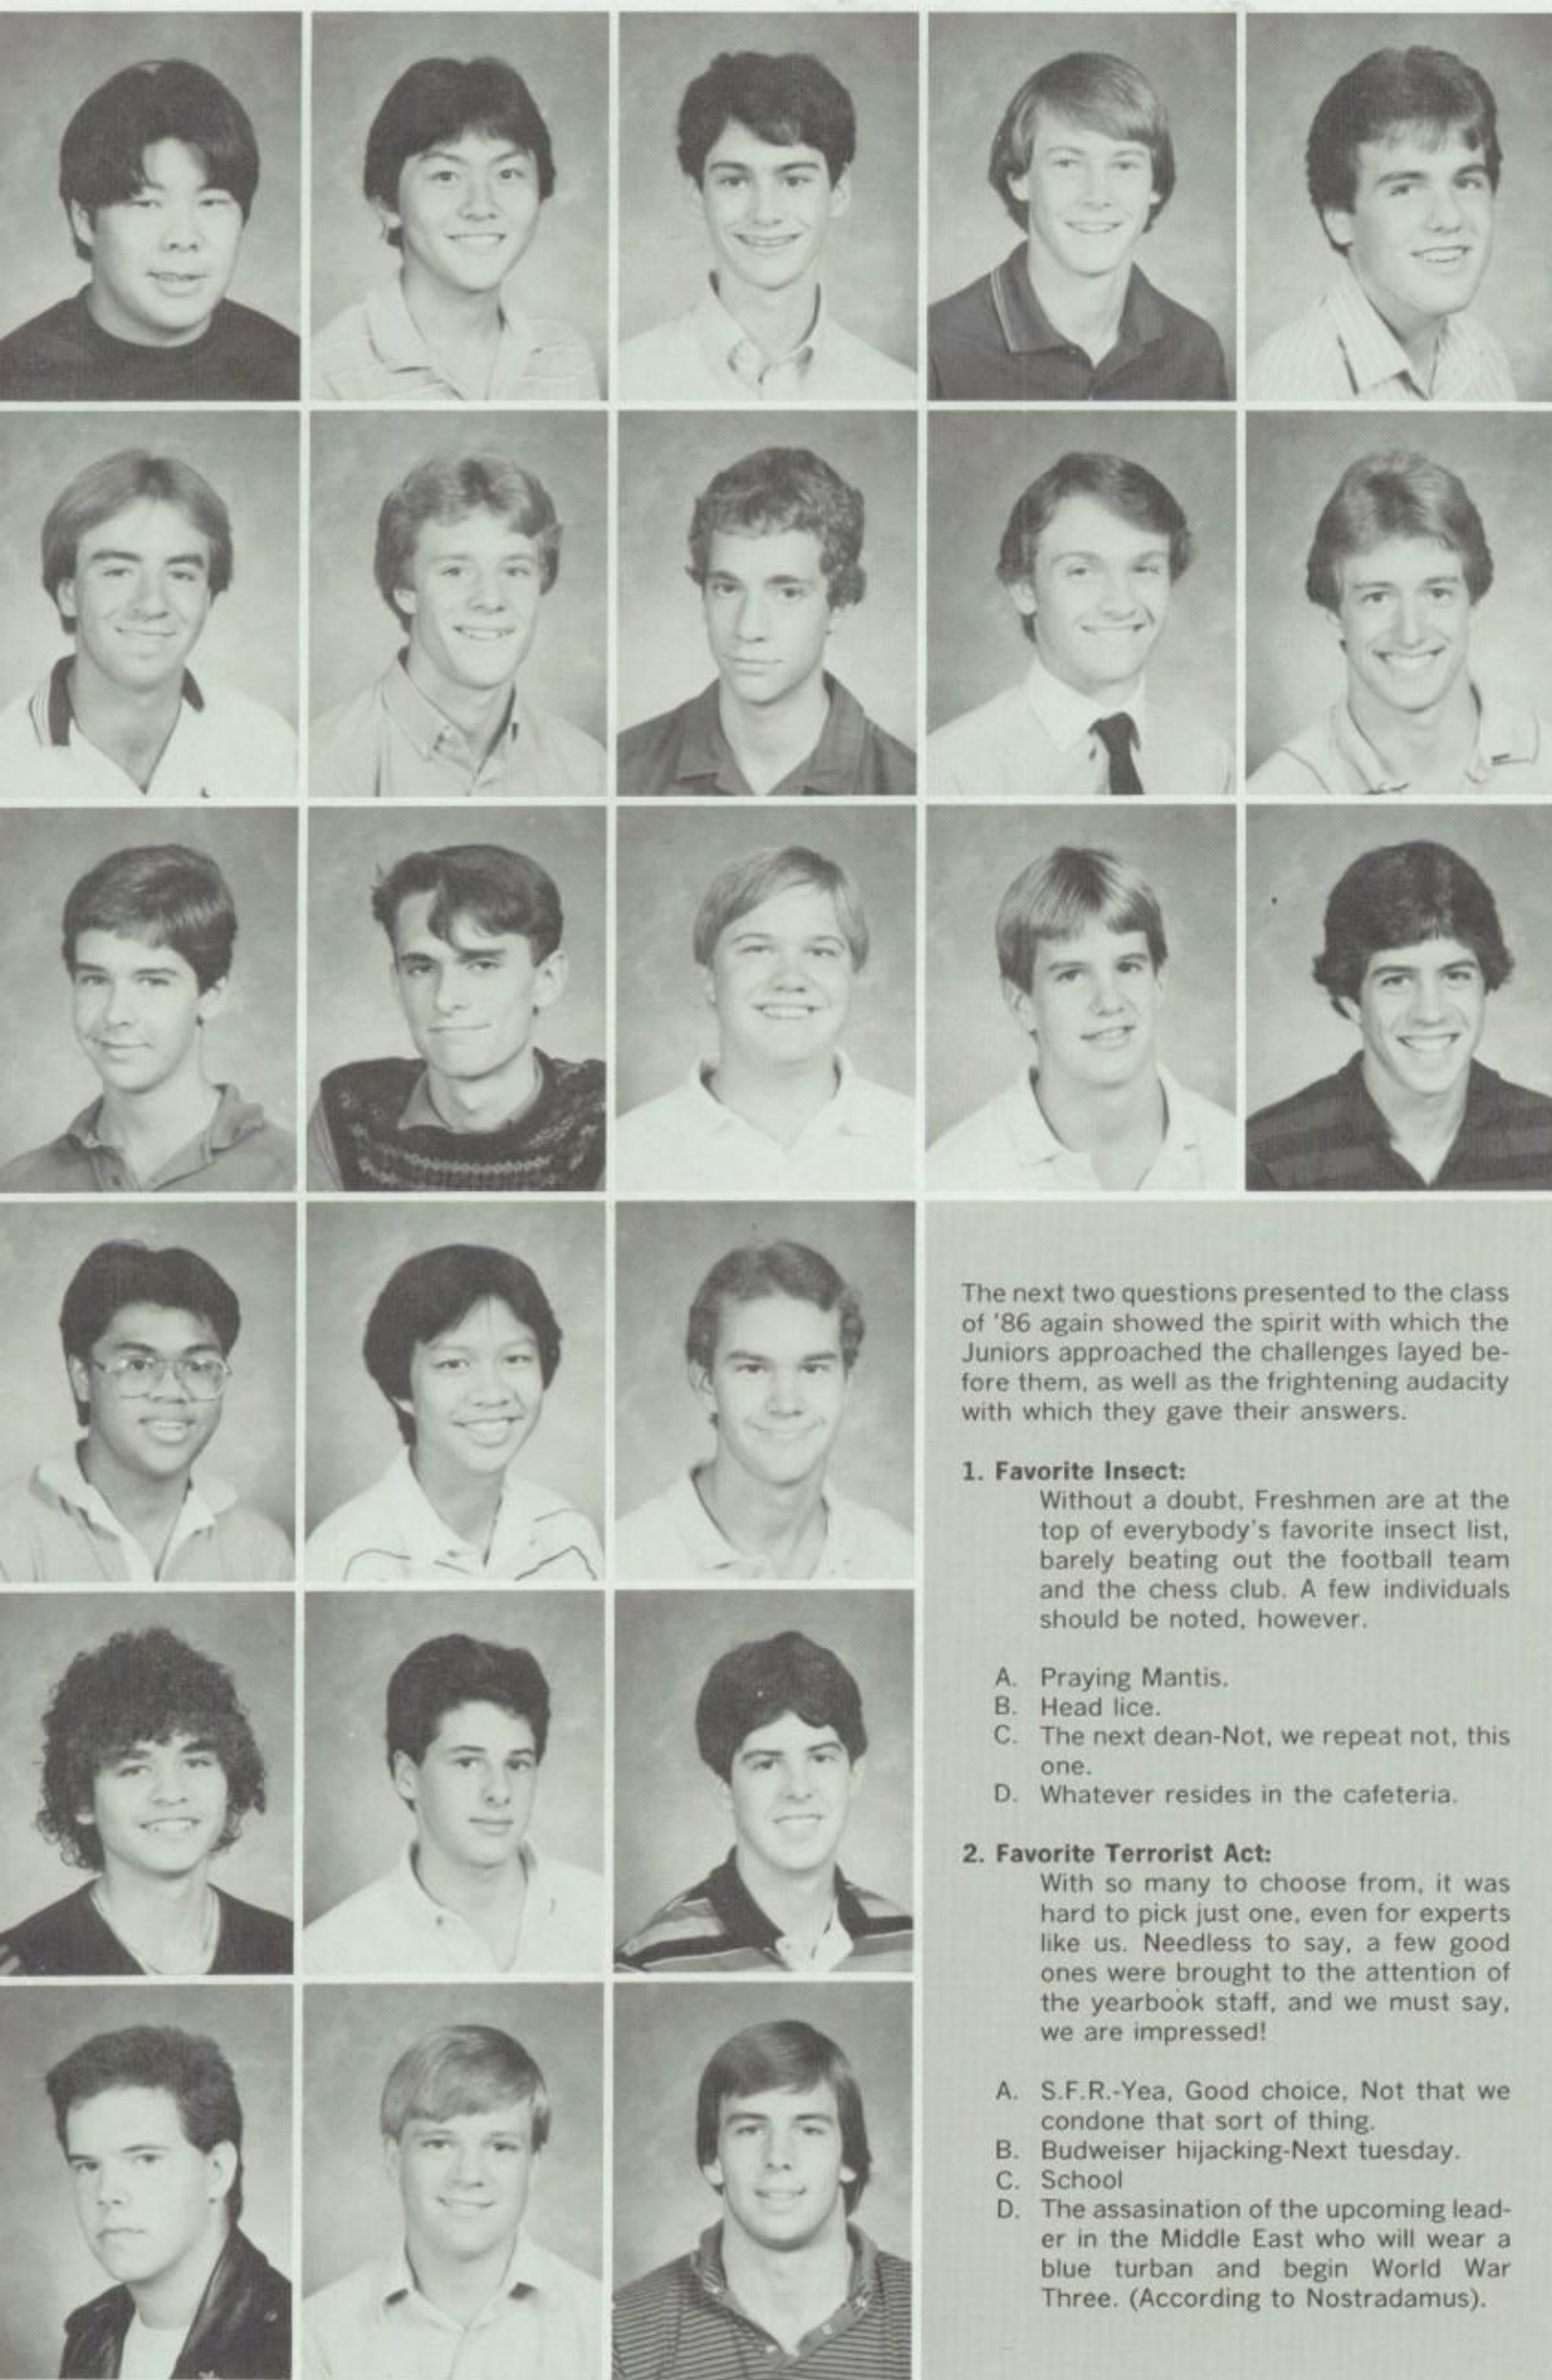

1. Favorite musician or group:

- A. Hank Williams- .623%
- B. Van Halen-Many, many, many people
- C. Dead Kennedys- Not very many people
- D. Mr. Sondreal- 4.27%
- E. Berlin- too many people
- F. Menudo- an insignificant number of people
- G. Boston Pops- A couple more than Menudo

2. Next Dean:

- A. Son Of Sam
- B. Sid Vicious- The number of people who voted for this man is frightening.
- C. Fr. Lentz and Mrs. Lundgard
- D. Mr. Phelan- Almost as frightening as Sid.
- E. Mr. and Mrs. Freitas
- F. Not Fr. McFadden.
- G. John Hinkley Jr.
- H. Chuck Manson-Not quite as frightening as Mr. Phelan.

The next two questions presented to the class of '86 again showed the spirit with which the Juniors approached the challenges layed before them, as well as the frightening audacity with which they gave their answers.

1. Favorite Insect:

Without a doubt, Freshmen are at the top of everybody's favorite insect list, barely beating out the football team and the chess club. A few individuals should be noted, however.

- A. Praying Mantis.
- B. Head lice.
- C. The next dean-Not, we repeat not, this one.
- D. Whatever resides in the cafeteria.

2. Favorite Terrorist Act:

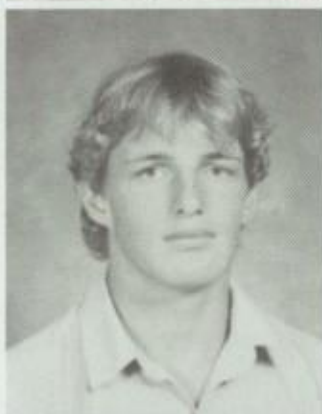

With so many to choose from, it was hard to pick just one, even for experts like us. Needless to say, a few good ones were brought to the attention of the yearbook staff, and we must say, we are impressed!

- A. S.F.R.-Yea, Good choice, Not that we condone that sort of thing.
- B. Budweiser hijacking-Next tuesday.
- C. School
- D. The assasination of the upcoming leader in the Middle East who will wear a blue turban and begin World War Three. (According to Nostradamus).

SOPHOMORES

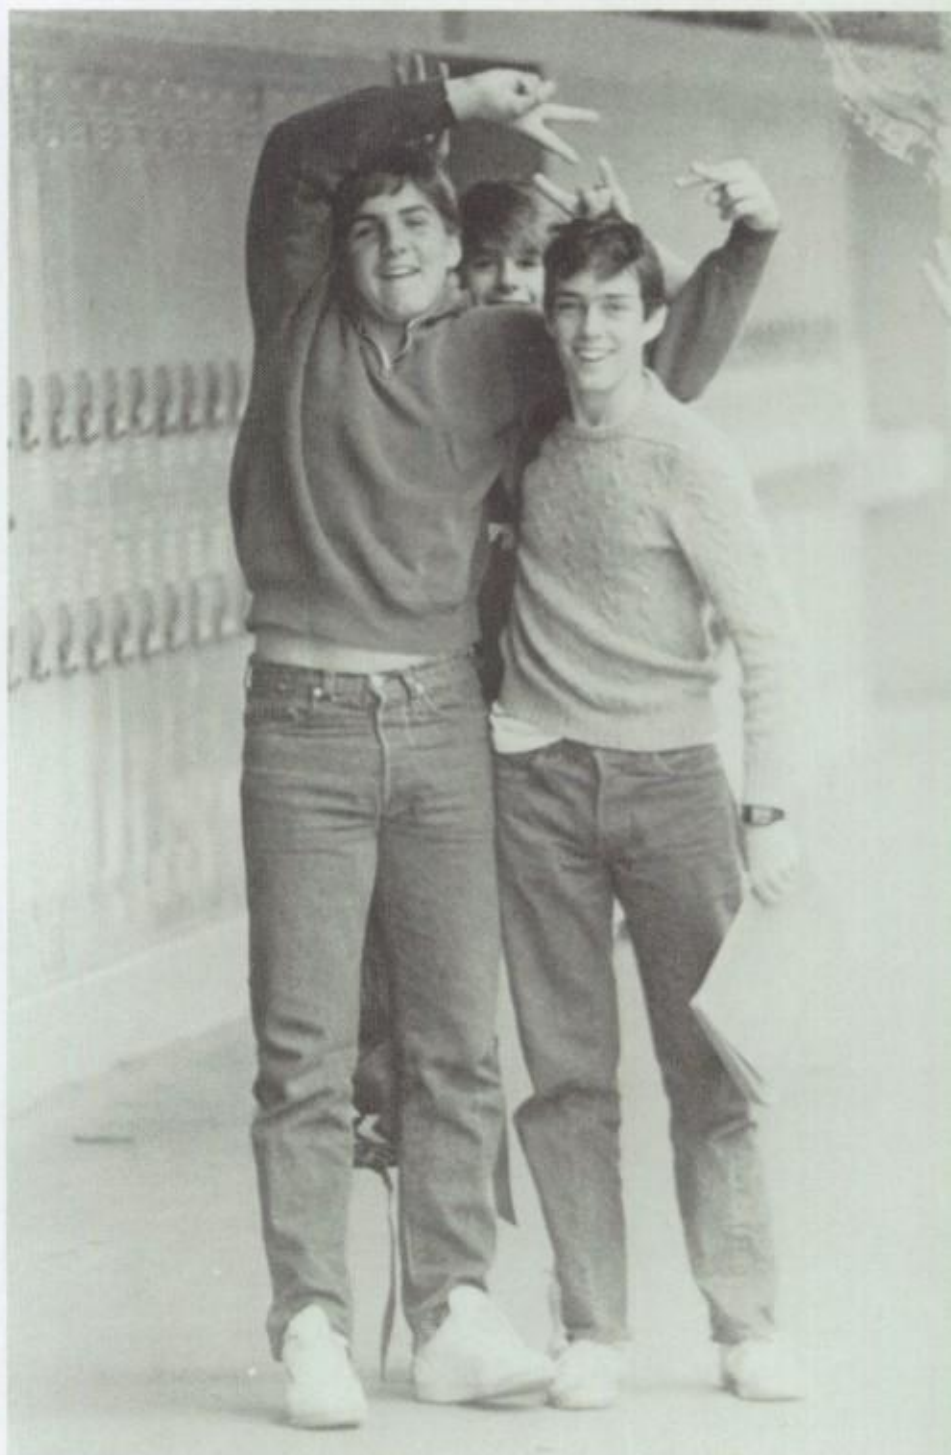

THE WISE FOOLS

Sophomore Year:

If anyone asks a sophomore at the end of the year what tenth grade was like, what would they answer? We don't quite know, to tell the truth. What is unfortunate is that neither would most sophomores at the end of the year.

They might say, "Well biology wasn't too hot, and neither was geometry, but the frosh were fun, and, well, you know, it was kind of neat."

Quite often, however, that is not the most accurate answer which could be given. The answer we are looking for, accurate as it may be, would most likely be one which could not be put into words. Rather, it would be more of a feeling the student has when summer comes and he realizes that a driver's license may soon be on the way, he is an upper-classman, and that he is half-way to becoming an alumnus of Bellarmine College Prep. That last feeling is perhaps the most exciting of all. Not many people have the opportunity to spend two years (and have two years ahead of them) in a community in which they are an integral and recognized special part.

The Sophomore poll results, as compared to the Freshmen, were a little less than predictable. Perhaps it was because of the questions, but we at the yearbook doubt that.

1. Should Bellarmine go co-ed? Why or why not?

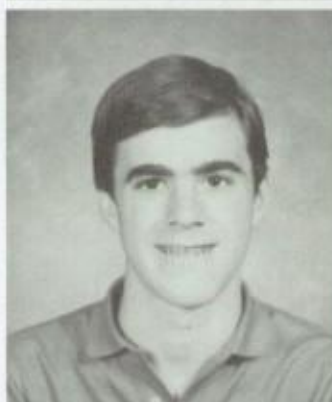

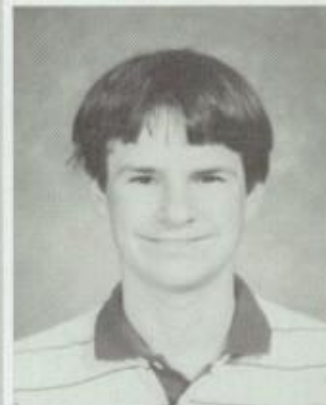

Needless to say, the results proved overwhelmingly in favor of Bellarmine remaining as it is: an all boy's school. Five or six dissidents were discovered to be spreading the rumor that exposure to the opposite sex may actually be healthy. These students have been dealt with in the appropriate manner.

2. Favorite movie?

A question mark was placed in case any of the students could not actually come up with a favorite. As was expected, most of them could not. We, along with most of the student body, came to the conclusion that, since lately most of the violence in films has not even come close to the violence during a St. Francis game, no movie is worth watching.

3. A better use for O'Donnel Hall:

- A. Macy's car-port.
- B. Fill it in with water and play polo in it.
- C. Center for the creative arts.
- D. A monument to the fallacy of single-sex education. (As mentioned, this sophomore was dealt with appropriately).
- E. Bonfire.

Bellarmino's class of '87 was given a second chance to prove their worth as future Juniors, and so we have the following results. The yearbook staff is not responsible for any disappointment on the part of the reader, however. Please take out your frustrations on the nearest overconfident student (translation: Sophomore) you see.

1. Favorite radio station:

- A. KFJC- 44%
- B. KUSF- 4.5% (Editors choice).
- C. KQAK- 30.5%
- D. KOME- 2.7%
- E. KBEL- .026% (We felt KBEL deserved better, but it was raining on the day of the poll, so there wasn't any music).

2. A class which should be added to the Bell curriculum:

- A. Advanced bathtub scouring.
- B. Lifesaving.
- C. The foundations and principles of theoretical acrinology.
- D. Underwater basket weaving, with an A.P. course in shoelace cleaning.
- E. Please don't add any more.

FRESHMEN

ENTER; THE FROSH

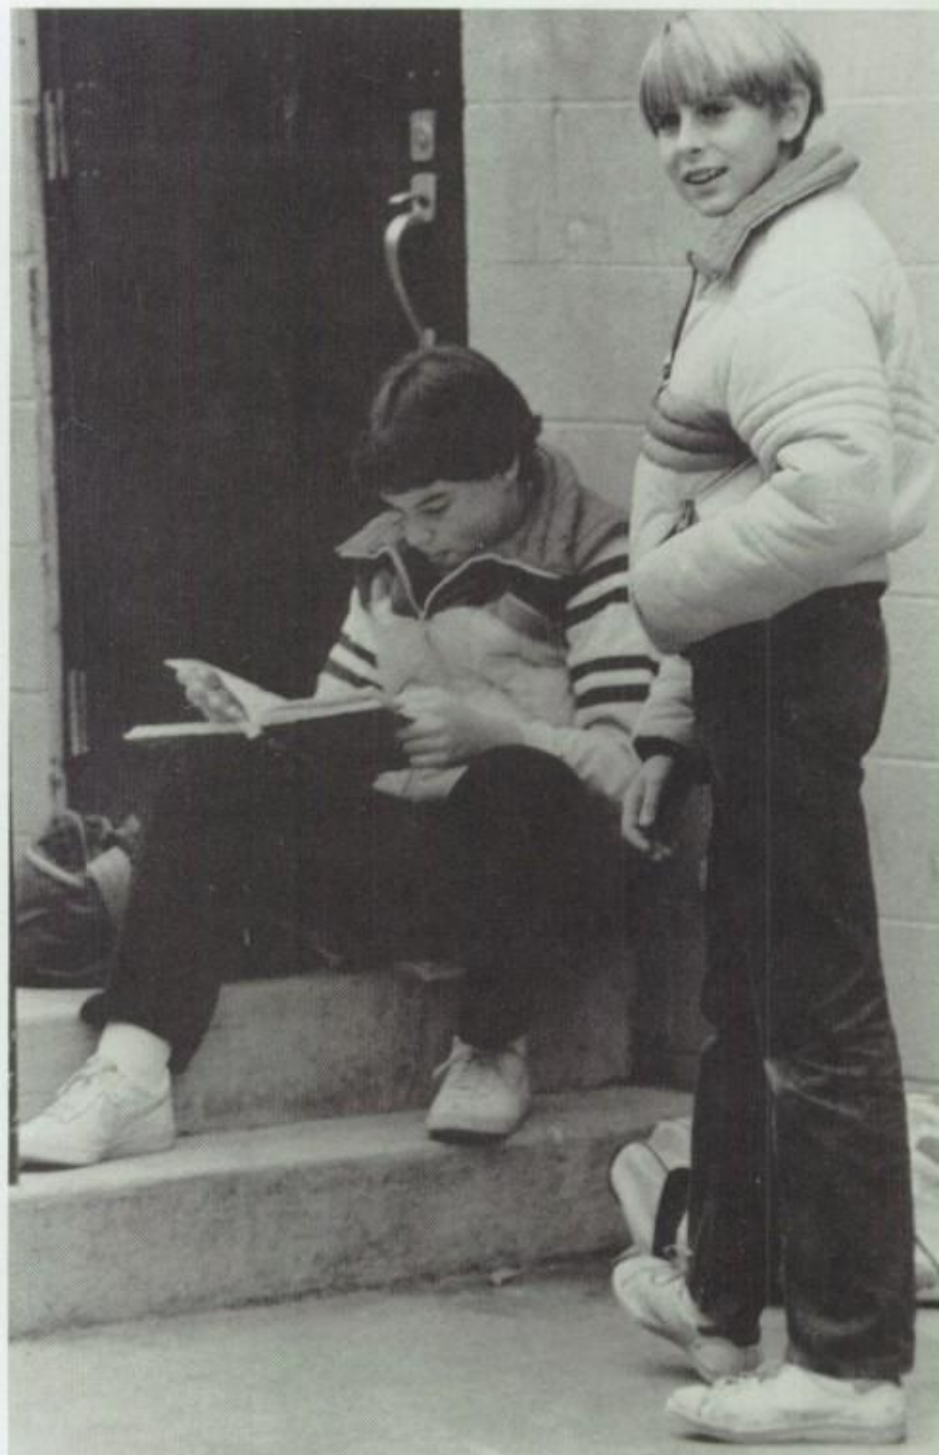

"Uh, dude. You know, class starts in three minutes and you still haven't given me your homework."- Dino Ciardelli.

BEFORE: Future Joe Bellarmine, with all the confidence his fourteen year old freshman body can muster, saunters on up to an unsuspecting senior and asks him where the nearest bathroom is.

AFTER: The once confident Future Joe Bellarmine knows to never again sneak up to a senior and ask him a stupid question. But, he also will never forget where the bathrooms are.

Such is the life of a Bellarmine Freshman. That period of growth which is sometimes, though not too often, unsettling, which all Bellarmine students must go through if they are to call themselves "Bells." Most Sophomores look back on their Freshman year as actually being an enjoyable experience. Much learning is done, even outside of the Fine Arts and English 1 classes. And whereas the classroom learning is of invaluable importance, there is much to be said for what is learned on the P.E. fields, at the first mixer, in line at the co-op, in the library, or even looking into the unpleasant end of a garbage can while a senior has you retrieve your books.

LONG AFTER: Joe Bellarmine, having his first chance to show a freshman where the bathroom is, politely tells him where to go. Afterwards, reflecting back on all he learned during that eventful year called ninth grade, he sells the kid an elevator pass.

Hey! We don't care how ugly you think you are, you still get your picture taken.—John Stevens, Matt Derry, and a shy one.

In the dark, deep, untraveled depths of the yearbook office, a meeting of the editors had actually come to a constructive conclusion: "Let's have, you know, one of those survey things in the, uh, you know, whatever it is we're trying to make. Come on guys, you know what I mean!" They didn't, but someone listening in did. And so we bring you, the Yearbook Poll.

The Freshmen were less than enthusiastic about filling in the answers. We had to first convince them that we were looking for sincerity, creativity, and answers which agreed with us, and that this wasn't some way to humiliate them. We still haven't quite succeeded in convincing them, but they cooperated anyway.

1. Adjective which best describes an entering Freshman:

- A. Unique.
- B. Frosh.
- C. Dead on Arrival.
- D. Courageous.
- E. The same as any Bellarmine student, important.

ACADEMICS

ENGLISH

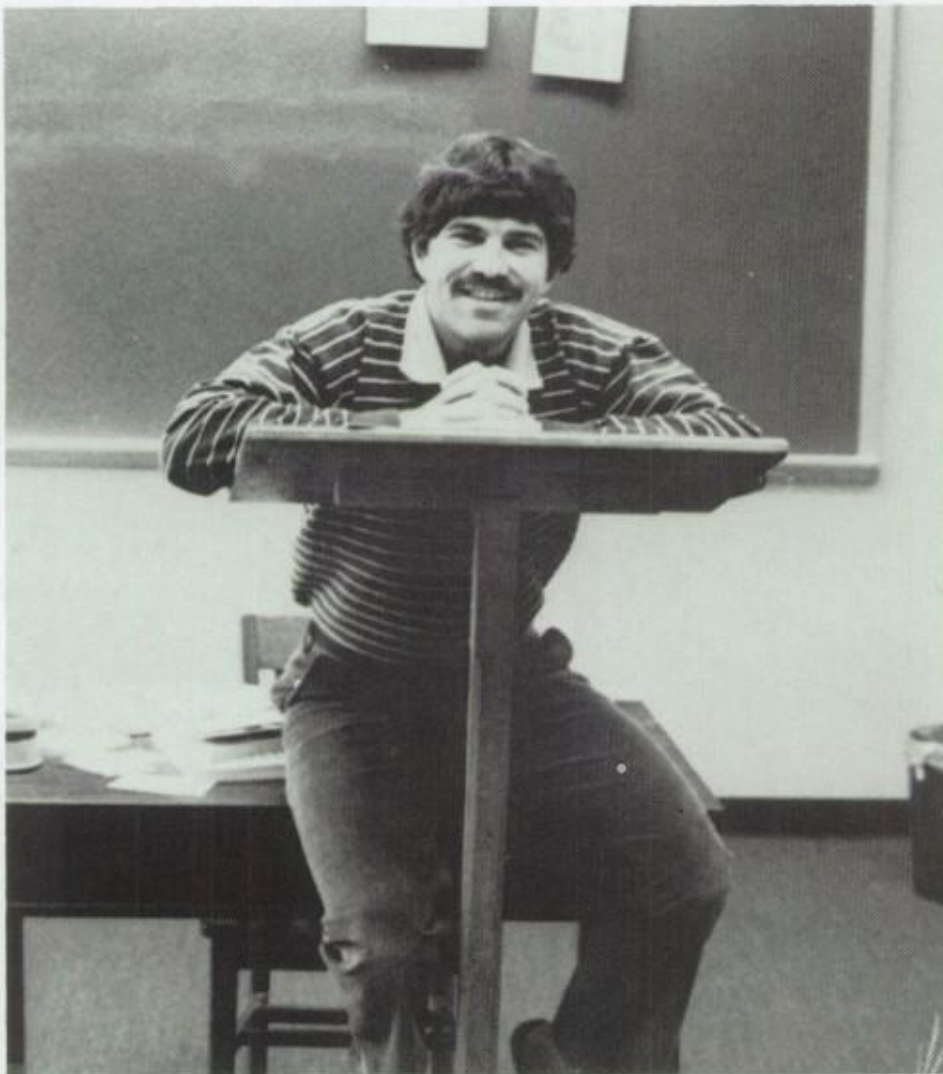

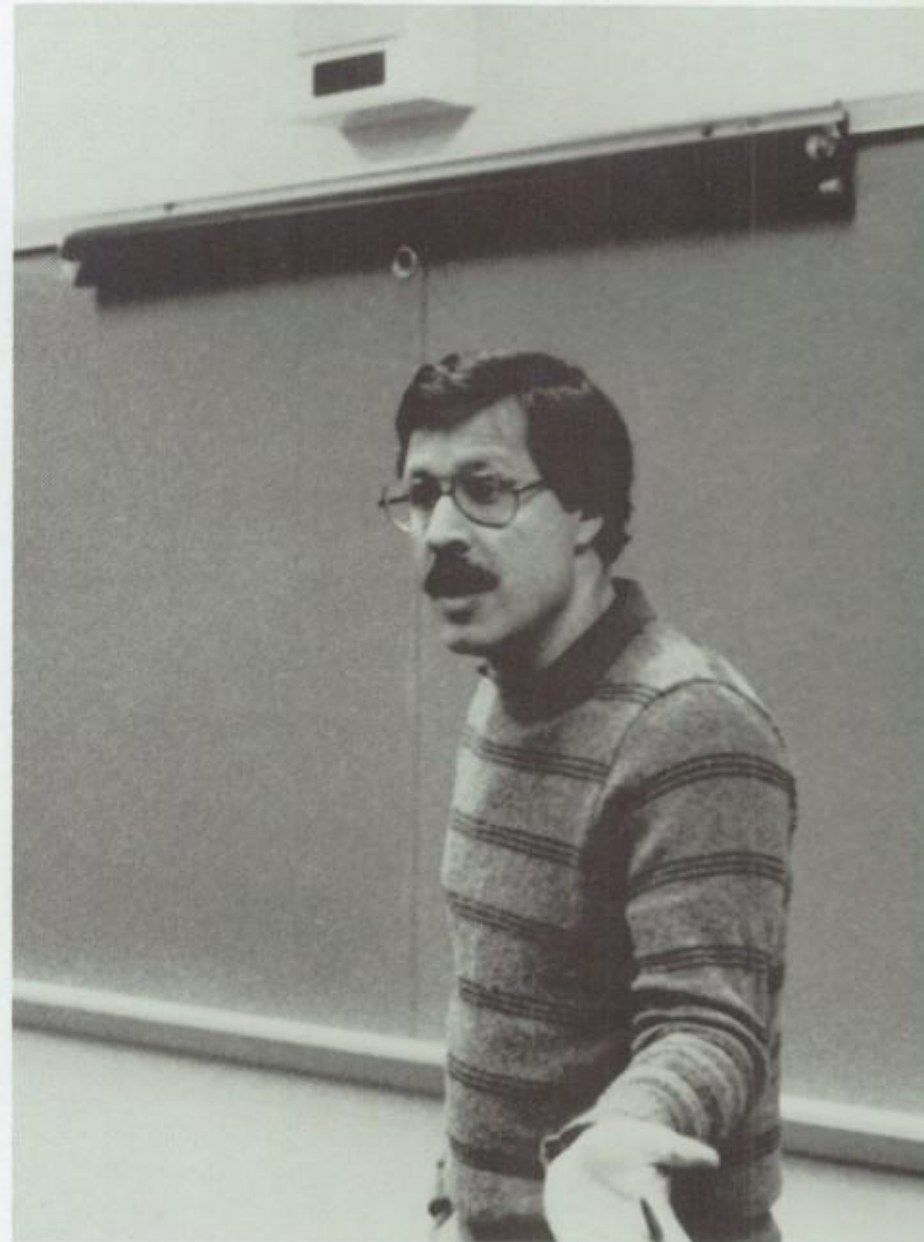

Oh my! You buffoon! You have made an egregious blunder by stumbling into the English department's portion of this great volume. Read this carefully because I shall give you a brief Quizeroni on the content, form, and style of the following text.

In college, with large class sizes, the main and sometimes only means by which a student can relate his ideas to his professors is through the written word. As a result, since Bellarmine is a college preparatory, great emphasis is placed upon the development of a clear, cogent and concise writing style. From the first day of Fr. McFadden's English class to the last day of Mr. Alessandri's Science Fiction class, the student receives instruction on how to better express his ideas in writing.

Another boon to one's writing (as well as to one's SAT scores) is an extensive vocabulary. Like writing, vocabulary is stressed throughout a student's life as a Bellarmine student. Over the years, the student takes a veritable plethora of vocabulary quizzes, quizziness, and quizeronies. In fact, one teacher's finals are entirely vocabulary.

Oh, Fap! The bell is about to ring and I have not gotten a chance to give you the quiz. Oh well. Perhaps you will take the thirteen fatal steps to the board one day in the near future. Godspeed.

MATHEMATICS

In the math department we respect the student's individuality while attempting to have him accept the importance of structure in a system. In a lot of ways this structure is not that flexible, the person must bring creativity to the system. Realizing the perimeters of the system will benefit the student directly because mathematical know-how is vital to being able to move within today's society and developing logical thinking.

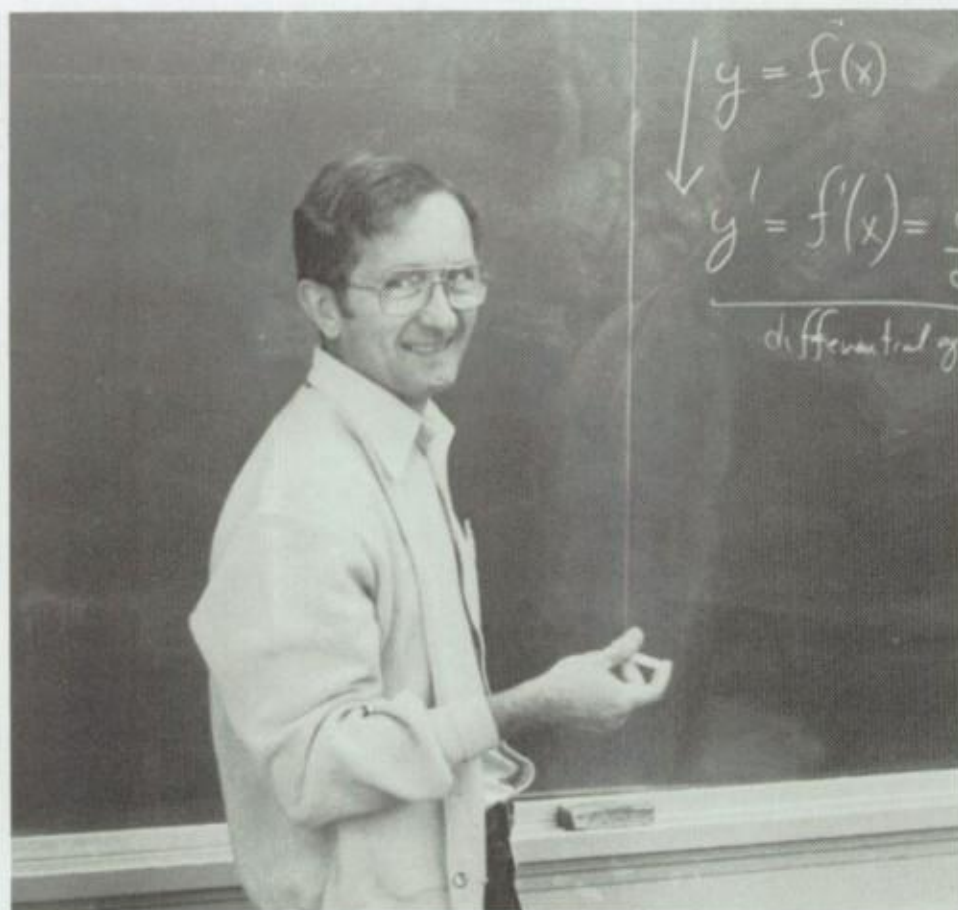

The math department offers a wide selection of courses; including two levels of Calculus, Probability and Statistics, and Computer Science, as well as all the standard courses offered in other high schools. This course selection is as comprehensive as any high school in the nation.

This year we have expanded our exposure of the students to computers by including a new unit in our Geometry course. We have begun a five-week unit using the LOGO language. Two years ago we introduced the use of spiraling homework in our Algebra One classes by adopting Saxon's book. We believe that these changes have enhanced our program even more as we continually look for ways to improve our already solid course offerings.

The structure of our honors program allows students to move at whatever pace they can handle. Several students have managed to enter college with a year, or even two years, of college calculus completed.

The involvement of students in the math contests held by the department every semester has stirred even greater interest in math and outside contests. The Math Club is an excellent organization for students to learn leadership and develop initiative. These last two aspects of the department allow the teachers and students to get to know one another in a less formal setting as well as in the other extra-curricular activities at Bellarmine.

LIBRARY

"Hey, Vinnie! It's cold out here! After you finish choking on your three cinnamon rolls, let's find someplace warm. Wait a minute, Vinnie! Where are you going? What is that place to the left of the Co-op. A libe — library? What do people do there? You don't know? Let's go in and find out. At least it'll be warm..."

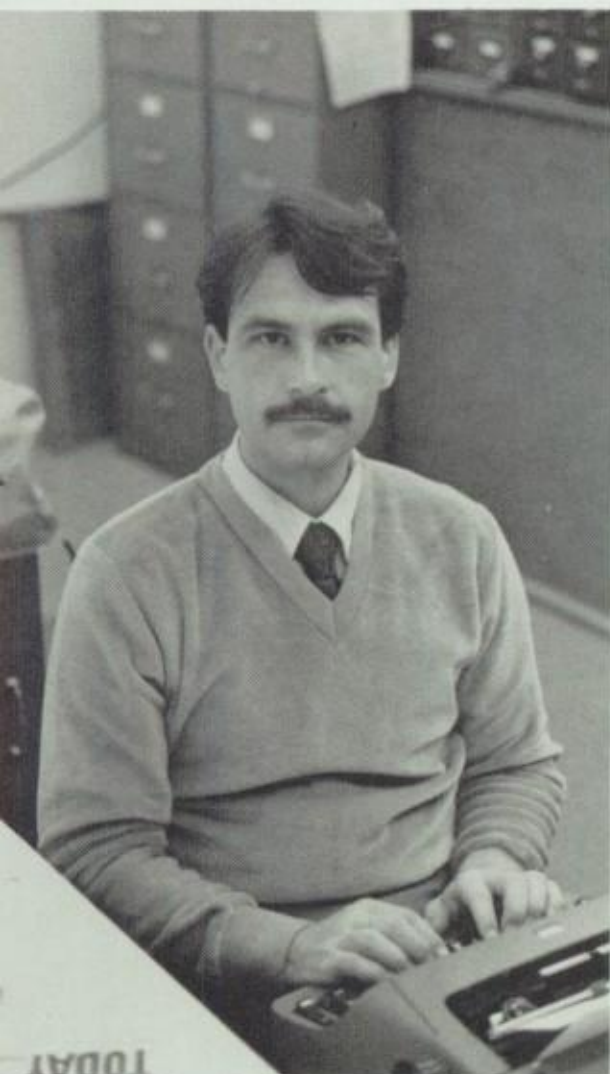

Before Mrs. Lundgard throttles me I'd better say that the library is more than a place where cold students spend their free periods. They also spend time there before and after school. The library is also a place where conscientious (i.e. quiet) students study or even, wonder of wonders, do research.

The Bellarmine Library has several advantages over public or university libraries. First and foremost, it's here! Take two steps left from the Co-op or ten steps right from the Guidance Center and you're at the entrance to the best library that Bellarmine College Preparatory has to offer. Another advantage of the Bellarmine Library is that its resources are designed to complement the school's curriculum. In English, "They've probably got the book that you need to quote to finish tomorrow's term paper." Finally, yes finally, you've probably got your Bellarmine Library card in you wallet right now. That's right! Remember that blue and white thing that they gave you at the beginning of the year with the picture of the guy that looks not entirely unlike you? Right, your ASB card. That's it. Now wasn't that simple? Simply give the library aide your name, rank, serial number, and two character references and you too can check out a book.

For those of us who can remember last year, the removal of the computers from the library was the greatest thing to happen since they were put there in the first place. With less noise and crowding in the library, it became easier for us to do whatever it is that we do there. It also gave us an unobstructed view of the Media Center.

And so you might ask "What is a media center?" It is a place to find a book for a book report, a place to find sources for a term paper, a place for frosh to hide from seniors, but most of all, it's a place where a student can have a fair chance of finding some relevant materials for whatever research he is doing. One thing's for sure, it beats sitting in front of the Co-op on a December morning.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

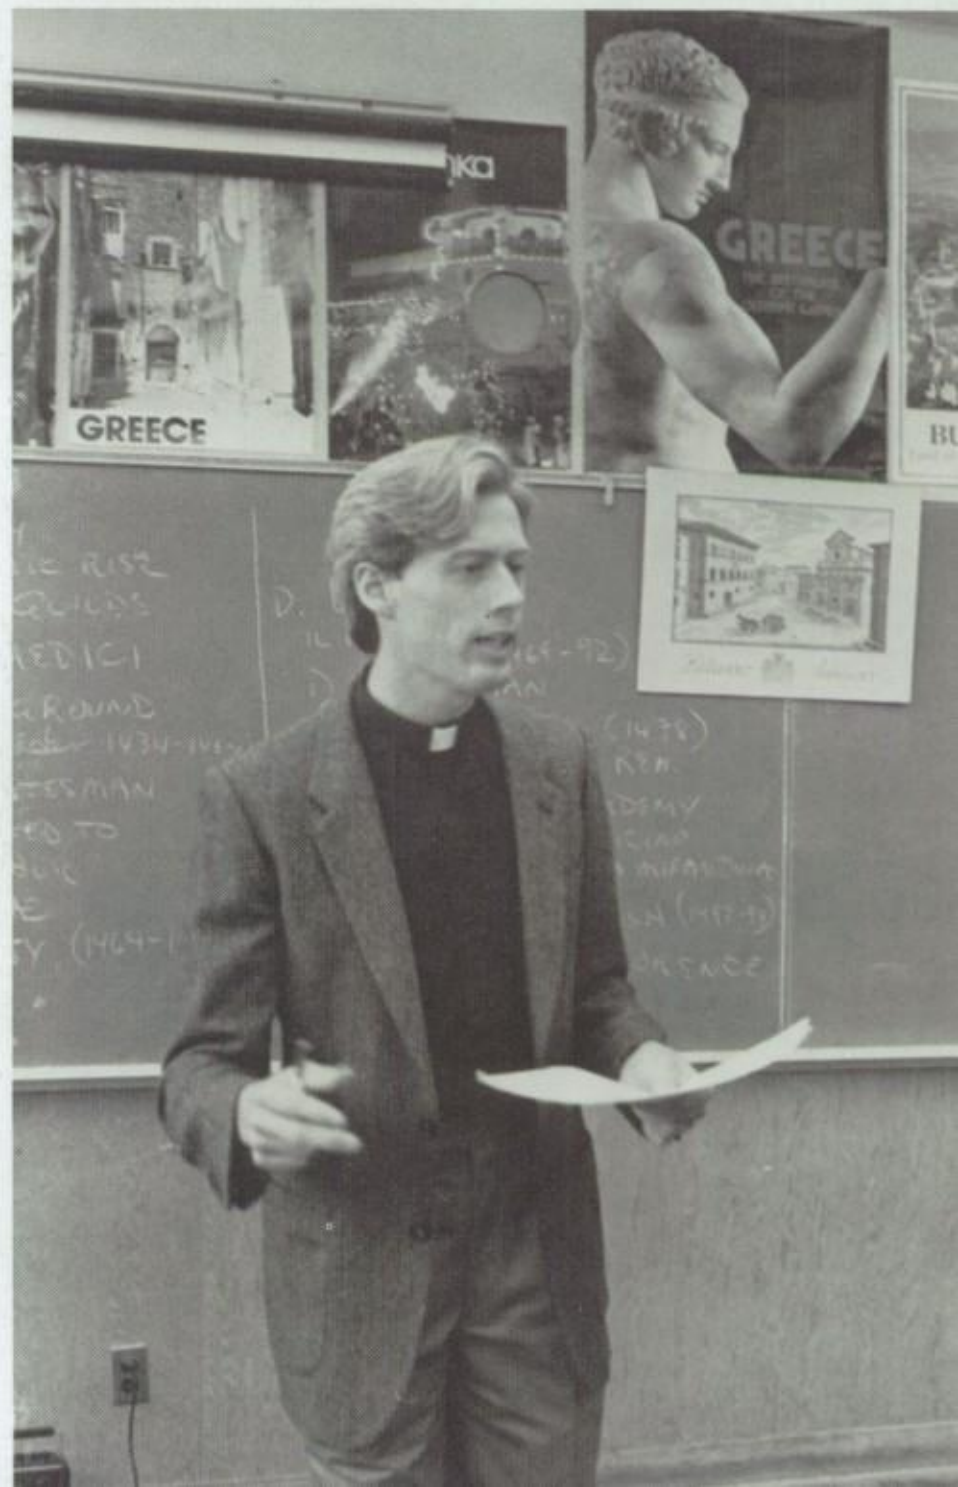

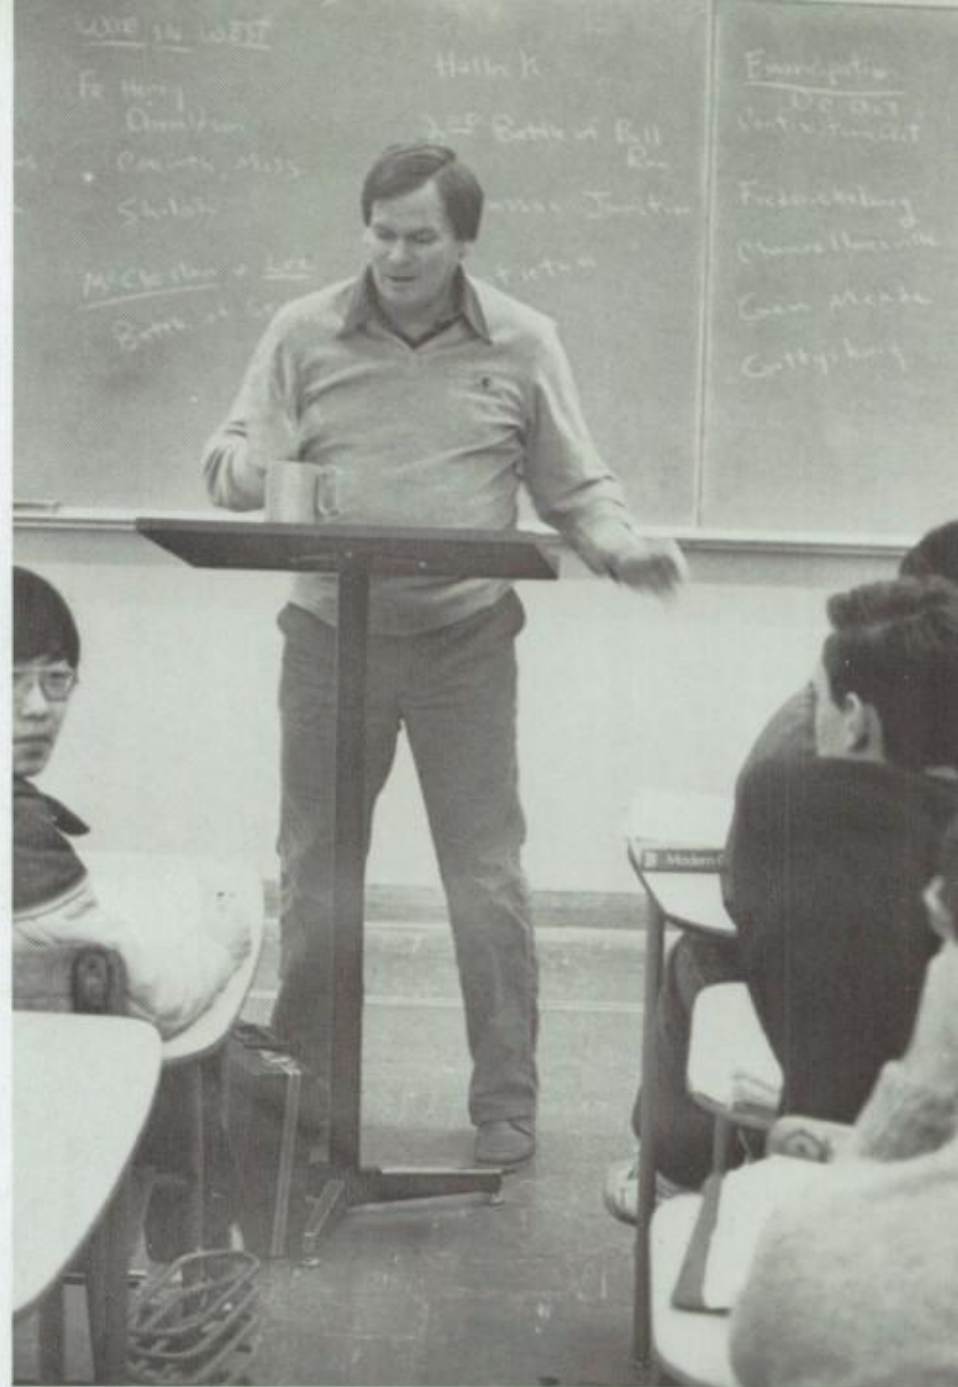

Some people say that history repeats itself. Others say that the Greek phalanx resembles the Dallas Cowboys' flex defense. Still others say, "Wake me up when lunch starts."

It is true that many people do not see why they should study why Alexander the Great named cities "Alexandria" instead of "Cleveland." However, it is also true that many of them also don't understand the relationship of history to modern life. The fact of the matter is that without the unique set of events leading to the present, the present as we know it would not exist. Let's face it, the world would be a lot different had Noah built a catamaran instead of an ark. The understanding of the past helps the student understand why the present is the way it is and predict what the future will bring. Without an understanding of history, the individual is faced with the prospect of facing life with the limited experience of his own life. The goal of the social science department is to give the student an understanding of history so he may more effectively evaluate the events around him.

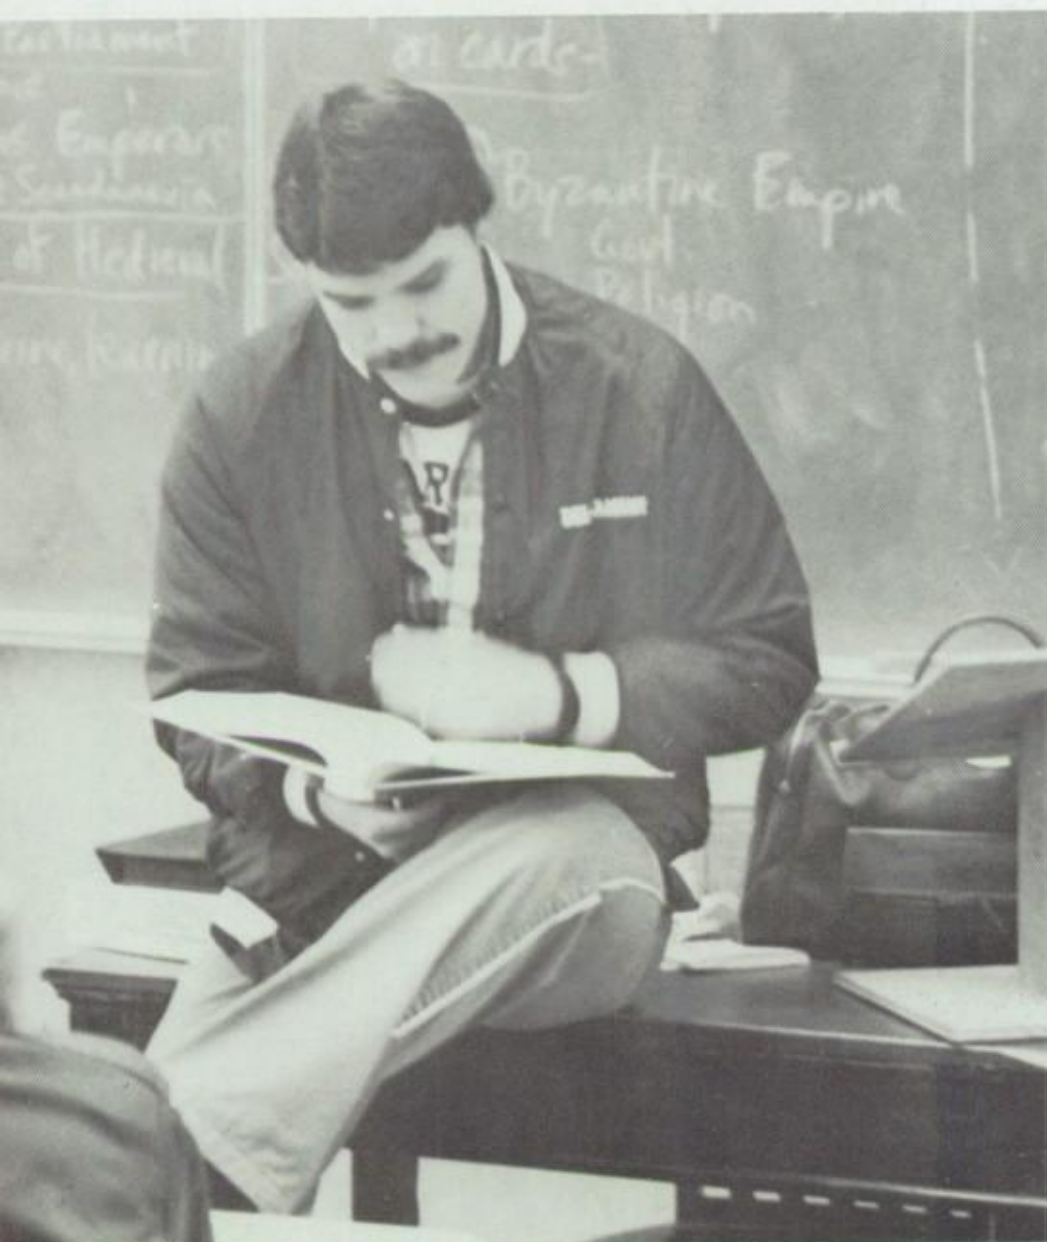

Maybe there are uses for history in modern life. I wonder if the phalanx could be adapted to intramurals. Hmmm...

RICH HERMANN

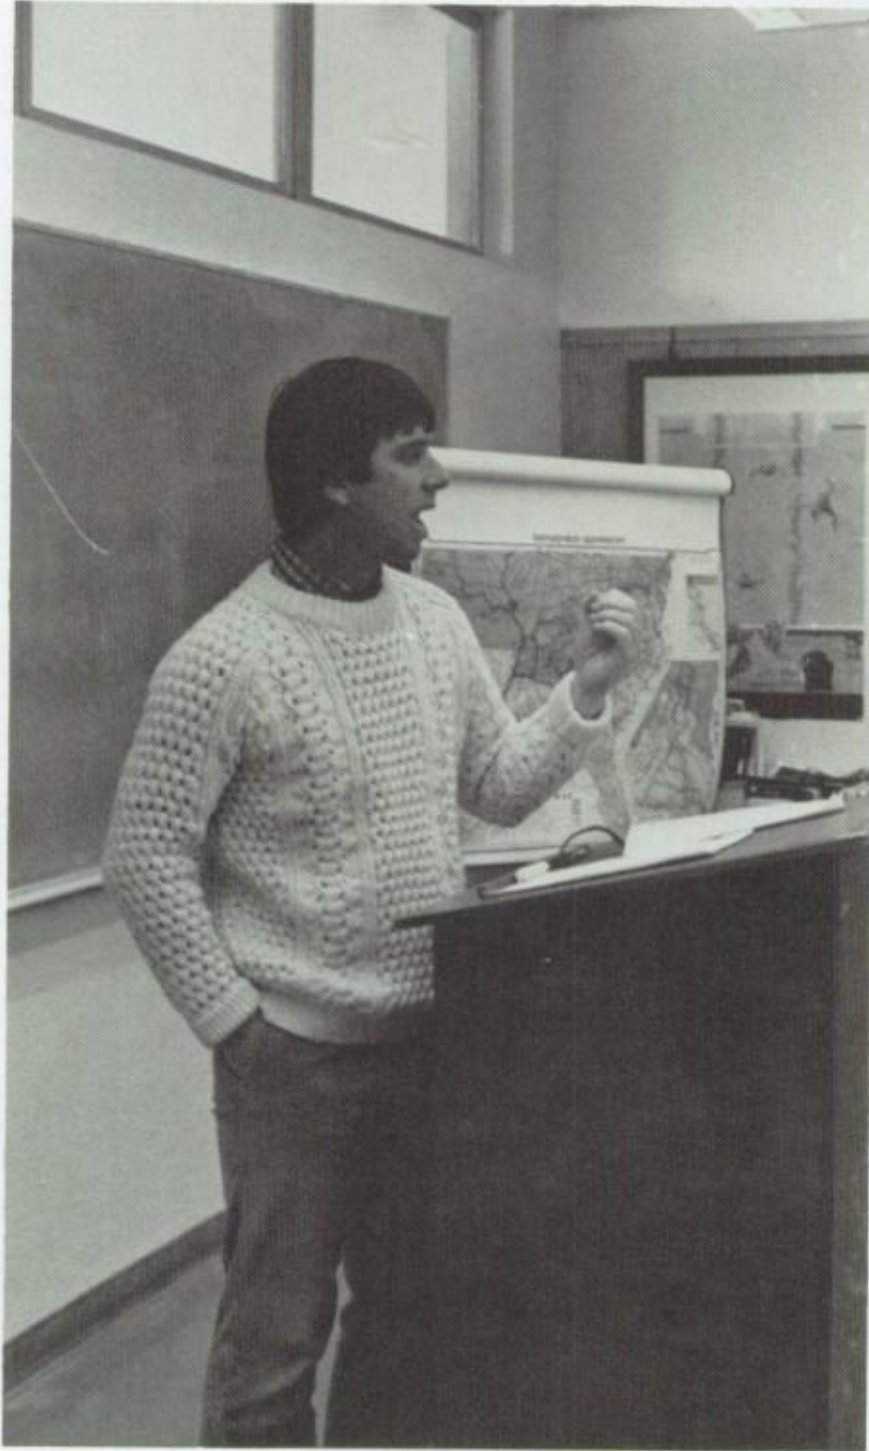

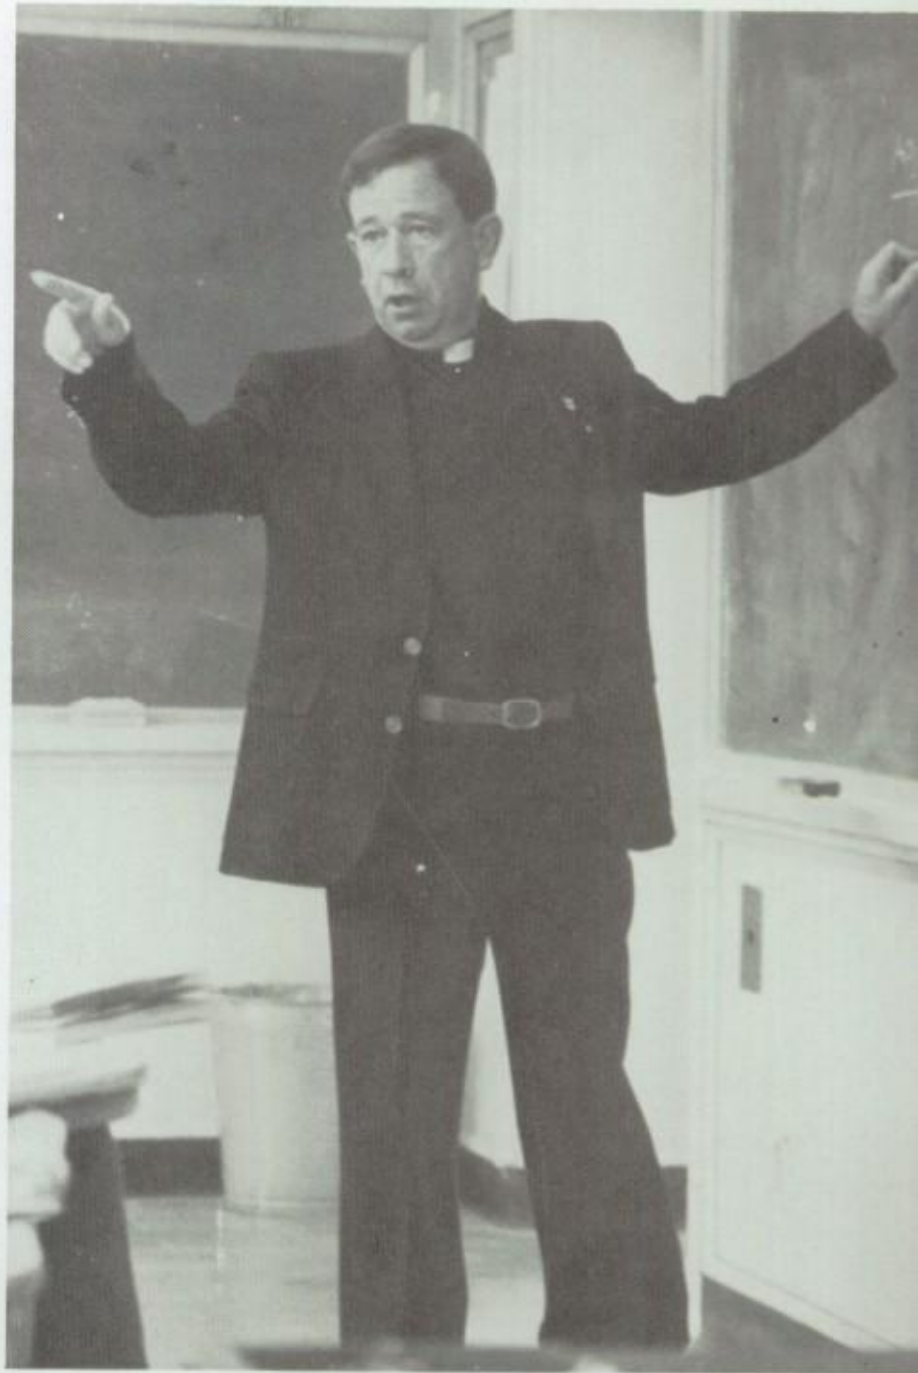

Mr. Richard Herrmann begins his teaching at Bellarmine after two years at Lawrence Academy and, before that, he taught in southern California at Chaminade High School in Chatworth. He joins the social studies department, teaching Western Civilization. One sophomore mentioned, "I have been impressed by Mr. Herrmann's style of teaching because he does not go entirely by the book. He also believes that the students' point of view is a valid one." Mr. Herrman is a graduate of both UCLA and Stanford and is an assistant coach of the Varsity Football Team.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

In keeping with the Jesuit tradition of education here at Bellarmine, we, the members of the foreign language department, dedicate ourselves to the development of "men for others" through a creative, dynamic foreign language program.

Language is a symbolic expression representative of people's perception and interpretation of reality. It is the basis of all human relationships. The study of another language is essential to understanding what language is all about; it enables one to transcend the limitations of a single tongue and culture. Only by penetrating the language barrier is one able to penetrate the thinking of other people, because language carries, reflects, and molds people's thoughts and ideas.

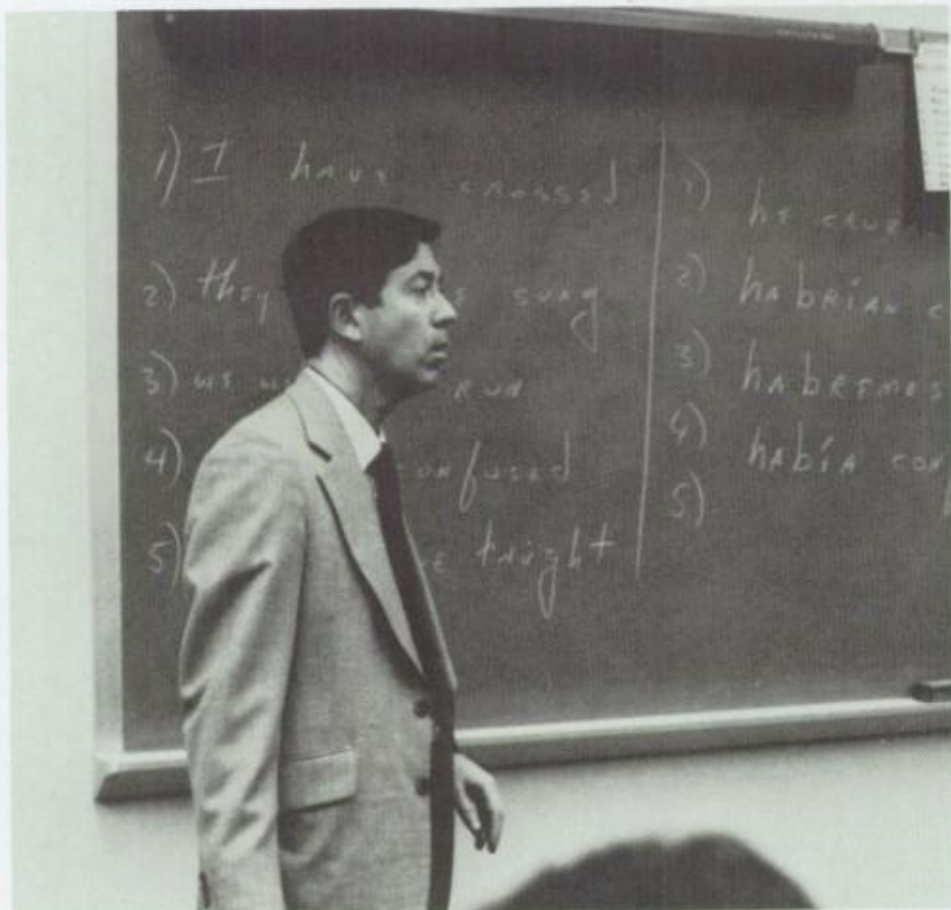

With the understanding that language is the essential tool of communication, the emphasis of a foreign language program should be on the perfection of the four basic skills of language: speaking, listening, reading, and writing.

While these skills are eminently important, they are, in fact merely the mechanics of language. We hope to convey, through exposure to other cultures, the beauty of diversity, the creativity of humanity, and the joy of expanded cultural awareness. For through that broadened perspective, the student augments his objectivity and understanding of the world in which he must live.

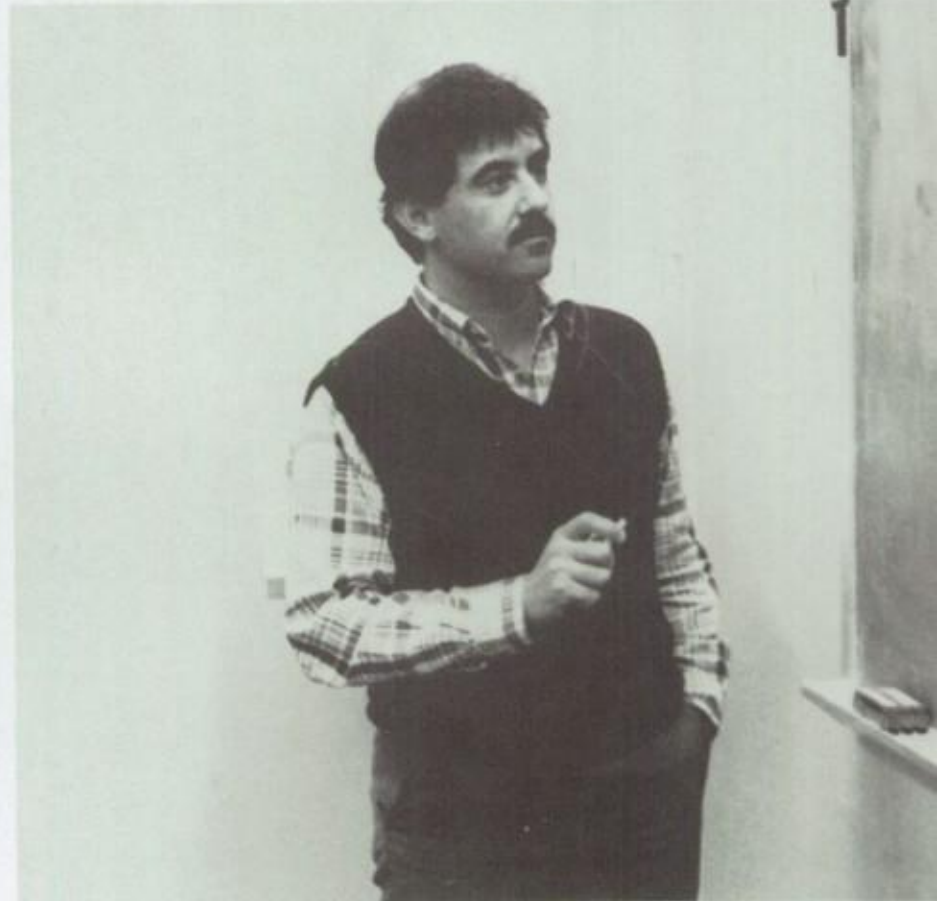

Futhermore, learning to converse in a modern foreign language may provide the student with an immediate sense of personal achievement as he can almost instantly utilize the skills and knowledge acquired in the classroom. Such self-expression is essential, for no student truly acquires language skills until he uses them to express himself.

SCIENCE

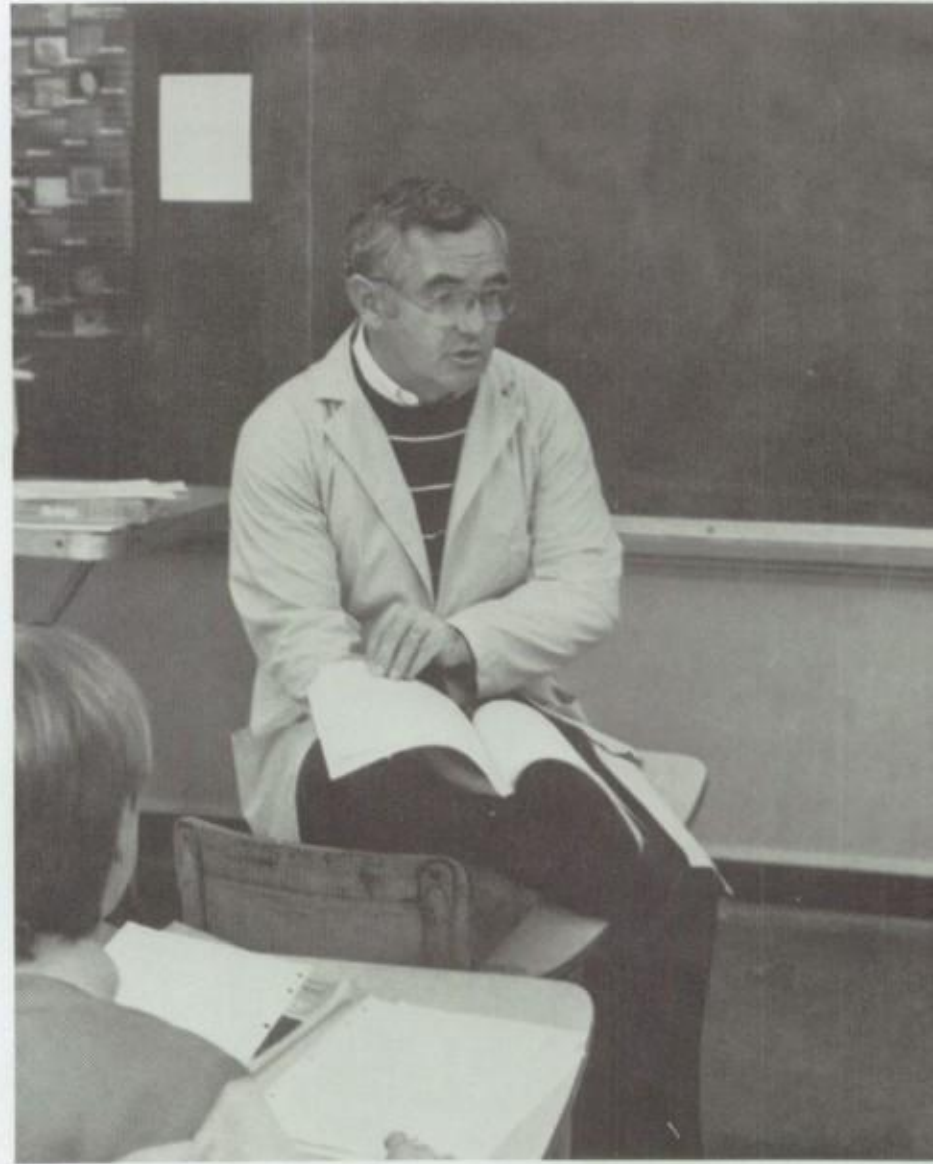

You see troops, it's all crystal clear. Science is the study of the stellar parallax between reality and heresy. It all starts in the sophomore year when you characters take biology from either Mr. Rod Wong or Mrs. Sandy Capano. Here you learn about all kinds of important things. First, you start learning about evolution, like changing from frosh to human being. After that, you learn about classification and how to distinguish the twenty-five types of algae in the drinking fountains. For those of you with who enjoy growing things, there is an extensive unit on plants. Finally, you study DNA and mutations which helps you better understand why some people are the way they are.

If you decide that you need more science, you can take chemistry, taught by Mr. Mike Lowney and Mr. Mike Janda. Pyros can practice lighting bunsen burners and trendies can check out the latest in chic safety glasses. Actually, there is more to chemistry than the sodium and water demonstration (an insurance company favorite). Students learn about why a Snickers bar can't be transmuted into a gold bar and hear about "extra credit" distillation experiments.

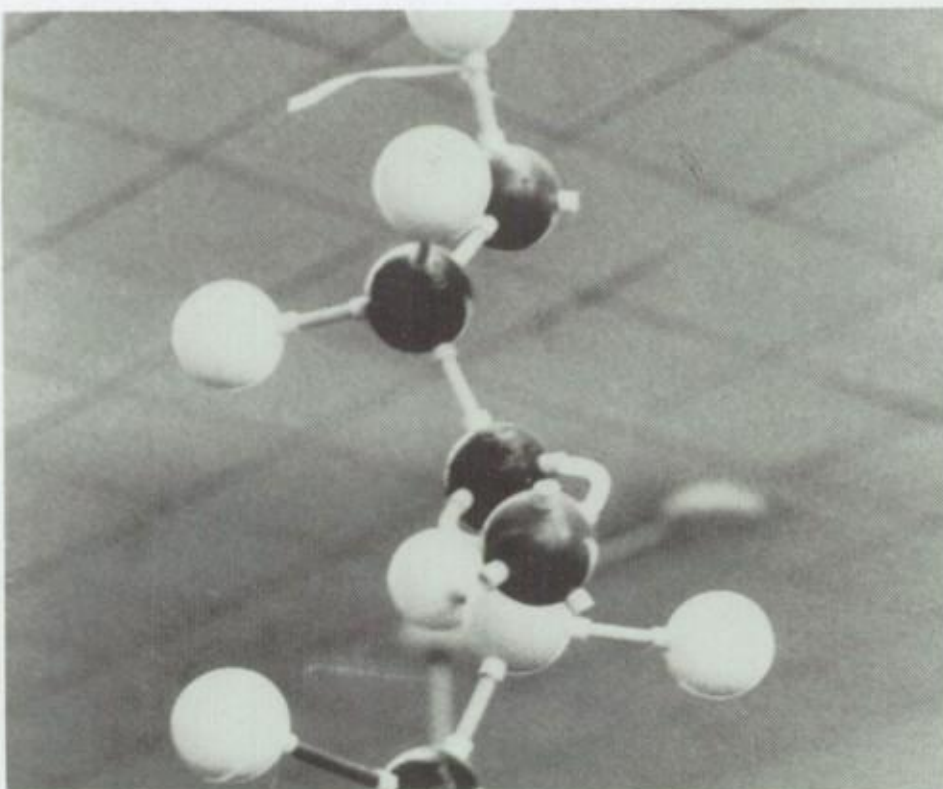

After chemistry, for those gluttons for punishment, there is this character Fr. Mario Capitolo who teaches a physics class that is hard to beat/pass (circle one). This class features daily demonstrations of physical laws and novel applications of an air track used with a computer while the homework features an almighty all-nighty plot of Mars' orbit. As a final note, it is not true that Fr. Capitolo's twelve-second recitation of the Lord's Prayer won the gold medal at the recent Jesuit Olympics. The L.P. recitation is not yet an official event so no medals were awarded.

Finally, there is a program with NASA which enable students to work with scientists at Ames Research Center which allows the students to experience real-world applications of scientific principles. Sorry troops, I've been watching the clock and we've just run out of time.

RELIGION

As religious educators, and as adults who share a common faith, we recognize that the young men who comprise the Bellarmine student body are at a critical moment in their human development. We see growth toward achieving their full human potential as a primary concern; and we believe that such growth necessarily encompasses intellectual, emotional, and spiritual development. In the brief amount of time that we touch their lives, we sincerely desire that what we communicate by our words and actions is the importance of assuming personal responsibility for exploring and validating their own faith. In addition, we would hope that they would learn the process of incorporating Christian ideals into their own words and actions.

COUNSELING

Think about when you were very young. Tell me about your past. Do you remember reading the preceding article? No, the counseling department is not out to psychoanalyze you. Each of the Personal Growth classes has a fairly specific goal: PG I encourages students to think about their relationships while PG II deals mostly with college and career choices.

In addition to the Personal Growth classes, the counseling department sponsors various activities such as the Career Day for seniors. On Career Day, representatives from various professions and colleges talk to seniors about life at their jobs and schools. Career Day probably doesn't convince people of anything, but it makes them think and that's what counseling is about.

BELLARMINE AT ITS BEST

More than any other single event, the annual Christmas Food Drive reflects the spirit of care and concern of the entire Bellarmine community. Students, faculty, staff, and parents united to raise money, donate food and prepare over 2500 food baskets. This year's second period collections, highlighted by the "King Ugly" contest, netted almost $15,000. The Freshman Class deserves special mention, having collected cans on the Frosh Retreat, in addition to spending several P.E. periods bagging tons of rice and beans. Under the able direction of Mr. Jon Scherbart and Mr. Art Wehr, S.J., as well as John Freitas, Matt Consola, and Peter Holte, the 1984 Food Drive showed Bellarmine at its best.

Matt Consola ponders the idea of life as a box of food.

MARATHON FOR FOOD

Like the Agnew's Halloween Party, the Volleyball Marathon was a great success. For twelve hours, students from Bellarmine, Notre Dame, and Presentation, along with various members of the faculty from each school, played that wonderful, exciting sport we call volleyball.

The marathon was held in order to raise money for the annual Food Drive, and that goal was, as usual, achieved with an extraordinary amount of spirit for the philosophy of the Social Involvement Corps. This philosophy is to respond to the needs of others based on Jesus Christ's idea of serving Him while serving even the least of our brothers. Even in an event as enjoyable and entertaining as the Volleyball Marathon, the spirit of giving shines through, and we become true Men and Women for others.

S.I.C. PARTY

The gift of giving is indeed a most serious and special gift. But, who says a person can't have a little fun giving to those in need once in a while. Nobody. That is what the Agnew's Annual Halloween Party represents to almost all involved: The chance to give and the chance to have fun, mainly by receiving the love given back by the patients at Agnew's.

The costumes, the mirth, the dancing, and most of all the appreciation showed by everybody, added to an environment which makes one certain that this event will be part of the Social Involvement Corps. for some time to come.

Would you believe they're dressing this way for a cause? Neither would we.

BLOCK B

They are athletes. They are students. They are men for others. They are on the sidelines at football games. They are the Block B Club. Though their sweaters may not exactly be on the cutting edge of fashion, their ideals certainly are refreshing in this increasingly cynical era. Simply put, the Club wishes to provide the Bellarmine community with an example of service, leadership, and humility.

Among the Block B Club's activities are the Block B Dance (of course), the student directory, and Freshman Orientation. Under the direction of Mr. Pat Taylor, the Block B Club has done an effective job of serving the Bellarmine community.

CARILLON '85: Pulitzer Prize Winner

Ace reporter, Jon Kaiser, hard at work.

Yes. It's true! This year, the Carillon was nominated for the Pulitzer Prize! Late last night, the Carillon staff was notified that they had won unanimously. After a brief press conference, they were flown to the White House and had breakfast with Ronnie and Nancy. They were then presented with the prize. Having been so close to winning this award in the past, the moment was truly exhilarating. Mentioned in the acceptance speech by the Editor-in-Chief, Emmanuel (a.k.a. Manny) Gabet, were Derek Beebe, Steve Lucas, and Patrick Premo. These three were described as "the best darn layout editors this side of the Mis'sippi." Their work was described as imaginative, clean, errorless, and sometimes almost done before the deadline. Also mentioned were the people in charge of writing the captivating articles. The two editors in this department were Cullen "I'll bring the articles in tomorrow" Agler and Alec Lee (also the guitarist-in-residence). Their articles were always on the cutting edge of today's radical journalism. Of course, the photographers received a great deal of praise. The pictures were sharp and always from a new, never-discovered-before angle. They were able to capture the gamut of emotions and events that occur at a high school. Francis Thomas, Dave Dowley, and Andrew Barber were the editors in this department. Always in the vanguard of artistic trends were Mark Tippin and Dave Hall, the art editors. Their bold, new artistry reflected the turmoil of classical education clashing with a fast-paced, changing society. They have finally let their masterpieces be published for all to admire and interpret. Masaki Karasuno, Mr. Gabet's right-hand man, also figured heavily in art and photography as Creative Director. As Business Editor, Chris Caruso made sure that their finances were plentiful and up-to-date. He designed many clever methods to raise money. As to this date, these methods were still undisclosed and under close scrutiny by the FBI and the IRS. Last, but not least, Jack Treacy, S.J. and Marcy Fox were thanked with a great deal of respect. Not only did they serve as excellent press agents, but they also doubled as moderators and referees. Without their help, the Carillon would just have been "another yearbook." As a post scriptum to this whole story, literary prowess seems to be inherent at Bellarmine since the Cardinal, the school newspaper, placed a hopeful 8th in the John B. Ethelman Journalism Contest. The contest was for all the schools of the northeastern San Jose area.

TAKIN' IT EASY

Exams. Homework. Oral reports. Deadlines. Finals. Late nights. Long books. Term papers. Big games. More exams. Prom date. P R E S S U R E! Bellarmine has a reputation for being very academically intensive. From calculus to football, French to the newspaper, the pressure to succeed often overrides the pleasures of occasionally taking it easy. The yearbook staff has decided to include this page as a quiet interlude to the rest of the book. It's like saying "You've had a hard day studying, now comes Miller time." (Of course, we do not encourage drinking beer on campus but you get the idea.) As you go over these pictures, put on a nice, mellow song (no, Ozzy does not count but if he's all you have then put it on the lowest speed possible), burn some incense, and concentrate on each detail of the picture.

MARTIAL ARTISTS

Can you say Tae Kwon Do? I think you can. So can the twelve members of the Bellarmine Martial Arts Club. After a three-year absence, the Club made a quiet, though not unnoticed return to the Bellarmine campus. Led by seniors Troy Fuller, President, and Steve Jorgenson, Vice President, the Martial Arts Club spends Tuesdays and Thursdays developing new techniques and thinking of new ways to enlighten the Bellarmine community in the area of martial arts. Though some people might think that the purpose of the Club is to destroy innocent 2x4's, their main goal is to educate their fellow students. And who around Bellarmine isn't trying to educate someone else?

PLAY IT AGAIN SAM

You're at a football game. Since you've got a pretty good idea of who's going to win, you look for something else to entertain you. Suddenly, you hear the straining strains of "Beat It." However, there is more to band than just the Pep Band.

The Show Band plays for the school musical (this year "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum"). The people who participate in the Show Band varies from year to year depending on the instrumentation. The previously mentioned Pep Band plays at football and basketball games is open to anyone who plays and instrument and reads music. Finally, the highly selective Jazz Band plays at various school functions and competes and several jazz festivals.

CHESS

Perhaps you've been brave enough to visit room 412 at lunchtime, or even after school on Friday. If you have, you might have noticed that, amid the chaos and confusion, the Bellarmine Chess Club was holding a meeting.

Moderated by Hardy Reyerson, the club has grown to over thirty members under the leadership of seniors Terry McKiernan and James Rauen. This dynamic duo led the team to its first County Championship last year and a second-place finish in a state tournament.

The players are ranked by ability, and each week the top seven play in a match against another high school. The team is currently leading its league and needs only one more victory to clinch first place.

A. Jeffs and T. Crawford look for hidden messages on a plastic disk.

KBEL is ... controversial. Just the pronunciation of those four letters ignites fires within the very souls of Bellarmine students. Whether it be the disappointed DJ designated to one hour a week of heavy metal, the frosh who wonders if Boy George is still hip because he never hears him(?) at lunch, Joe New Wave who just can't stop, or someone looking for a little peace and quiet, there is always a reaction.

Though it certainly has been a long time since the Dead Kennedys; Motorhead, or anything else "unsafe" soared through the airwaves of Bellarmine, when faced with the English Beat or nothing, we must realize that it is all still music, designed to stir the soul. So ...

The Bike Club is a special interest group. It is a group that discriminates. It is a group that nobody cares about. It is a lot of fun though. Perhaps some explanation is in order:

Special Interest: Only those who are into cycling long distances join.

Discrimination: You need a bike (and a fair amount of guts) to join.

Nobody Cares: Well, not exactly. But girls don't do standing back flips when you tell them you're in the Bike Club.

A Lot of Fun: You bet it is!

SERVICE WITH A SMILE

Though they may not have the prestige of the Block B Club, members of the Bellarmine Service Club perform many of the same functions. For example, both clubs work at Open House and Freshman Orientation. Also, like the Block B Club, the Service Club is "moderated" by Mr. Pat Taylor.

As the club's name suggests, the main purpose of the Club is to serve the Bellarmine community. The Service Club is responsible for seeing that a variety of events, including mixers, plays, and formal dinners, run smoothly. Though they might not be the shining example that the Block B Club attempts to be, the Service Club has an equally valient purpose — they exist only to serve.

GIMME A "B"

"Hey, Boy!"

Why cheerleaders? What do you do with them? Why are they here? What do they want with us? Cheerleaders are not very well understood at Bellarmine, even though one seems to run into them everywhere. You can't cook them. You can't carry on any kind of conversation with them. If you are smart and value your sanity, you will keep them away from your parties. So, what do you do with them?

I bet you thought I would answer that question. But the truth is even I don't know. Cheerleaders are the sort of things at which you throw up your arms in the air, look at your god and say, "If it's your will" every time they parade by. No one knows why they are here torturing us with bad "game shows," obnoxious rallies and watermelon fights. One thing is certain though, no one leaves these events looking at life in quite the same way.

PRAXIS/ART CLUB

Bellarmino's tradition of literary excellence as well as its history of social-awareness is never more apparent than when the two are combined, creating PRAXIS, Bellarmine's social justice magazine. For the first time in its short three-year history, PRAXIS is under the leadership of Mr. Rob Suarez. He and his staff have determined that "Violence in America" is a fitting theme for this year's publication, hoping that through their efforts, not only will people be informed of some of the problems of society, but will actually be inspired to change.

Bellarmino Students For Peace, a first-year organization, is definitely not what it seems. It is not a large club. It is not a very influential one either. To say it is rather unknown would be a better way to put it. SFP is not a political organization either, despite how many of its "opponents" view it. Well, if you are not political or influential, what are you? Those in SFP would say that they are a club whose goal is to educate, learn, discuss, and to hopefully change certain situations which promote violence and war as a means of solving society's problems.

Obviously this group of students, presided by Mr. Suarez, has not yet changed the world. But then again, give them time — they've just started.

FATHER-SON RETREAT

On the weekend of Feb. 1-3 and then the following weekend, Feb. 8-10, a group of seniors and their dads came together to relax and spend some time together. The place was the Jesuit Retreat house in Los Altos, the event was the Father-son retreat, and the purpose was to strengthen the bond between father and son. In order to accomplish this feat, Fr. Bisenius worked hard preparing questions, organizing groups, and coordinating people. It was on Saturday that the main part of the retreat, the "discussion groups," began. The first groups consisting of either all dads or all sons. The purpose to this session was to remember some memories of our early lives. The next part divided the groups up again but with a mixture of fathers and sons. Here we talked about family life and communication. The session gave us a different view that, since our dad was not in the group, was maybe more objective and less threatening. After each discussion we were given time to go off with our dads and talk. Thus we had a lot of good, quality time to share that, unfortunately, we might miss at home because we are so "busy."

CARDINAL

Bellarmino's newspaper, The Cardinal, has been published for forty-nine years. The paper has many goals. It provides the Bellarmino student body with current information about events around campus through its news and sports sections. The sports section, headed by junior Dave Kenigsberg, had many different types of articles this past year including the fall sports CCS victories and Pablo Morales' triumphs. The news section was handled by Mike Heagerty. Other sections of the paper have very different purposes though. The feature section, compiled by senior Tim Ereneta, and editorial section, produced by senior John Pliska, give both general knowledge and commentary on a wide variety of subjects. This year a new parody section was started under the direction of Editor-in-Chief John Pliska and feature editor Tim Ereneta.

The process of completing an issue of the paper is a month job. Besides collecting articles from various articles and editing them, the paper is typeset and laid-out entirely by students. Junior Peter Green coordinated the actual production of the paper. This year, The Cardinal typesetting returned to on-campus production after a year absence. This delayed the production of the first two issues but junior Mick Markham assumed the responsibility of fighting with the typesetter and he made it into a tool which is useful for not only The Cardinal but also for other publications such as Praxis. Second-year moderator, Jodi Peterson provided the guidance necessary to record and report all the news fit to print for the entire Bellarmino community.

NATIONAL HONORS SOCIETY

The National Honor Society, though maybe not as well known as, say, the Block B or Service Clubs, is still a vital facet to the Bellarmine community. The organization is responsible for two functions. First and foremost, they provide tutors in all subjects to help fellow Bellarmine students who might be falling behind in their classes. The tutor must then spend two to three days a week every week helping his tutee. These NHS members generously and freely give of their time before school, after, or during lunch. As President this year I was very impressed with the dedication and effort the senior members of the NHS put forward to help a student whom, before, most did not even know. The other service the NHS does for the school is to work at the annual Open House held in January. Each member is required to give at least one tour of the campus to prospective Bellarmine students and their families. This is very important because for a number of these people the tour is their first impression of the Bellarmine community and the tour guides play a large role in this impression. This year's Open House was very successful showing many people the school. The success must again be credited to the efficiency and talents of the NHS members and to its moderator, Mr. Bill Sullivan, who organized all the tour guides as well as assisting in the tutorial aspect of the NHS. The National Honor Society truly exemplifies the Bellarmine tradition of Men for Others.

NATIONAL FORENSICS LEAGUE

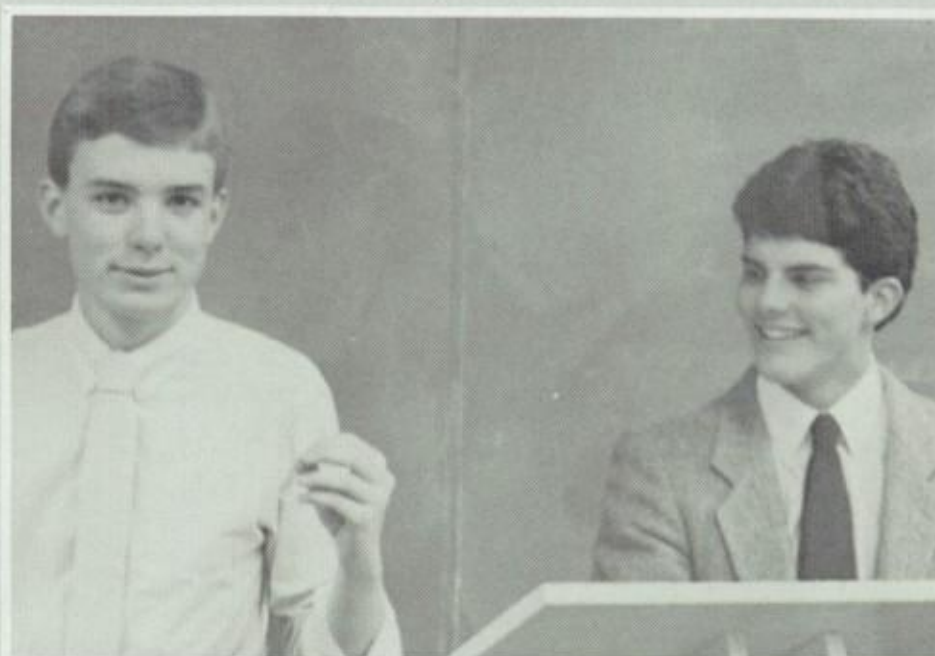

Like the Steelers' four Super Bowl Victories and the Yankees' string of World Series Championwhips, Bellarmine's Speech and Debate team has a long history of excellence. Bellarmine is one of the most feared and respected teams in the nation, and deservedly so. It has been among the top five schools in California for each of the past nine years, and has won the State Championship four times, the most recent of which was at the 1984 tournament held at the university of Santa Clara.

Under the excellent leadership of coaches V. Bob Garcia and Jim Harville, Bellarmine is off to a strong start again this year. The outstanding results the team has received at every tournament this year appear to retain its state title.

One reason for Bellarmine's impressive year is the leadership and effort provided by seniors Rob Lang, Nick Nichols, and Edward Kraus. Rob, this year's NFL President, has shown his talent by going undefeated in Lincoln-Douglas Debate so far this year. He was also the State Champion in this event last year and will be defending his title in May. As President, Rob hopes to set an example for the team not only through his personal success but through the concern that he shows for the team as a whole. Nick, the Oxford Debate file captain, has continuously proved his worth by turning in impressive performances at all tournaments. Most impressive of these was his third place in Oxford Debate at the Fullerton Invitational. Ed, also an outstanding speaker, has provided the team with talent, leadership, and encouragement. Ed's combination of qualities was a great addition to the team this year.

Another factor contributing to the team's success was its overwhelming depth. Jon Garcia, Randy Shoup, and Brian Lanier led the juniors in an impressive year. Sophomores Mark Nagel, Dave Plevyak, and Adam Schnitzer have shown tremendous potential to continue the Bellarmine legacy. Great performances were also turned in by Mark Hagar, Chris and Tim Ereneta, Matt Knoth, Mike D'Angelo, Forrest Knowlton, Drew Hallin, and Mike Green. The team's youth and depth promise even more success in the future. Lastly, the team wishes to extend its appreciation and gratitude for the efforts of the coaches; without whom, neither the strong sense of team unity that exists nor the success of the program would have been possible.

BOTANY CLUB

Sometime in 1983, the dream began. The dream was to create a self-sufficient, hydro-ponic greenhouse, capable of efficiently producing plants and vegetables while experimenting with new ways of growing things. The resulting food would be donated to various charities, which would make the project not only educational, but worthwhile in a Christian sense as well.

It is 1985, and the dream still exists. Unfortunately, that is about all. Even with financial and moral support from the SIC and ASB, the continuous vandalism and other unforeseen, unavoidable setbacks have resulted in a rather slow start for the Botany Club. Under the leadership of Mike Lussier and Mike Hodapp, this club and its greenhouse will hopefully provide future Bell gardeners with a chance to fulfill that dream.

YACHT CLUB

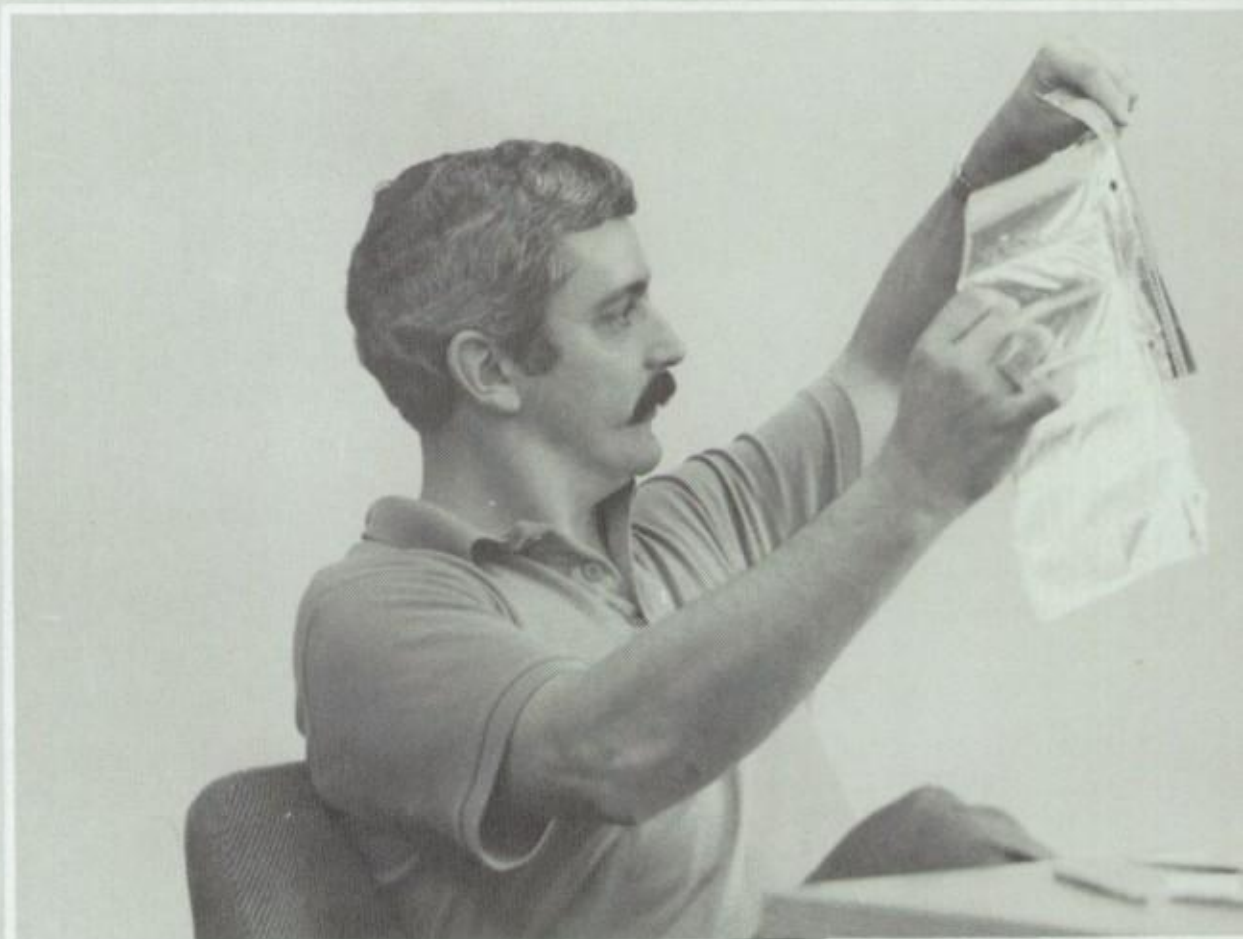

Fiji islanders invite yacht club for dinner.

For the second year in a row, the Bellarmine Yacht Club has had another enormously successful season. Club's fleet of 143 world cruisers has been hailed by many yacht clubs as "the best the world has to offer." Many members have won international merit on account of their racing abilities. Besides competing, the club also hosted many exquisite banquets for charitable causes. In fact, the club was able to raise $1.5 million for the Poor-People-Who-Have-Yachts-That-Measure-Less-Than-75-Foot Fund. The guests of honor at this gala were Boy George, the World Wrestling Federation, and Ronald Reagan. Of course, the Yacht Club, like any other club, also involves a lot of hard work. In the late evenings and early mornings, the members of the club can be seen practicing in the Bellarmine pool.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

After its second year of rejuvenation, the Bellarmine Photography Club is still alive and well. A few format changes were made this year. First of all, Mr. Bernie Cabanne replaced Mr. Hardy Reyerson as moderator. Secondly, the emphasis of the club shifted. Last year, the goal was to learn how to take excellent pictures, whereas this year the main purpose is to learn how to develop negatives and make prints. Using the darkroom twice a week, the club refines its methods in learning how to deal with stop baths, fixer, and other lab techniques. The club has been very helpful towards this yearbook by making prints and, more importantly, by cleaning the darkroom (it gets awfully messy in there).

Cabanne admires newly developed negatives.

Play Rugby!

This year the Bellarmine Rugby Football Club is again fielding two teams. Bellarmine RFC has fielded teams for the last three years. This year promises to be a successful one since both teams are strong. Bellarmine plays host to touring sides from around the world including Great Britain and Canada.

Rugby came to America from England around the turn of the century. It was played commonly in America until 1924 when the US had an unpopular win in the Paris Olympics. It is still played with much popularity at the college level and with growing enthusiasm at the high school level.

This year the first side is lead by seniors Tim McDonald, Marty Hartigan, Pete Allen, and juniors Dave Tatro and Dave Dowley. The second side which is equally competent in its own right is lead by rookies sophomores Reggie Young, Tom Scilacci, and freshman Paul Giannini.

Rugby is a growing club sport at Bellarmine and needs all the support it can get. Mr. Mike McDonald, the coach, and the rest of the team encourage all who are interested to participate.

A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM

It's not easy to write a funny article about a comedy. If you really want to know, it's not very easy to write articles about anything. If it were up to me, I'd just say it was a great, funny play and leave it at that. Unfortunately, they won't let me out of this cell until I give them an article.

Last night I saw senior John Pliska and sophomore Dan Findrick lead a cast of thousands in a theatrical toga party. Other highlights were the protean Proteans (look it up) and the Courtesans (my personal favorite). If you saw the play, you are among the laughing few. If not, you missed something beautiful, wonderful, and Roman.

LUNCHTIME ACTIVITIES

What does Bellarmine do for lunch? Eat? Nahh, too mundane. Homework? No, that should be done at home, where there are good study conditions like the stereo, the TV, and the phone. Intramurals? Isn't that like painting?

The very idea of competing in intramural athletics sends chills down the spine of most Bellarmine students — well, some students — O.K. a couple of frosh. Intramural sports at Bellarmine are no big deal. They never make cuts, rarely practice and only occasionally win national championships. They do, however, provide the Bellarmine student body with an important commodity: fun. When you look at it that way (and remember that there's nothing better to do), intramurals are at least worth the weight in Doritos.

1ST AND GOAL

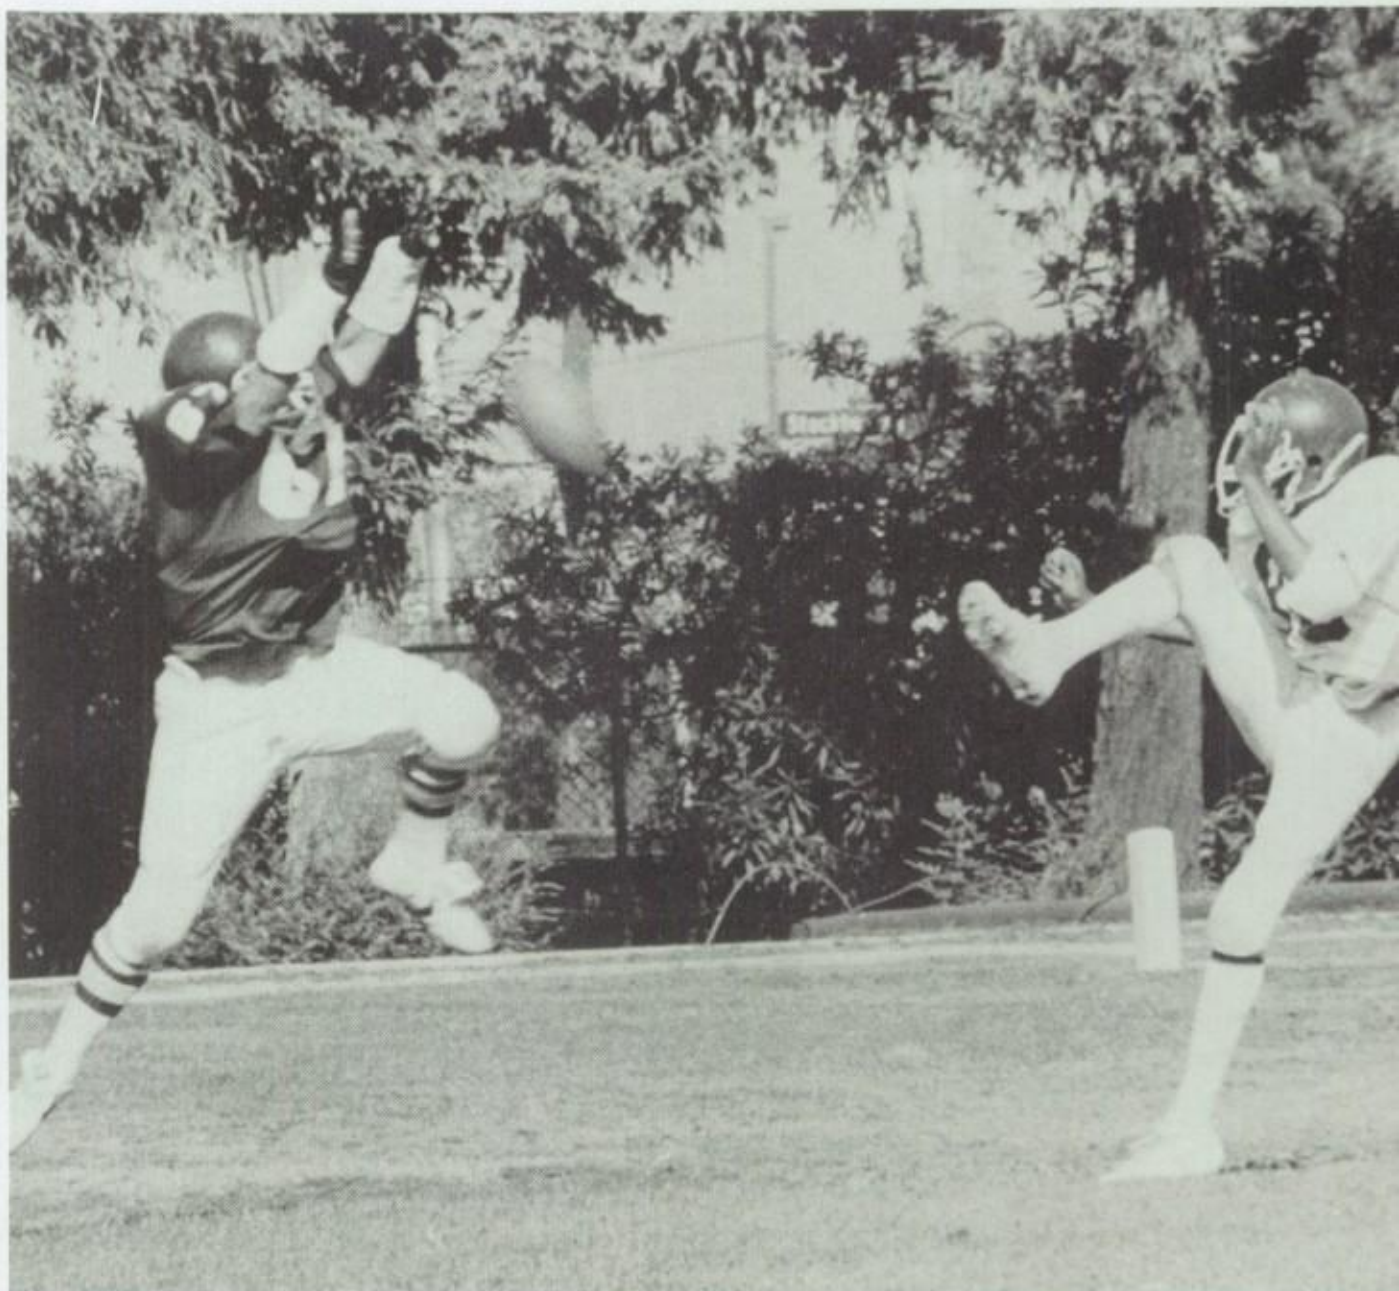

Vic Giacalone blocks the punt.

The Baby Bells did very well overall earning a 6-1 record and earned a second place finish. Coached by Mike Schmitz, Leo Ruth, and Fr. Dick Cobb, the freshman scored 174 points over the season and allowed only 38.

The offense played very well, dominating teams like Riordan, which lost 42-8, and Sacred Heart which lost by a score of 32-0. Led by quarterbacks Scott Mollahan and Patrick Salac, the Baby Bells averaged 25 points. Fullbacks Steve Barrios, Dave Barrera, and Mark Hernandez, racked up yardage with a lot of credit going to the offensive line which was Dennis Namimatsu, Vic Giacalone, Mike Flohr, and John McClenahan.

The Baby Bell defense was stiff, shutting out Moreau, Sacred Heart, and Serra. The defense could rely on very good linebackers, such as Steve Barrios, Chuck Breeden and tackles Alan Frame and Vic Giacalone. The secondary also played well with a defensive backfield consisting of Scott Klemm, Chris Wage, and Scott Olsen.

The Baby Bells overall played well as they finished second in the WCAL.

Coached by Mike Lowney, James Urhausen, and Larry Tate, the Bell Junior Varsity Football Team dominated the WCAL by defeating everyone it faced. They compiled an impressive record of nine wins and no losses.

The junior Varsity faced some tough opposition from Monta Vista of Danville, Serra, St. Ignatius, and St. Francis. The team's offensive line was impressive. Offensive linemen such as Jeff Olson, Dan Imbat, Allen Lopez, and Matt Howard provided good pass protection, and good key blocking for the running game. Running backs Greg Pedone, Steve Massa, and Tyson Toles provided the offense with an explosive rushing game, and when it came down to just keeping the opposition's offense off the field, the JV's would literally run their opponents into the ground, both eating up the clock and yardage. The JV passing game was just as effective, with wide receivers Chris Dean and Mike Peckham and tight ends Troy Buckley and Jerome Revels, Quarterback Bob Allard had many targets from which to choose.

The JV defense was very good as well. With defensive linemen, such as Pete Fuqua, Ed Thrift, Bob Morelli, and Steve Santucci, teams frequently found it hard to run against the Bells. The JV's also had talented linebackers and a hard hitting secondary. Linebackers Winston Wood, Tony Loeffler, Matt Mingrone, and Mike Selletti frequently assisted on tackles and played very well against the pass. The defensive secondary punished opposing receivers. Receivers were greeted in a brutal fashion when the JV secondary comprised of safeties Kevin Conway and Kyle Rootsaert, and corners Sal Saglimbeni and Todd Branon, hit them.

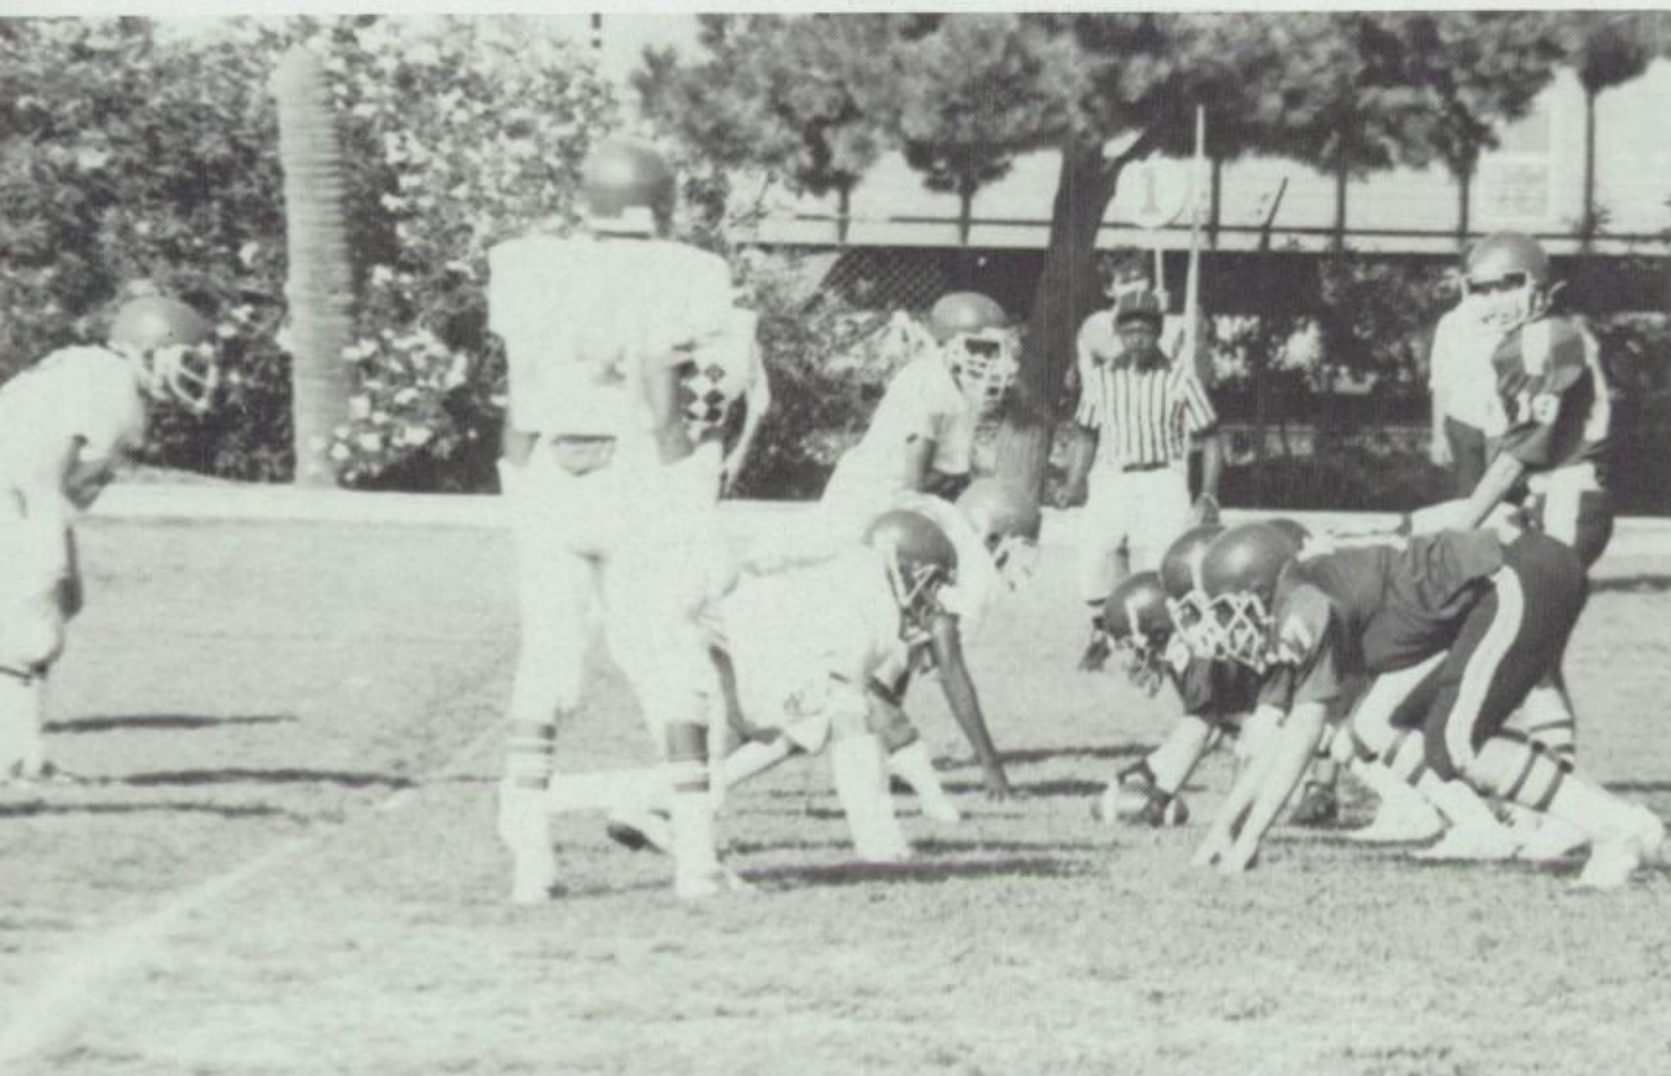

The special teams played well also. The coverage downfield was very good overall and kicker Tobin Douglas performed well, especially on extra point attempts. The JV's overall played extremely well under a new head coach and for the third year in a row, claimed the WCAL Title.

B-B-BEL-LL-LLS

In the formation of the 1984 Bellarmine Varsity Football Team, the Bells underwent some drastic changes featuring a new coaching staff with new offensive and defensive schemes. Though they were a talented and disciplined team, the Bells were hampered with injuries: Chuck Ebertin could not play the first six games of the season, Jim McMahon missed games late in the season due to an ankle injury and Sam Kais missed a few games because of a back injury. Mark Walker, Keith Granucci, Bob Steinbock, and Doug "Bubba" Robinson also were injured in the playoffs, causing the loss of key reserve players. However, this team was full with character and talent. They compiled a 12-1 record, captured the WCAL title, and surprised everyone by earning an appearance in the CCS Championship Game against rival St. Francis.

The defensive scheme was masterminded by coaches Larry Lauro and Rich Herrmann. The Bell defensive line which was solid against the run, allowing only 2.3 yards per run, featured Pat Wahler, Matt Bell, Boots Del Biaggio, Kevin Shannon, Jono Tunney and Mike Montoya. The Bells also had a slew of good linebackers who assisted on both the pass and on the run. The secondary was also very good with defensive backs such as Jim DiVittorio, speedster Mike McLaurin, Jered Wagner, and J.P. Scandalios. In the course of the season, the secondary chalked up 28 interceptions and allowed few completions against tough passing teams like Oak Grove. In the CCS Semifinal Game, Oak Grove completed only 18 passes out of 41 attempts.

"29.6 POINTS A GAME!"

This season, the Bells had an explosive offense, both running and passing. With Head Coach Mike Janda devising offensive strategies, the Bells scored over 300 points offensively and averaged 29.6 points a game. The running game was spearheaded by senior Mark Dumont, who rushed for 1,407 yards and 18 touchdowns. Other key players in the rushing attack were Dave Couture, Pete Mazolewski, Bob Steinbock, Keith Granucci, and Sam Kais. The Bells also had a superb offensive line which provided good blocking and pass protection. The line included Chuck Ebertin, Jim Flaur, Will Wall, John Pasqualetto, and Kevin Desmond, just name a few. The passing game featured quarterback Ron Caragher. Out of 189 passes, Caragher completed 105 them for 1,557 yards and 21 touchdowns. His favorite target was J.P. Scandalios who caught 43 passes and racked up 681 yards and nine touchdowns. Other receivers were Chuck Gillingham, Mike McLaurin, Ron Sortino, and Dave Couture who were devastating threats as well.

"One alligator, two alligator..." (R. Caragher)

Feeling lonely, Ron? (R. Sortino)

Coached by Larry Tate, the special teams were also very impressive. Senior Ken Reinhard kicked six field goals and many key extra points as well. Chuck Gillingham also punted well, giving his teammates a lot of time to get down field and cover the kick. Other key special team players were Tim McNeil, Mark Majors, Tim McDonald, and Pat McPherson who were all very good on coverage.

The future looks bright also. With returning players such as Joe Fuqua, Andy Colehower, Ken Deeds, Tom Scilacci, Ed Matlack, Tom Fenton, and Jim Reid, the Bells will have a powerful team next year. The Bells faced a tough schedule this year and next year should be no easier. The WCAL is one of the toughest leagues in the CCS. This year, the Bells faced some fierce opponents in St. Francis, St. Ignatius and Oak Grove, which was the fifth-ranked team in the nation.

FROSH/SOPH WATER POLO

The frosh-soph water polo team had a great year while heading to a 27-2 record. Though their outstanding record may make them seem almost invincible, the frosh-soph suffered a tough loss in their final tournament of the season to give them a respectable, but disappointing, fifth place in the NorCal tournament.

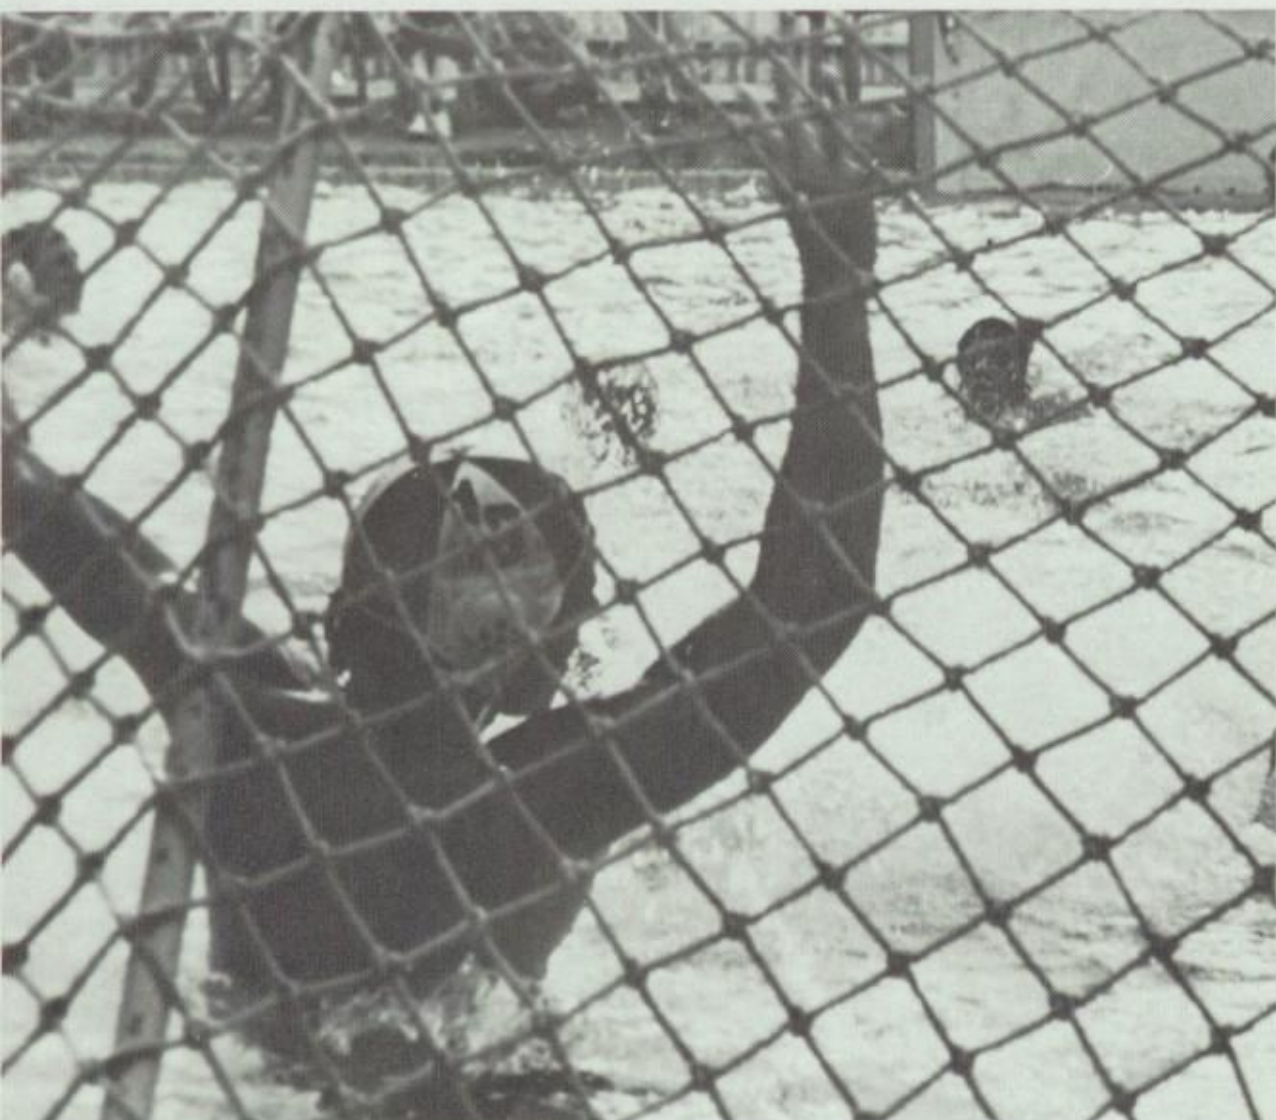

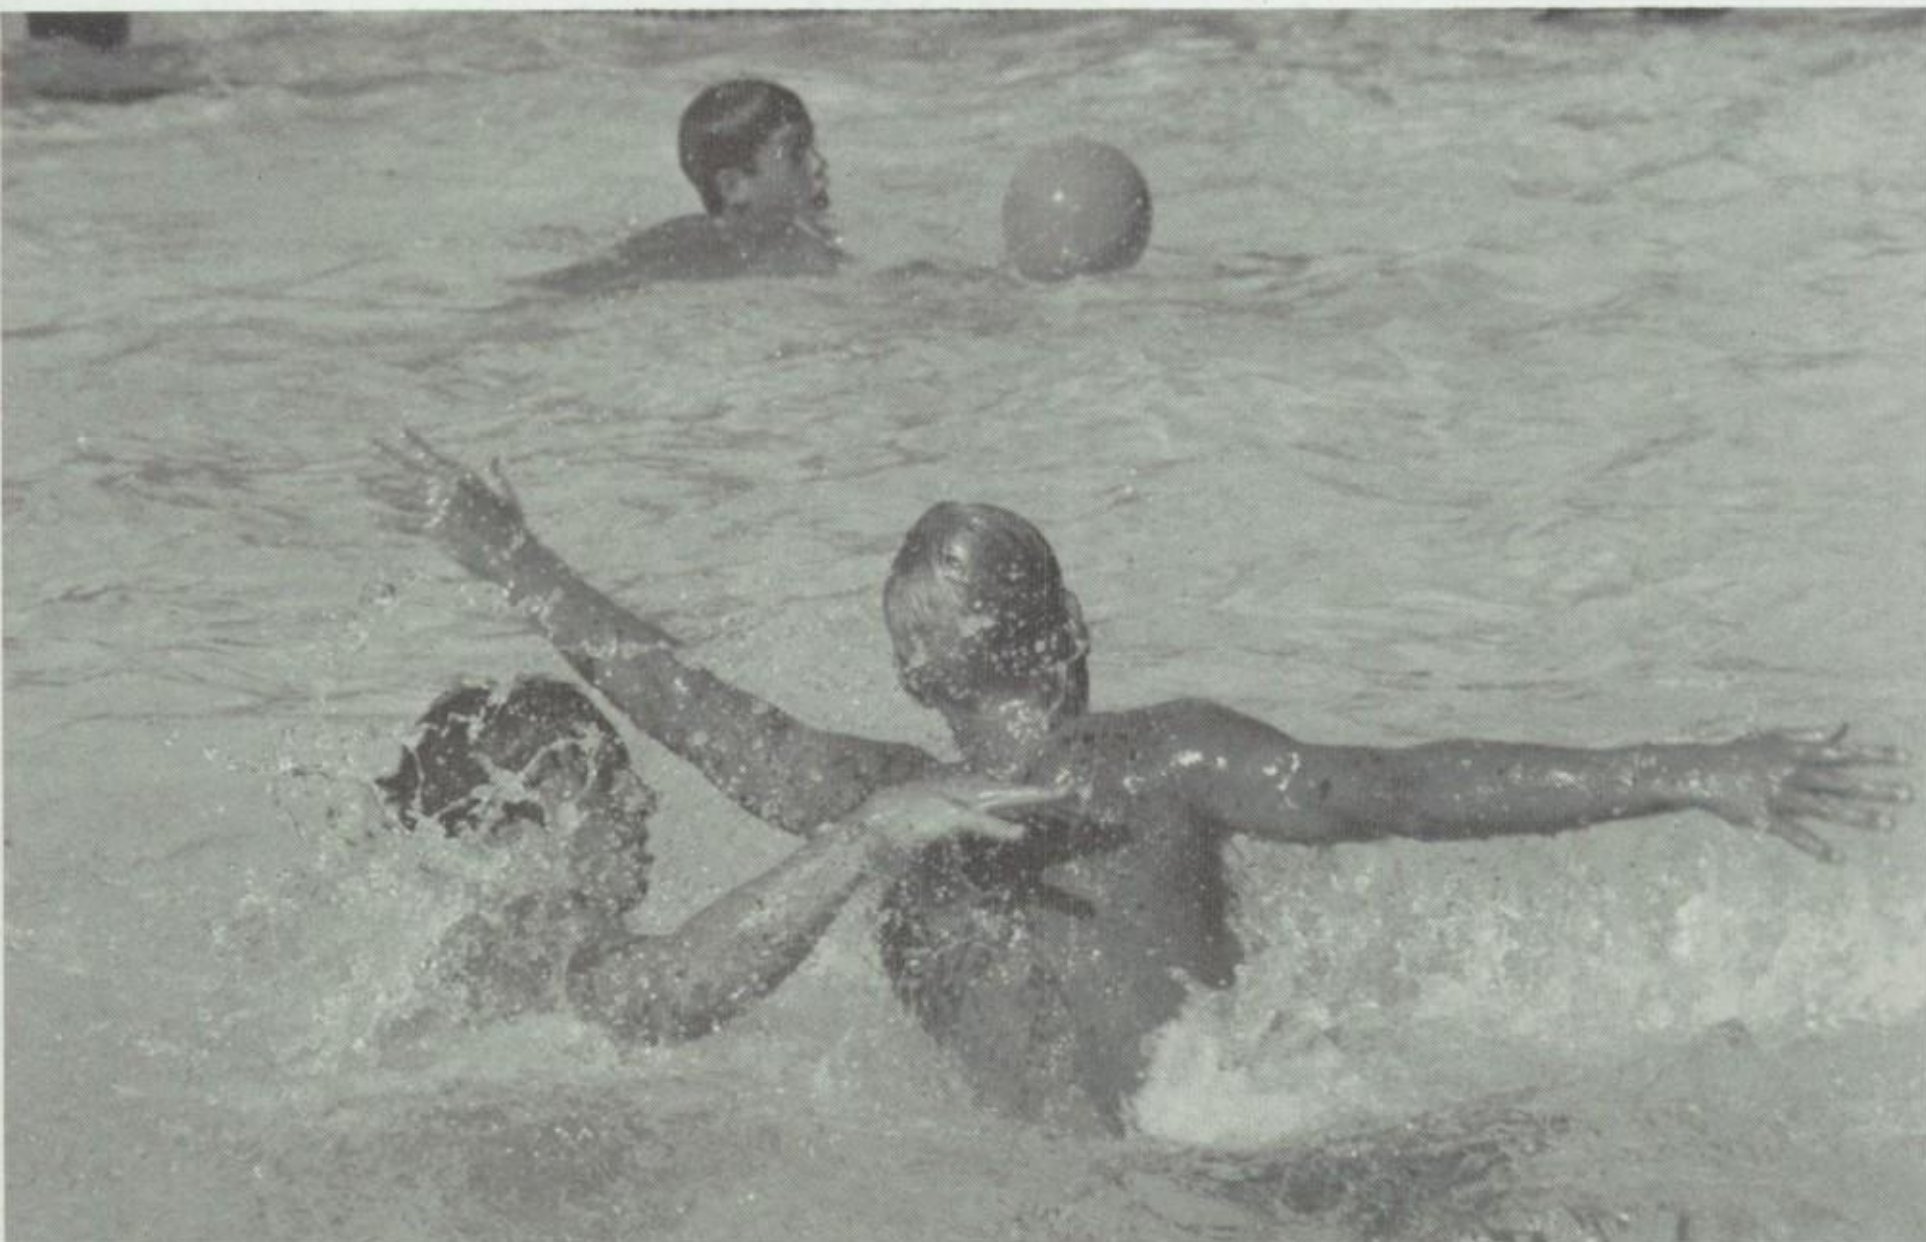

This team was one of the fastest frosh-soph teams ever. The team often had more than one person on a counterattack against just the other team's goalie. Led by sophomores Mark Taliaferro, Tim Kvek, Bill Hood, freshmen John Matarangas, Luis Nicolao, and up-and-comer John Tann, the team had incredible experience and speed for a frosh-soph team. Backing up these speedsters was freshman Scott Machado, who was voted the #1 frosh-soph goalie in the league. This outstanding group destroyed their league and will definitely be an asset to future varsity teams.

In over his head.

I HOPE THOSE HORSES CAN SWIM

"I want to fly like an eagle." (G. Kirby D. Sacco)

The Bells' water polo teams have had outstanding seasons the past few years and this year was no exception. The varsity team had a very good year considering that only one starter and only four players returned this year. Senior Tom Popp, the obvious leader of the team had the most pressure to perform placed on him and he came through. Popp was often the high scorer and helped the Bells tremendously with his defensive experience. Junior John Lally also had a good year and proved that he will be a force to be reckoned with next year. On the ALL-CCS team in addition to Popp and Lally, were Paul Windust, Mike Mix, and the #1 goalie of the tournament, John Lupien. Sean Flannery and Colin Connolly also helped the Bells out as starters. The team's youth shows here as only Popp will be lost to graduation.

The Bells' season had many ups and downs. In some of the tournaments, they were not as successful as they had hoped, one of the most disappointing being the California State Invitational, where the team suffered through a bad first day and needed the second day to redeem themselves although they did not reach their goal of Top 8 in California. Another disappointment was the devastating loss to Live Oak in the CCS final game. On the other hand, there were also some very big ups for the team this year. League play is definitely one of those ups as the Bells continued their domination of the Santa Theresa League. The Bells did a great job in what was supposedly called a "rebuilding" year and hopefully they will have continued success in future years.

ON THE ROAD AGAIN

"I think I can."

The talent on this year's freshmen cross country team was a coach's dream: outstanding individuals and excellent depth resulted in an incredible season. Not only were they undefeated in all their meets, which included some prestigious invitationals, but the combined times of their five top runners in a two mile race set a National Postal record, breaking the old mark by an astonishing minute and twenty seconds. And though calling a team the school's "best ever" is easily done, in this case it is inarguably true.

Though often running varsity during the season, team leaders Torre Pena and Ian Champeny easily breezed through the freshmen races in which they participated. Their efforts against each other were so competitive that it was not to surprising when they finished in a dead tie in breaking the freshmen school two mile record. Always close behind was the consistent third man, Kevin Vergho. Though he was not as well recognized as Pena and Champeny, his time were also among Bellarmine's top ever for a freshman. The two additional runners who were members of the record-breaking Postal combination were Jim Slavin and Jason Potmesil. This group of five, along with Dave Houston, Charles Ross, and Dan Araldi added the ALL-WCAL distinction to their already long list of honors.

Looking back upon the season, It is clear that it went near perfectly; the team never had a bad day. As coach Terry ward put it. "They were a talented group that always raced extremely well." One only has to look at their record to see the truth in this.

-Mark Callon

The Frosh Cross Country Team

This guy has better things to do than pose.

Sophomores play follow the leader.

Though all of the Bellarmine cross country teams performed admirable, the sophomore squad can rightfully claim to be the most dominating Bell representative. And considering the success of the program as a whole: four WCAL titles and a CCS championship for the varsity, this is a very noteworthy distinction. Only this year's sophomores were able to remain undefeated throughout the season, while the most impressive showing at the WCAL finals belonged to the sophomores alone. They placed nine runners in the top fifteen places at that event, despite the promotion of their top runner, Scott Robinson, to the varsity.

In Robinson's absence, Dave Stanek moved to the helm and was victorious at both the WCAL meet #2 (there are three league meets) and the WCAL finals. Not far behind him, Rob Meinhardt and Eric Rainbolt waged a battle for the second spot. While Meinhardt finished better at two of the more important meets: the league finals and the National Postals, Rainbolt came through in some of the earlier showdown. In any event, both were extremely valuable to the team and both earned ALL-WCAL honors. After these three 1st-team runners, the sophomores grabbed six out of the next eight 2nd-team ALL-WCAL titles. In order of their finish at the league finals, they were Doug Ebright, John Hogan, Jeff Chamberlain, Adam Fields, Jeff Maser, and Chris Pearson.

Due to the strength of this year's varsity team, many of these sophomores were denied the opportunity to run at the varsity level. However, as demonstrated by their great success this season, it is clear that these runners will provide much strength to the varsity squads of the next two years.

RUN LIKE THE WIND

The only close part of the race

From the start of the season at Golden Gate Park, it was clear that Bellarmine's junior varsity team was a force to be reckoned with. In placing eight runners in the top ten, the team set a precedent it would follow throughout the season. Making definite contributions were Peter Holte, Damon Korb, Ivan Orup, Dave Eby, Keith Beggs, Barney Dallas, and Joe Masters. As the season progressed, the team's intensity continued with Mark Bentley, Tim Culligan, Larry Dominguez and Tim Carlin, thus strengthening the team considerably. At all three WCAL meets, Bellarmine quickly outdistanced all of its opponents, especially St. Francis, consequently taking the league title. While this achievement is certainly noteworthy, it is made even more commendable in that it was the team's eighth consecutive league title.

BELLS GET A RUN FOR THEIR MONEY

The 1984 cross country season was full of surprises—especially for the contending teams in the Central Coast Section. While at the beginning of the season, newspapers and opposing coaches all but passed over the Bellarmine varsity's chances to win the CCS title, by the time the dust had cleared nobody could doubt the Bells' dominance in the CCS. In addition to bringing home the school's first CCS cross country title, they captured their fifth consecutive WCAL crown and finished third in Northern California.

Throughout the season, senior Shane O'Flaherty and junior Mark Callon shared the burden of leading the team and proved to be a strong combination in the important meets. O'Flaherty's second place and Callon's eighth in the CCS finals were Bellarmine's highest finishes ever (eighth was the previous best) while their one-two (Callon-O'Flaherty) result at the WCAL finals featured an almost thirty second advantage over third place. They always finished near each other and were equally important to the team—thus earning co-MVP honors.

A key factor in the unexpected success of this year's squad was the emergence of two excellent freshmen runners: Torre Pena and Ian Champney. The two continually smashed all previous freshman school records while settling into the varsity's third, fourth, or fifth positions, depending on the day. Pena's nineteenth place CCS finish has only been bettered by one other freshman in CCS history.

Rounding out the top seven were juniors Dan Fisher, Scott McKean, and Ignacio Hernandez. These runners provided the depth for which Bellarmine's teams have always been known as well as earning many honors as individuals. Each of the three was awarded the first team, ALL-WCAL title in addition to the second team, ALL-CCS status for Fisher and McKean and Honorable Mention, ALL-NorCal for Hernandez.

Perhaps the most astounding aspect of the varsity cross country team is its relative youth. Only one member will be lost to graduation and two of the members will only be sophomores next year. This youth, combined with excellent depth should provide Bellarmine with much success in the future.

VARSITY SOCCER: A TALENTED CREW

Bellarmino has consistently boasted the strongest and most successful soccer program in the CCS. This year is no exception. For the sixth straight year, the Varsity booters reached the WCAL playoffs, and for the second straight year, they captured the prized WCAL title. In addition, the Bells again reached the CCS playoffs, and were ranked and seeded #1. They finally ended their season with a 2-1 loss in sudden-death to #2 ranked Sequoia in the second round of the tournament. The Bells finished the season with an impressive 17-2-4 record.

With this team's talent, success was inevitable, and this year's team has had more than its share of success. They were 5-1-2 in preseason play. Their only loss was to Amador Valley from the NCS. The Bells did not lose again until Sequoia. Their success was due in part to their high-scoring offense which outscored opponents 70-17. This powerful offense was led by 1st Team All-League captains TIM MARTIN and GREG TROUPE — Troupe was also named WCAL offensive MVP for the second straight year as he fell just one goal short of the record for most goals in a season. They were assisted by 1st-Team senior RANDY MORRIS and 2nd-team junior JERED WAGNER. The midfield included 2nd-Team All-Leaguers MARK DONOHUE and TIM McENERY. Finally, the stingy Bell defense that allowed only eight goals in league games was led by third year varsity sweeper JEFF LACKORE, 2nd-Team All-League junior FRANK SCHROEDER, junior ARNE GUERRA, senior MEL FLOHR, and 2nd-Team All-League goalkeeper MARK WILSON. All factors considered, 1984-85 has been another very successful year for Coach BILL CHAMBERS and Varsity Soccer.

J.V. SOCCER: ANOTHER CHAMPIONSHIP

M. Lodoen blocks off opponent.

Faced with a possible third place finish in the WCAL, with their backs against the wall, the JV soccer team scored in the final two minutes of the Mitty game to climax another successful season. The win clinched 1st place for the Bells, who finished the season with a record of 10-2, tied with Serra and St. Francis who had identical records.

Coach ED SARRETT remarked on this year's team, "The team played skillful soccer. There were times though, when we had trouble finishing it. But more important is the fact that we played well and passed well when we had to."

This year's team was unique. It comprised of both juniors and sophomores. Coach Sarrett comments, "It was a good strong combination." The team was led by junior team captains TRAVIS SCHWEIZER, ADAM RECH, and SEAMUS WILMOT and by sophomore captain MIKE JOHANSEN. All four men were selected to the 1st team All-League. In addition, ROGER RE and MICHAEL LODOEN were 2nd team All-Leaguers. ROGER CHECCI received Honorable Mention. Also deserving recognition is junior CARSTEN SCHMIDT from Germany, who helped out the JV'ers a lot. With this much talent, next year's Varsity team will again be favored to win the WCAL title.

"Trust me. Soccer IS exciting." (J. Gillearn)

"The team as a unit was comprised of hardworking and generous players. They have fun with the game. But most importantly, they enjoy playing as a team." commented MR. DAVE ROBINSON, SJ, second year Frosh Soccer Assistant Coach.

This hardworking and fun-loving group possessed plenty of talent at all positions. The team was led by team captains GREG BARONE and JASON GILLEARN. The explosive offense rested in the powerful left foot of leading goal-scorer MARK BURGELES. In addition, the midfield was held together by ALEX SOOHOO. Yet, the defense was even more successful than the offense. Coach Robinson remarked, "The defense did really well." This stingy defense allowed very few goals in league games. DAVID AVILA helped his teammates by shutting down opposing forwards. And Gaolie CORY STILL made many crucial saves. Also worthy of recognition are the team's managers, DAVE ELLIS and MATT FITTS.

Behind the guidance of Head Coach BRENDAN CUNNING the Frosh finished 1st in WCAL, making it a clean sweep for Bellarmine Soccer at all three levels. With this talented group, the future of Bellarmine Soccer is indeed promising.

FRESHMAN A AND B BASKETBALL

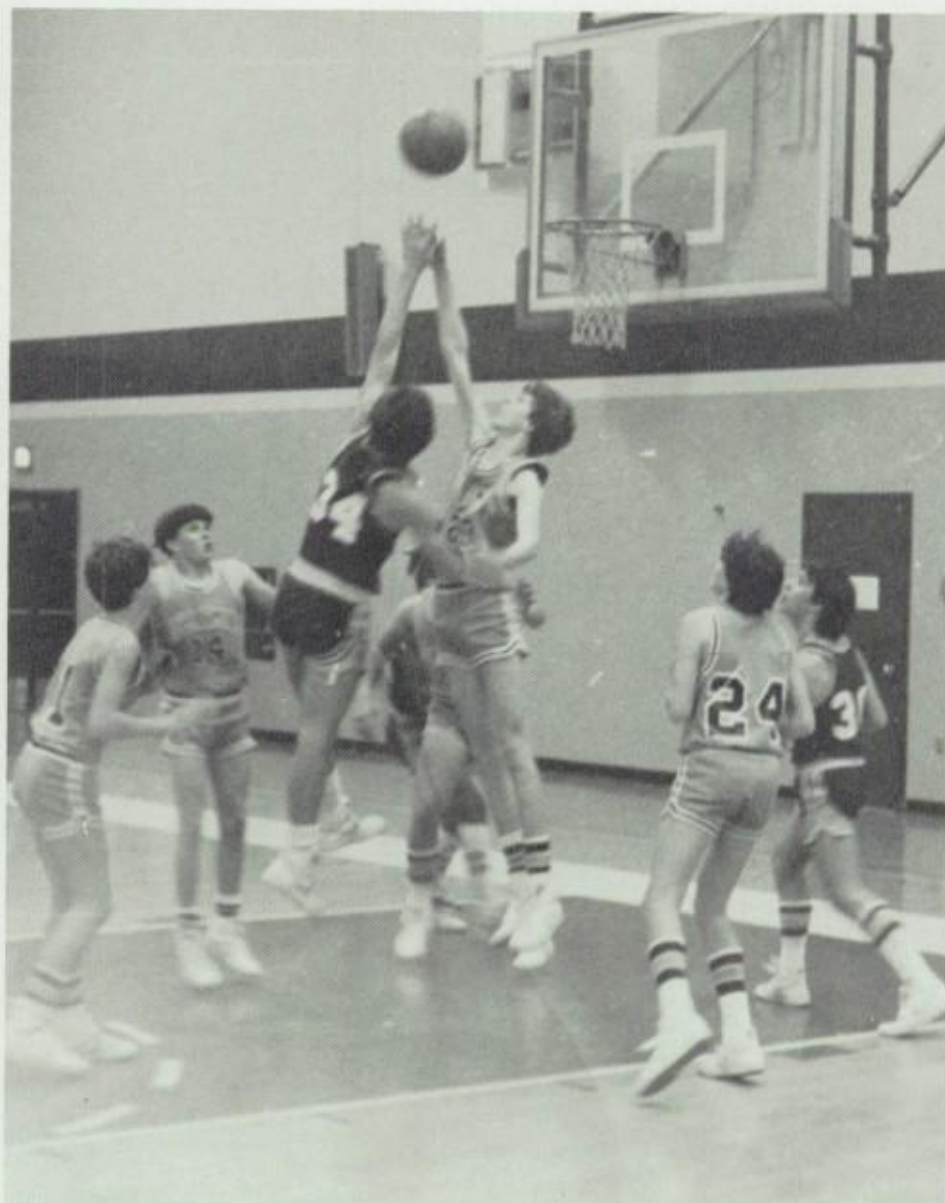

With the varsity and junior varsity teams struggling, the frosh basketball teams have provided a ray of hope for the basketball program at Bellarmine.

The freshman A team, coached by Tim Peterson, were fairly successful, defeating St. Ignatius, Mitty, Serra, And St. Francis. This success can be attributed to many factors, not the least of which is teamwork. Though the team was talented, with offensive threats like Mike Flohr, Keith Kanecko, and Jon Honore; and players like Dave Albritton playing superb defense, the key was the balance and unity between the individual players.

The freshman B team, coached by Dave Saunders, was nearly faultless with an exceptionally good record and equally good play. With Casey Courneen and Bill Boehner providing outside shooting, and Scott Klemm and Steve Barrios playing tough inside, these freshmen were nearly unbeatable. Another asset of this team was that they were unusually relaxed—a result of Coach Saunders' support and encouragement.

Though there were many factors involved in the freshman basketball teams' success, probably the most influential factor was that of teamwork. Each member was an integral part of the team. Though some individuals may have made outstanding contributions, it is the team that achieved success and as a team they deserve our recognition.

J.V. HOOPSTERS

Though they are called the junior varsity basketball team, the term "sophomore varsity" could be more accurate. The fourteen player team was made up of thirteen sophomores and one junior. One has to feel sympathy for such a young team playing in one of the toughest leagues in Northern California. Though they might have been successful in another league, in the WCAL they have merely been frustrated.

Under head coach Keith Matthews, though sometimes playing very well, the team was inconsistent. However, like the varsity, the team has good talent but little luck. The talent was very obvious, with players like Dave Brady, Mike Ducote, and Jim Fitzgerald contributing greatly to the team, and junior Mike Davey contributing leadership and experience to the team. However, the luck at times seemed nonexistent, with the Bells being on the less desirable side of a 41-40 game against St. Francis.

Though they may have been disappointed by their record this year, this team has much to look forward to. With its good height, youth, and increasing experience, the junior varsity has only to say, "Wait 'till next year."

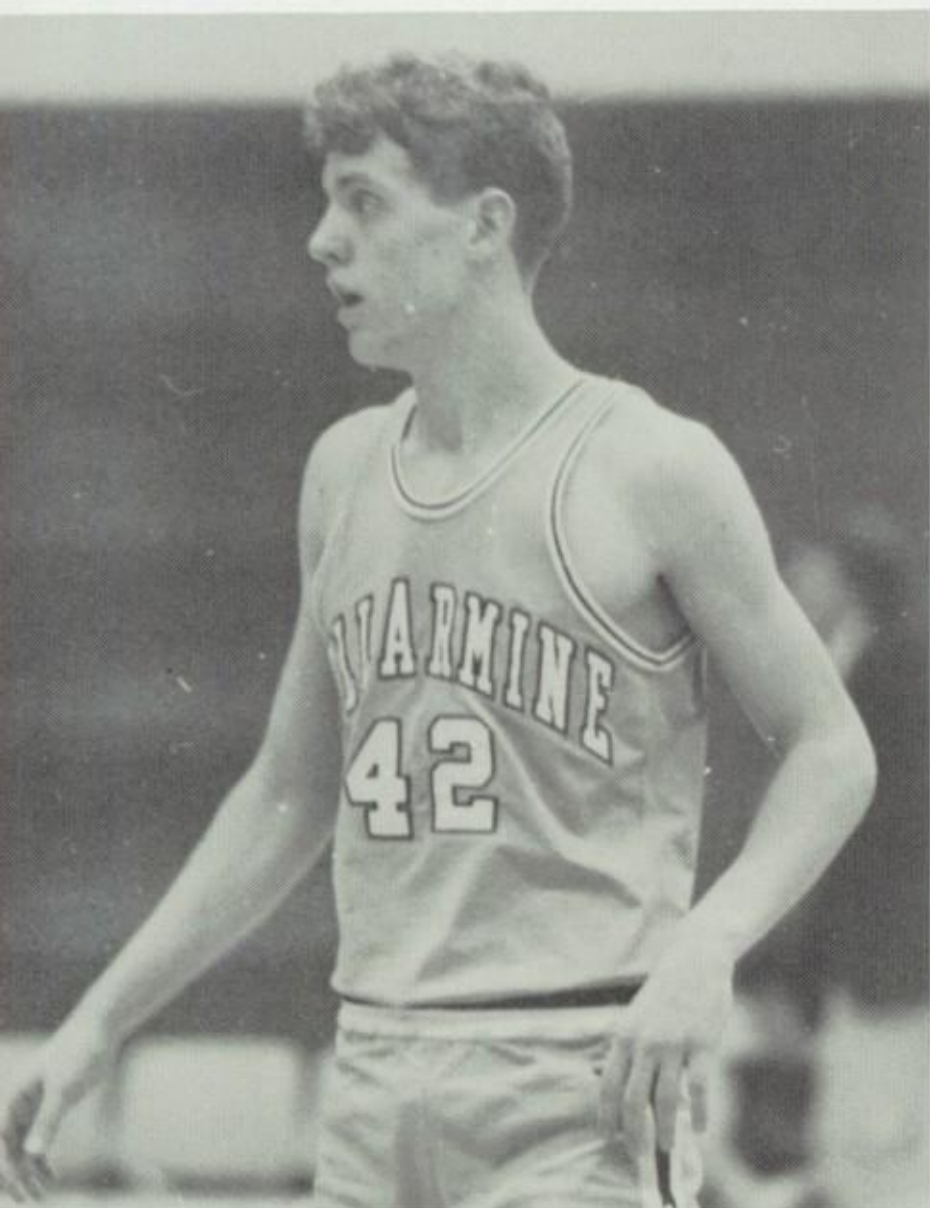

"I suppose you're all wondering why I've called you here today."

"I dare you to try to get by me. I'll double dare you!"

WINNING ISN'T EVERYTHING

Were you ever in the wrong place at the wrong time? Some people might say that the 1985 Bellarmine basketball team was in the wrong league at the wrong time. With three of the WCAL's seven teams in the CCS top ten, competition was more than a little fierce. Coached by Chris Lorenc, the Bells were very successful at the beginning of the season, beating Santa Theresa 58-40 and Willow Glen 64-41. However, when the regular season began, the Bells were to begin a winning drought that was extremely frustrating.

Though the team may have been less successful than had been anticipated, it was not because the team was devoid of talent. 6'9" senior co-captain John Veargason led the team both on the court and off. Veargason's job was not made easy by the injury of co-captain Mike Finerty. Senior forward Ron Caragher was also a dependable player. In Finerty's absence, senior Dawson Crawford and sophomore John Sayers ably filled the forward position. J.P. Scandalios, Greg Fant, and Tim Rapp shared time as the two guards.

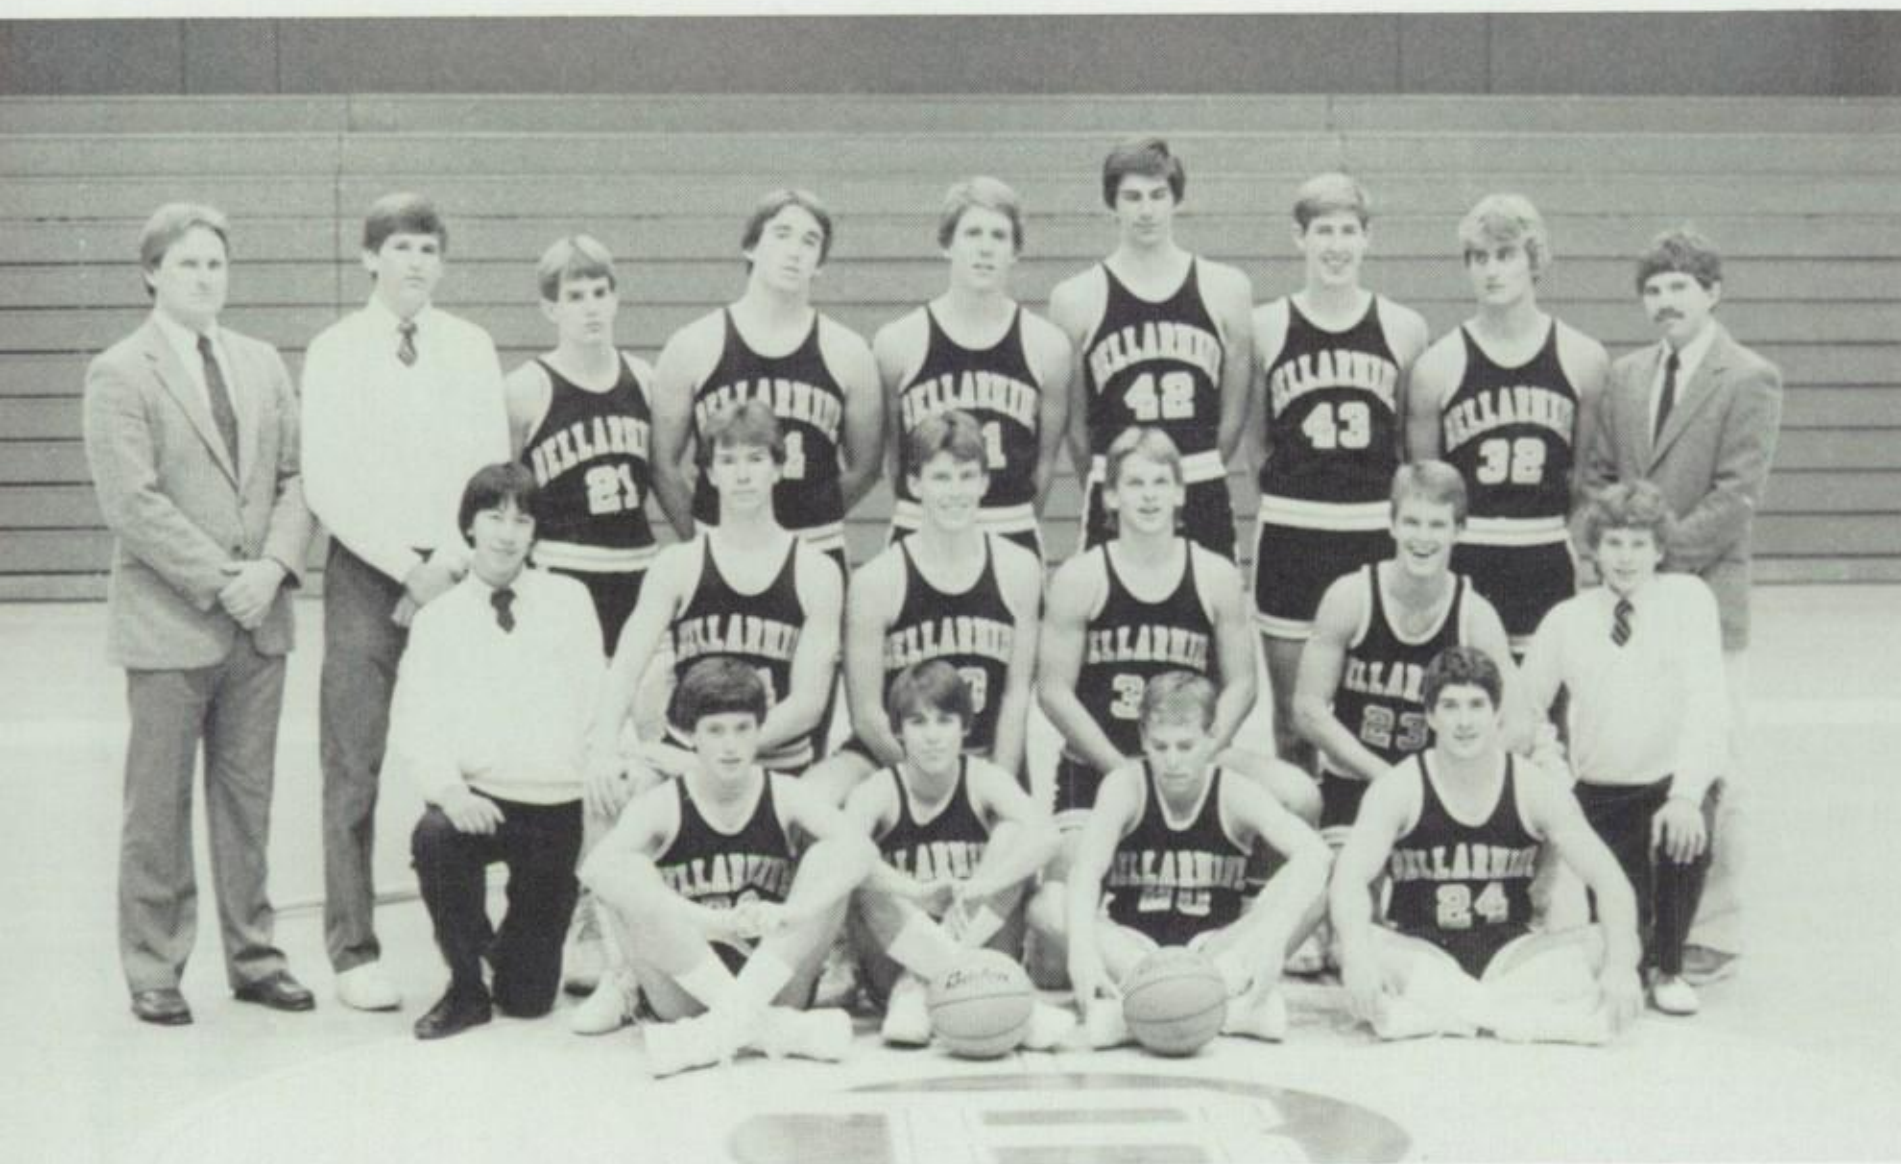

Though their win column might not show it, this year's team was a talented group. Unfortunately, the team didn't get much in the way of breaks. For example, they lost three one-point games in a row, two in overtime. However, the team never seemed to lose heart. The players, though frustrated, played hard and thus kept themselves in many of their games until the end. They kept playing hard no matter how great the deficit and that is what athletics are all about.

J.V. RACKETEERS

The Junior Varsity tennis team has long been regarded as the training grounds for future Varsity players. This idea was very prevalent this season and last. Of the 16 J.V. players from last season's squad, 9 of them moved up to Varsity. This year there were only two veteran J.V. players. They were MIKE ROBISON and MIKE GOLDBERGER.

Though the season began with a disappointing loss (3-4) against top-ranked Gunn High School, the J.V. team had high hopes for the rest of the season. Commenting on the loss, MIKE GOLDBERGER encouragingly said, "Our first match was just a warm-up; we should be rolling through the rest of the season."

Playing number one singles was ERIC BRADLEY, followed by HUNTER DUNN, JOSH MICHAELS, WARREN NISHIKAWA, and CHRIS NEALE. MIKE ROBISON and CHRIS WOJSLAW paired up for number one doubles while CHRIS JASPER and MIKE GOLDBERGER paired up for number two doubles. Coached by MR. DAVE SAUNDERS, the team kept up its reputation as a training-grounds for the Varsity team.

VARSITY TENNIS: "NET" PROFITS

Perhaps the word that most accurately describes the 1985 Bellarmine tennis team is "young." Only two of the nine players are seniors and two are freshmen. Leading the team is senior Dave Stewart. In addition to being the favorite to win the CCS singles title, Stewart is also ranked the second best 18 year-old in Northern California. Juniors John Connolly and Gary Lane return to the varsity team in the second and third seeds, respectively. Senior Dan Sedillo and junior Gus Palattao complete the singles players. Freshmen Tim Connolly and Zach Reid comprise the first seed doubles team while Mark LaFitte and Tim McAdams make up the second team. With the return of experienced players and the influx of new talent, the team is certainly to be a force in the WCAL and even in the CCS.

It seemed promising from the beginning. Early this year, 78 freshmen tried out for a team of nineteen. Actually, twenty-two made the team since three freshmen made the JV team. Though this allowed three more freshmen to play, many talented players were still cut. For such a talented group with little experience as a team, they kept their perspective and were supportive of their teammates.

This year's freshman team has an exceptionally strong pitching staff with the talents of Ian Calip, Jody Kirk, Mark Hernandez, Bill Towne, and John Nora. Fielding was provided by Alan Frame, Chuck Breeden, and Mike Wright. Providing offense were Bill Boehner, Doug O'Neill, Steve Barriosm, and Dan Cholowski. This team is a strong contender in the WCAL and should provide good players for future JV and Varsity teams.

JUNIOR VARSITY BASEBALL

I know you've read a lot in here about "young teams," but the 1985 JV Baseball Team has YOUTH — if you consider three starting freshmen to be young on a JV team.

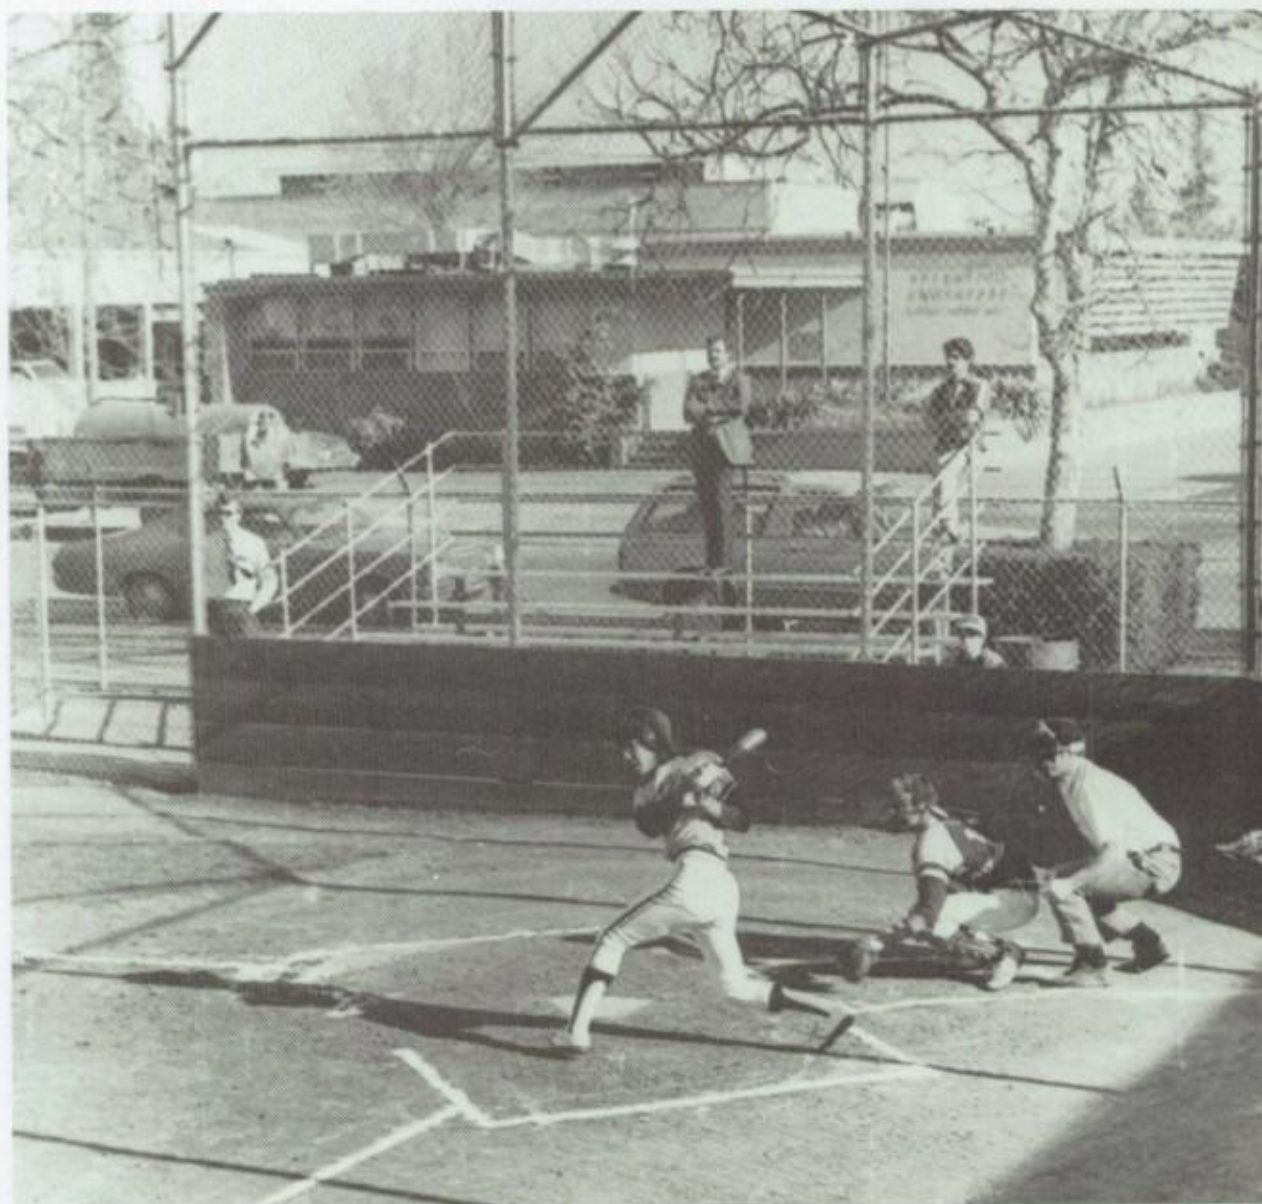

EXPLOSIVE is the word used to describe the team's offense. Averaging ten runs per game, the team has a potent combination of power and speed. Leading the attack are fielders Eric Yamamoto and Mike Arrietta. Freshman Scott Mollahan (SS) provided consistent hitting while junior Jered Wagner (CF) was the lead-off man and added speed to the team.

Pitching was also a strong point of the team. The team has a plethora of good pitchers including two sophomores, Jim Fitzgerald and Pat King. Sophomore Andy "Lurch" Ianni was the team's "stopper," providing excellent relief.

It seems that this year's team had it all: juniors' experience, freshmen's vitality, power hitting and speed. Perhaps Coach Rich Herrmann summed it up best when he said, "I expect that we'll have an exceptional varsity team by the time these players are varsity."

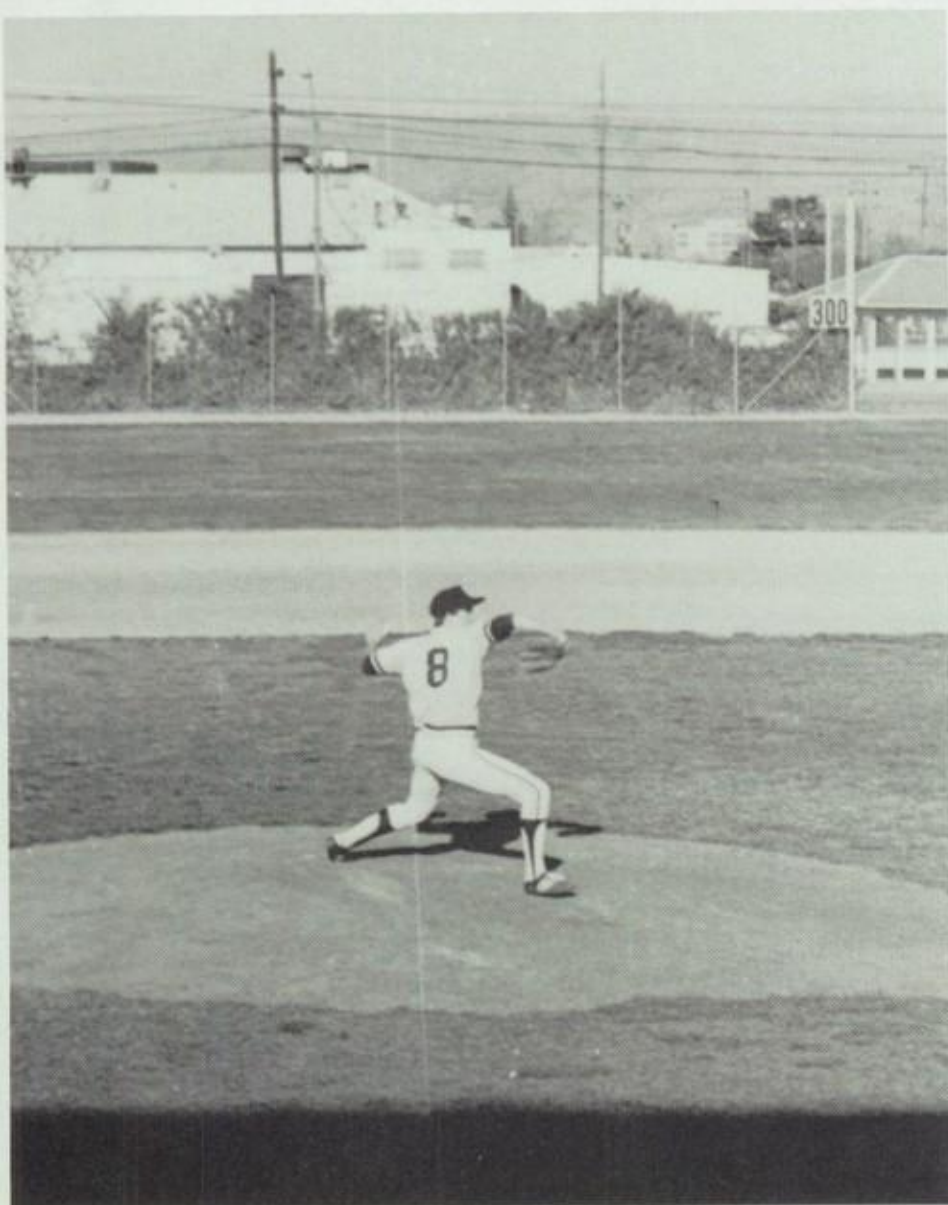

-Bradford Salisbury

E. Yamamoto rips another one.

Two down and one to go.

And it's a screamer to left field.

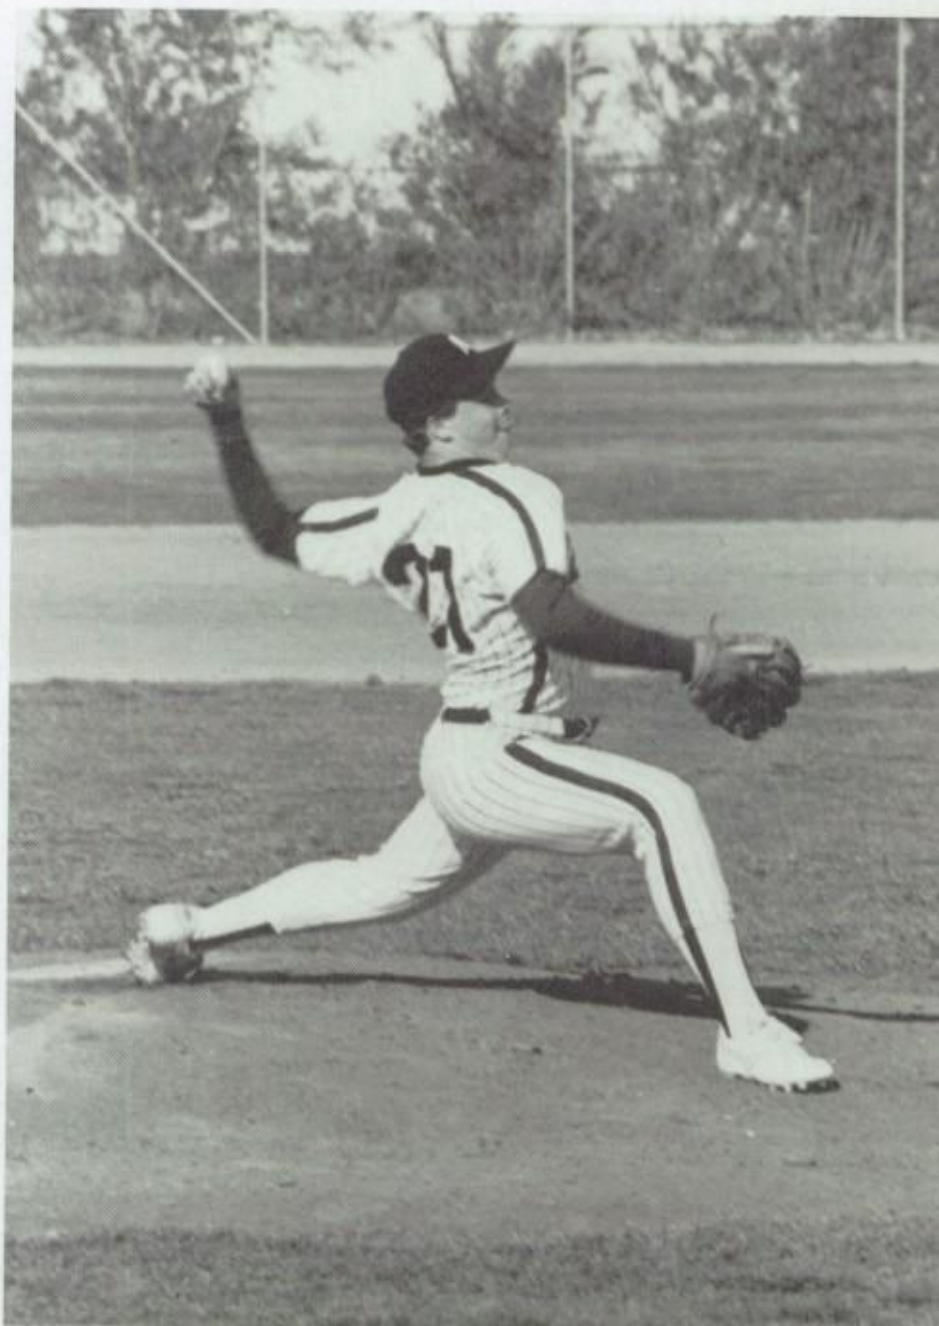

BELL VARSITY BELTERS

Ace Pitcher M. Walker throws another strike.

The varsity baseball team had one of their better seasons in recent years. They have a well-balanced attack and have challenged their WCAL foes all season. In the early part of their season they seemed to be off to glory. They had a 3-0 pre-season and quickly jumped to a 6-1 record in league play. Their only early-season loss came at the hands of number-one ranked Serra. Coach Don Ardisson commented on the game by saying, "It was a tough loss because the team played very well."

The Bells won this year because of their outstanding diversity. Greg Troupe pitched some fine games as well as providing consistent hitting. Mike Walker and Ryan Dunlay have stabilized the pitching corps with Chris Hammett, Troy Buckley, and J.P. Scandalios providing clutch hitting. Probably the most consistent and devastating part of the team is its speed. In the early part of the season, they stole 35 bases in 36 attempts. In summation, the varsity Bells proved to have an outstanding team in many facets of their game.

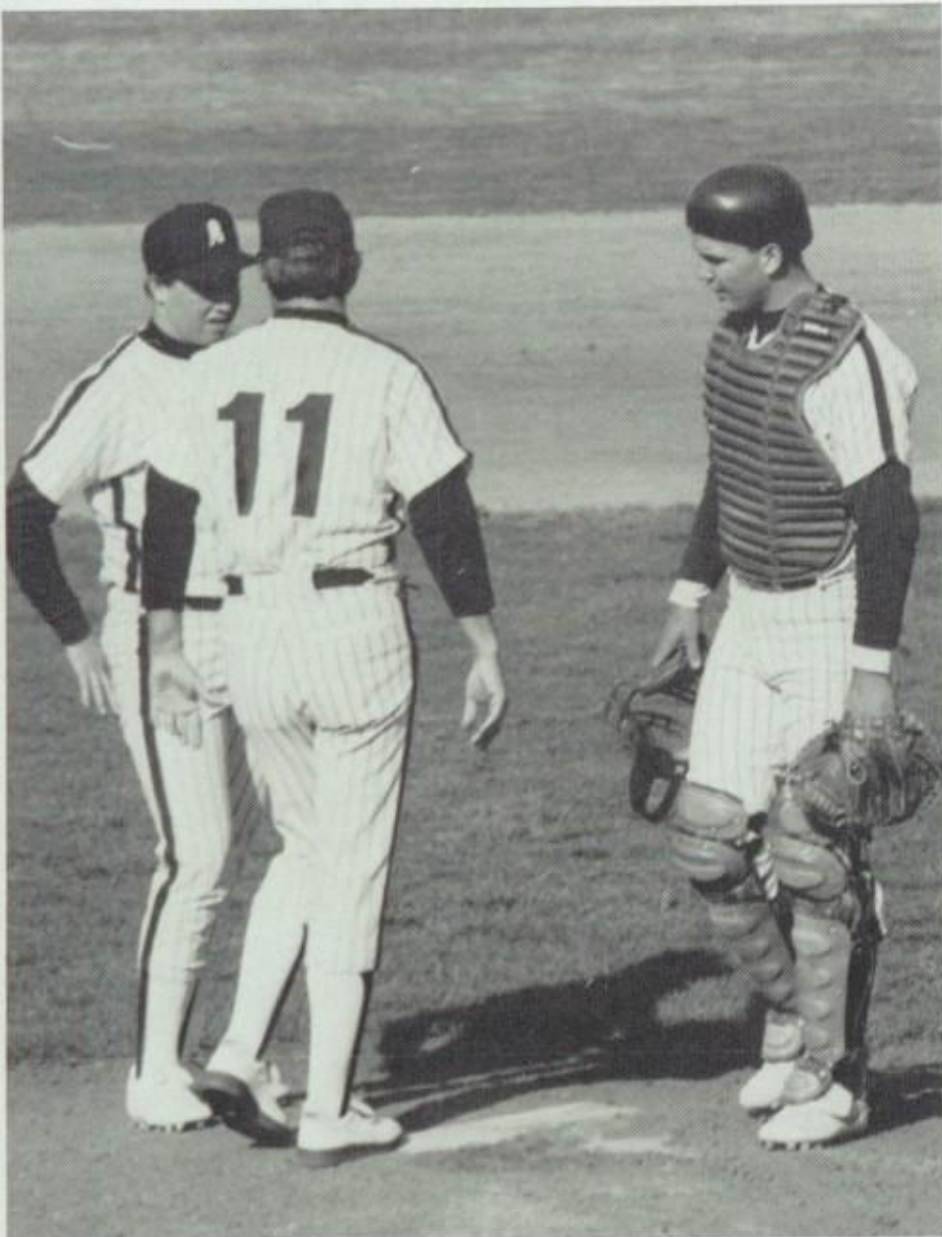

Close - Call!!!! (G. Troupe)

Hey, we play baseball. (C. Kearns and G. Gohr)

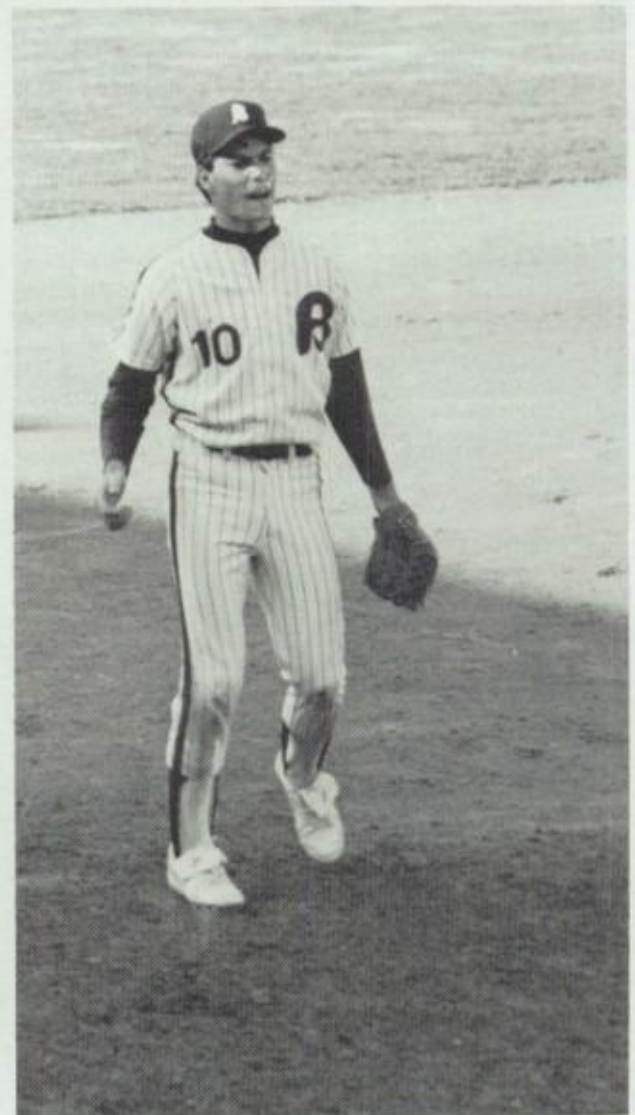

M. Walker gets the hook.

G. Troupe goes for another steal.

Safe!!!!

We want a batter not a broken ladder.

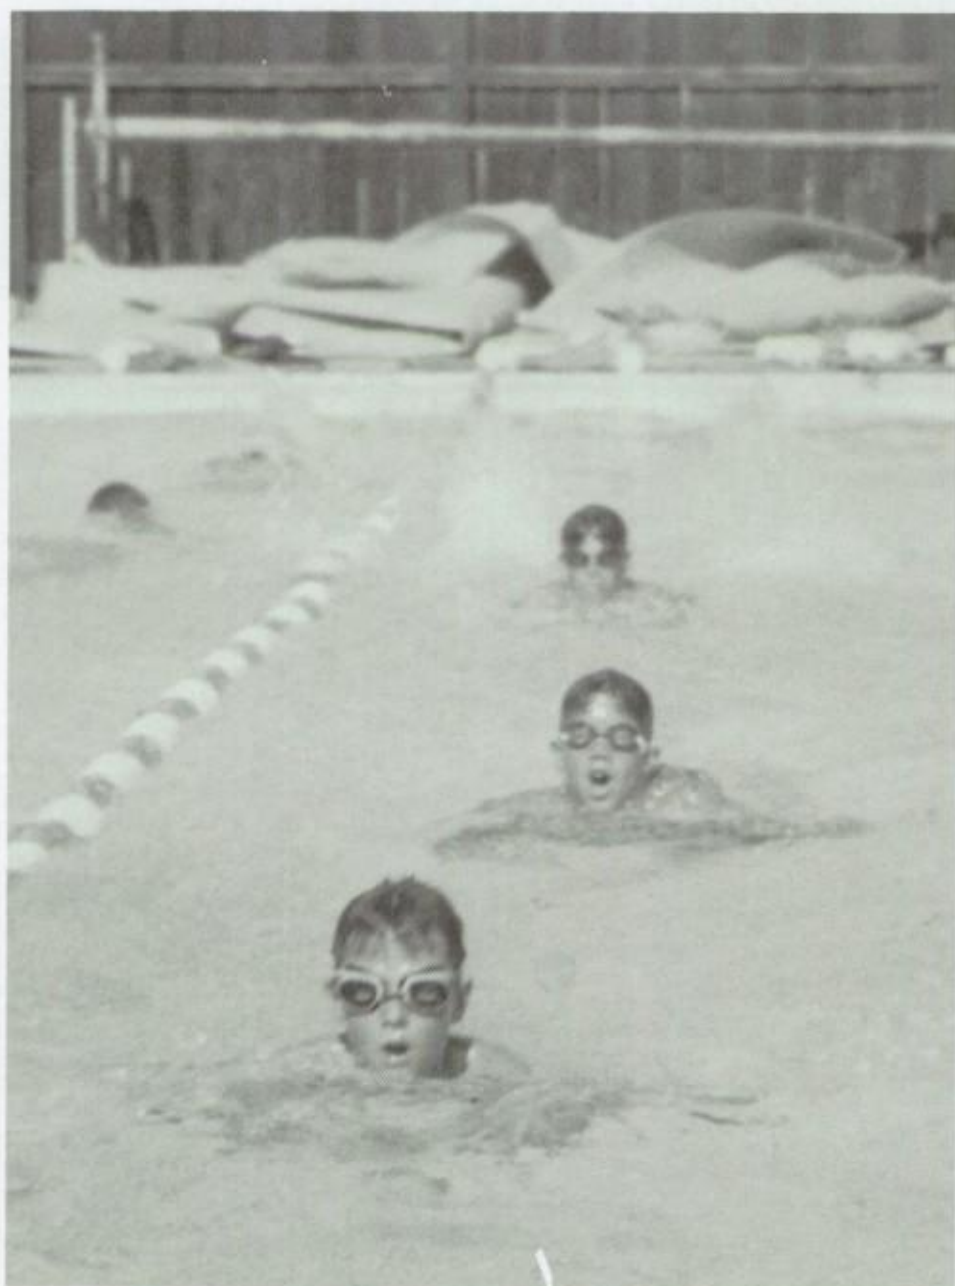

FROSH/SOPH SWIMMING

I could make some terrible jokes about the DEPTH of our Frosh-Soph SWIM Team. It might make a bad joke but it is true. Coach Lee Woods said, "It's really hard to name individuals since we have so many good swimmers." He also asked me not to make any comments about how the Team works as a team (Sorry, Lee). As a result of this teamwork, the team is undefeated at this point and has won its league.

Among the many outstanding members of the team are freshmen John Tann and Andrew Sacco, and sophomores Eric Launder, Greg Lendahl, and Chris Hamilton. Coach Woods only had one complaint. "It's hard to find competition at the frosh-soph level. Most teams don't have the depth to have good frosh-soph teams since their good freshmen and sophomores generally swim varsity." This seems to be a valid complaint since the team has yet to score less than 100 points (of a total of 179) in a meet.

VARSITY SWIMMING

The few, the proud, the SWIMMERS. (K. McKim, K. Rhodes, D. Sacco, M. Sacco)

If Coach Larry Rogers doesn't drown the Varsity Swim Team, their chances of winning the CCS seem pretty good. Once again, that word that you must be sick of, "depth" is the explanation for many of the Bells' victories. Though the team is relatively young, it is still strong across the board. Among the outstanding individuals were sophomore Mark Taliaferro in the butterfly, senior Kirk McKim in the breast stroke (No jokes, please!), senior Ken Rhodes in the back stroke, and sophomore Luis Niccolau in freestyle.

Though the team may be relatively young, it is not short of experienced leadership, namely Kirk McKim, Ken Rhodes, and Tom Popp. This combination of youth, depth and leadership seems to be paying off. The team has won its league championship, the Serra Relays for the fifth consecutive time, and hopes to have similar success in CCS competition. Their chances of taking the CCS crown seem quite promising as they have already defeated arch-nemesis Leland 98-81.

VARSITY TRACK AND...

FIELD

Once again, spring has sprung and we're off to the races — namely the 100, 200, mile, etc. As seems to be a trend among Bellarmine athletic teams, this is a young team with a lot of depth. This is a team with very few seniors and quite a few juniors, sophomores and, yes, even freshmen filling out the roster.

The main strength of the team is its lack of weaknesses (whatever that means). Even if an opposing team were to win an event, Bellarmine would likely get second and third to secure the remaining scoring positions. With members returning from the CCS champion cross country team, the distance events are not in great jeopardy. Leading the distance runners were senior Shane O'Flaherty, juniors Mark Callon, Ignacio Hernandez and Scott McKean, super-soph Scott Robinson, and freshman Torre Pena. In the 100 and 200, juniors Jeff Sundquist and Gregorio Druehl reigned supreme. In the 400, seniors Kenn Sturtz, Nick Chiotellis, and Jim McMahon led the pack. In the high hurdles, seniors Chris Wyland and Ron Caragher fought for the lead. In the 300m hurdles, juniors Gwynn Villegas, Rich Caccia, and Winston Wood scored well. Among the jumpers, senior Chris Wyland and juniors Bill Africa, Ed Matlack and Matt Consola were strong. Among the weight men, sophomore John Zilinkas and senior Vince Morello led the shotputters. Senior Brett Nicoletti, juniors Pat McMahon, Jeff Silva and sophomore Nick White led the discus throwers. Finally, juniors Dave Caputo and Brendan Burke led the pole vaulters.

The overall outlook is quite good. As Head Coach Terry Ward said, "In dual meets, we can probably take on just about any team in the CCS." The main competition for this team should come from Saint Ignatius, but the Bells are favored to win the WCAL.

JUNIOR VARSITY TRACK...

AND FIELD

Spring, the time when some young men's fancy turns to baseball, love, or the beach, is track season. This year, the Frosh/Soph team is as strong as ever. With such a strong varsity team, many of the members on the frosh/soph team would likely be on the varsity team at another school. In any case, this team will likely take the WCAL.

As has been the case in recent years, distance is the heart of this track team. Rob Meinhardt, Ian Champeny, and Kevin Verghe, all veterans of the WCAL cross country wars, lead the distance runners. Among the sprinters, sophomores Mike Barbaccia and Bob Allard and freshman John McClenahan stood out as the exceptional underclassmen. Next come those Banzai Runners of the track team — the hurdlers. Among these fearless beings are sophomores Mike Lodoen and Matt Carnahan. In the shot, there is sophomore Pete Fuqua. Among the jumpers are John McClenahan and sophomore Mark Gephert. Last, but not least, sophomores Jason Van Benthuyzen and Mitchell Dougherty collected points in the pole vault.

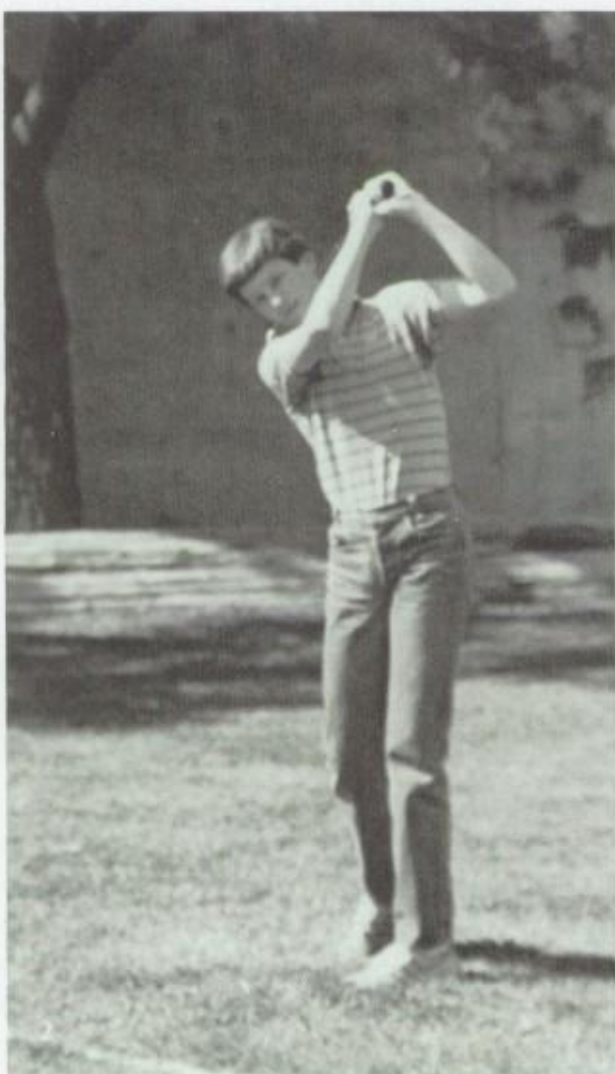

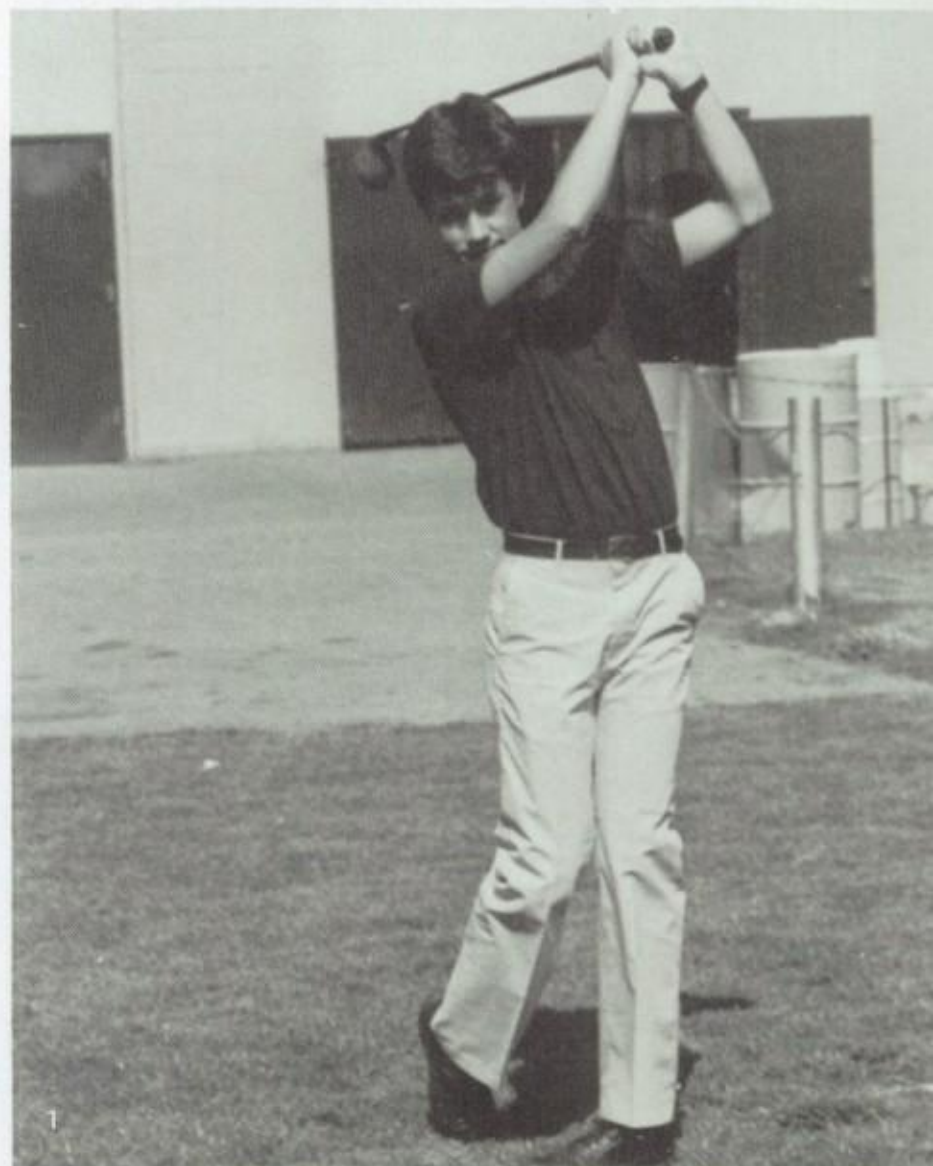

"PUTTING" ON THE GREEN

They slice, they drive, they hook, they putt. They're two teams in one. They're the 1985 Junior Varsity Golf Team. In an age where many schools are cutting their golf programs, our golf team is expanding. Though only seven compete in the matches, the team has expanded to include fifteen players with qualifying rounds held to determine just which players compete. This allows more students to enjoy the sport than would be possible with the traditional seven-man roster.

An additional benefit of the expanded roster is increased depth. Among the team's outstanding players are Chris Striebel, freshmen Blake Hirth, Dennis Ventry, and Mark Schwab, and juniors Chris Sins and Mark Rogers. This fifteen-man roster seems to be working since the team has won seven consecutive matches. As JV Coach John Hanna said, "In about two years we should have a REALLY good team."

2. "Oops! Where's my golf-club?" (M. Cady)
3. The JV Golf Team. 1st row left to right: T. Caslin, B. Hirth, J. Richardson, J. Maser, C. Striebel. 2nd row: Coach John Hanna, D. Ventry, M. Schwab, M. Cady.

THE "TEE"-MEN

Fore play, better known as golf, has been largely ignored by the Bellarmine student body. This is quite unfortunate since golf is one of the stronger sports at Bellarmine. As a matter of fact, it still is strong. The 1985 team, made up of four juniors and four seniors is currently fighting it out with Saint Francis for the league title.

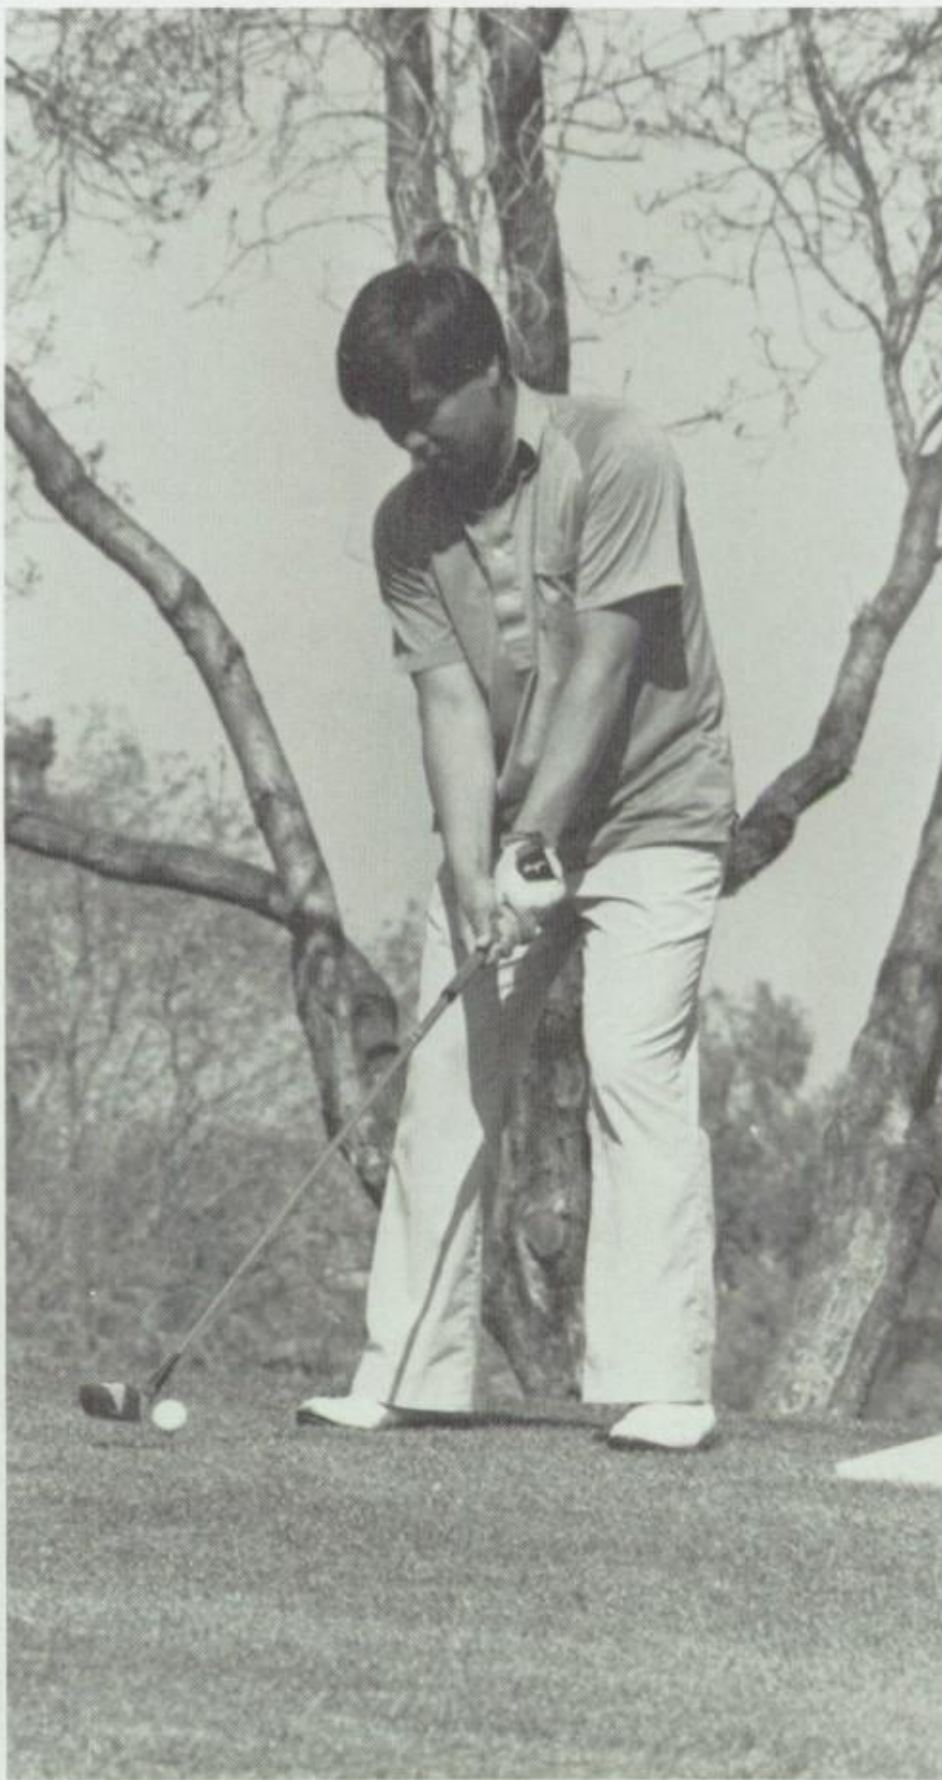

Like the Junior Varsity team, the Varsity team carries extra players and updates its active roster every three matches to insure that (a) we have the strongest team possible and (b) as many players as are qualified are able to play.

Consistency has been the key to this year's success. If a highly-ranked player would miss a match, the remaining players would pick up the slack. Among the seniors, Andy Santos and Chris Lowe set the pace, though Jason Hamada and Jack Jenkins also made great contributions. The up-and-coming juniors are Jeff Biggam, Jeff Curran, Kevin Clark and Pat Shea. Overall, the team's chances seem good. Even if the team doesn't qualify for the CCS tourney, the top individuals have a good chance of qualifying.

A NOTE FROM THE EDITOR

Every year, it is traditional that the Editor write a "note" thanking his whole staff and saying what a great time they had. Well, I'm glad to say that I don't plan to break tradition. Though the staff did have some rough edges, the core was smoother than a baby's bottom. I think the word "team," rather than staff, would be more appropriate in describing the bunch of characters working on the yearbook. Nobody ever ragged on anybody else (with the exception of everybody ragging on Steve Lucas), voices were usually kept below 90 decibels (with the exception of Francis Thomas who averaged a cool 135 decibels), and we never missed a deadline (with the exception of ... well, uh, nobody ever noticed).

First of all, I would like to thank God. Without His support, I would have definitely suffered a massive psychotic breakdown. The layout staff definitely deserves a big round of applause. The three editors were Derek Beebe, Pat Premo, and Steve Lucas. We carried a relatively concise staff, so these three almost single-handedly took on the challenge of creating 208 original pages.

Filling these pages with articles and captions was Alec Lee's task. Special guest appearances were often made by Cullen Agler and Bradford Salisbury. If anyone was offended by any articles or captions, these are the men to whom you should speak.

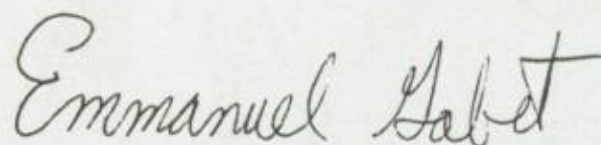

Where there were no articles, there were photographs and works of art. The fiery Francis Thomas, Dave Dowley, and Andrew Barber always made sure that there was plenty of quality pictures to choose from. Dedication and commitment was their middle name. Francis proved this point many times. Before going to a U2 concert, he said he would be back at 2 AM, after the concert to develop some film. He probably wasn't even conscious at 2 AM but it's the idea that counts. Filling the spaces that weren't occupied by photographs, articles, and "creative white space," was Art Editor, Dave Hall. Aided by Mark Tippin, they worked miracles with their pens. Masaki Karasuno also did some fine work as a photographer and an artist. He was always there when we needed him to shoot a quick roll of film or draw a masterpiece.

Leading the Business Department (and the FBI, IRS, and Mafia hit lists) was Chris Caruso. He was the only one on the staff who did not require adult supervision.

Speaking of adults, Jack Treacy, S.J. and Marcy Fox were the only ones allowed (or nuts enough) to come into the yearbook office and babysit us. Besides making sure that we were always on the right track, they always helped by doing odd little jobs; who do you think wrote in all of the page numbers? Thanks for everything, you two.

Well, I had initially planned to write a disclaimer but I am proud to have been part of this talented group. Many thanks to the editors and the other team members.
